Meyers Admits Speculation in U. S. War Bonds

Alleged Assurance Against a Loss Branded Lie by Morgenthau, Eccles

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, retired chief of the Army's materiel command, yesterday testified that he had plunged into a four-million-dollar speculation in Government bonds during the war.

He told the Senate War Investigating Committee that he had acted only after being assured by Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau and Federal Reserve Board Chairman Marriner S. Eccles, that this Government would not permit its bonds to go below par, and therefore he could not lose money.

Morgenthau and Eccles promptly branded the testimony "an outright lie."

Denies Loan Charge

The stocky, balding general insisted that he had never asked multimillionaire plane builder Howard Hughes, whose war contracts are under investigation, to loan him money for these speculations.

Hughes and Neil McCarthy, prominent Los Angeles attorney, and former Hughes vice president, have testified that Meyers asked for a loan of $200,000 to help finance his wartime purchases of Government bonds on margin. The request was made before Meyers had put his signature on a Government contract for 100 Hughes F-11 airplanes, according to the Hughes company executives.

Meyers, who has called the charge "a damnable lie" represented Hughes and McCarthy as pressing the $250,000 loan on him. He refused it, he said.

The hearing into Hughes' contract was adjourned until Saturday in order to give McCarthy time to get here from the West Coast.

Another Phase Today

Subcommittee Chairman Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) announced the committee would take up another phase of wartime airplane procurement today. He said it had nothing to do with Hughes, but declined to comment on whether or not the study involved Meyers, a top policy-making officer in procurement for the Army Air Forces.

Before Meyers left the stand he had involved Lieut. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, wartime deputy chief of Air Force, into the tangled story of his attempted dealings with Hughes.

Meyers said Hughes asked him early this year to intercede with Eaker to overrule a Wright Field decision that Hughes would not be allowed to flight test the F-11 plane he had built for the Army Air Forces.

When he refused, he said, Hughes went direct to Eaker who obtained the necessary clearance.

As soon as Eaker retired, Meyers said, he was employed by the Hughes Tool Co.

Ferguson disclosed that Meyers had refused to testify on this point in an executive session last month after his counsel, John Amen, had

Gen. Meyers Won Wings in World War I

Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, retired Air Forces officer, who has been clashing with Howard Hughes before a Senate subcommittee this week, entered the Army in 1918, after serving as a messenger boy, bookkeeper and night student at the University of California.

As to his age, authoritative sources differ. The Army List and Directory, and Meyers' official Army biography list him as having been born in Buffalo March 29, 1895. Who's Who says he was born March 29, 1897, as did an Associated Press account of his third marriage in 1943.

He won his wings before the Armistice and entered the Regular Army in 1920. After handling surplus property activities in Detroit and Buffalo, Meyers was sent to Hawaii. There he served as an intelligence officer and as pilot with a bombardment squadron.

In 1927, he began the first of a series of assignments at Wright Field, Ohio, center of Air Forces' procurement. Meyers attended the Army Industrial College here in 1929-30 and went back to Wright Field. In the '30s he was sent to Babson Institute, where he was valedictorian of his class.

Back at Wright Field, he became executive of the Air Service Command and later budget officer. In 1940, Meyers came here as assistant executive and later deputy assistant chief of staff to the Chief of Air Corps. He became a brigadier general in 1942, and a major general in 1944 when he returned to Wright Field as chief of the Air Materiel Command. Later he was director of the Air Technical Service Command. Meyers was retired August 31, 1945 for physical disability.

Mental Cases Are Shackled At Gallinger

More Help Needed, Doctors' Conference Tells Commissioner

Psychiatric patients are shackled to their beds at Gallinger Hospital because of lack of trained personnel hospital officials said yesterday.

Dr. Joseph L. Gilbert, chief Gallinger psychiatrist and District alienist, said personnel qualified to operate such treatment as hydrotherapy had left the hospital during the war and never returned.

He made these statements at a conference of health and hospital officials with Commissioner Guy Mason on means of improving Gallinger's service to psychiatric patients.

Surprise visitor at the meeting was Representative A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.), head of the House District Subcommittee on health, education and recreation, who had personally inspected the hospital earlier in the day.

Miller, who is a licensed physician as well as a Representative, said the hospital in general is excellent but that the psychiatric ward needs paint and cleaning up "from stem to stern."

Miller told a reporter before the meeting that the psychiatric ward was short of help.

"Psychiatric patients are unusual in that they are likely to do anything," he pointed out. "As long as you have institutions without enough help, it isn't unusual to use restraints for psychiatric patients, because it is necessary to prevent the patient from injuring either himself or others."

These sentiments were echoed by Dr. Addison M. Duval, chief of staff at St. Elizabeths Hospital. "You have to use restraint if you don't have the personnel," he said.

Dr. Gilbert said it was impossible to fill many of the jobs already authorized at the hospital. Applicants in many cases do not meas-

Psychiatrist Tells Mothers to Forget Baby Schedules

New York, Nov. 12 (AP).—Abandonment of rigid, coercive schedules of baby care can contribute to mental health of both baby and mother, Dr. Milton J. E. Senn told the annual meeting of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene today.

Senn, associate professor of pediatrics in psychiatry at Cornell University Medical College and New York Hospital, declared it is vital to have better inter-personal relationships between child and mother and other family members, through a more human management of mother and baby, as exemplified by less coercive and rigid methods of feeding and other care.

...hest Goal Is Reported 41% Realized

General Meeting Record Established; Gifts Pledged Total $1,615,398

The 1948 Community Chest campaign in Greater Washington has reached 41.24 per cent of its goal of $3,900,000.

Edward H. Foley, jr., campaign chairman announced total gifts of $1,615,398 yesterday at the first general report meeting at the Chamber of Commerce. He pointed out that the sum was the largest ever reported at a single report meeting.

About 450 Chest campaign workers attended the luncheon meeting, the first in a series of eight daily report sessions.

Chairman of eight of the nine campaign units reported on the total contributions to date. The Fairfax County unit did not report.

Totals by Units

Totals reported were: Business Unit 1, $530,532, about 35 per cent of its goal; Business Unit 2, $6099, about 4 per cent of goal; Government Unit, $848,348, about 62 per cent; Residential Unit, $170,186, about 31 per cent; Alexandria Unit, $24,103, about 41 per cent; Arlington County, $5825, about 11 per cent; Montgomery County, $17,670, about 14 per cent, and Prince Georges, $12,635, for about 28 per cent.

Undersecretary of the Navy W. John Kenney, chairman of the Government unit, presented a detailed analysis of his unit's standings. Over 20 Federal offices, he pointed out, have already oversubscribed their goals, some by as much as 20 per cent.

Ranking as the top in the Government unit were the State Department, with 93 per cent; Navy, with 90 per cent, and Treasury, with 89 per cent. At the bottom Justice had a 26 per cent subscription, with Commerce next with 50 per cent.

Gen. Lanham Speaks

Featured speaker at yesterday's meeting was Brig. Gen. Charles T. Lanham, chief of the Troop Information and Education Division, Army Special Staff. Lanham spoke on the serviceman and the Community Chest.

"The success or failure of the Community Chest campaign," he declared, "will be determined by you foot soldiers who go from door to door."

Invocation was delivered by the Rev. Oscar F. Blackwelder, pastor of the Church of the Reformation. The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. Glee Club sang a brief program.

Mrs. Narciso Ramos, wife of the Minister-Counselor of the Republic of the Philippines, will be guest speaker at today's progress report meeting at the Chamber of Commerce at 12:15. Mrs. Ramos, whose husband is a former member of the Philippine House of Representatives, has done volunteer public welfare work on the island of Luzon.

Today has been designated "Child Care Day" by the Chest Federation, and the special gifts unit of the soliciting groups will make a detailed report.

W. Va. High Court Bars Divorce for Incompatibility

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 12—(AP). The West Virginia Supreme Court ruled out incompatibilitp as grounds for divorce by declaring that "marriage is not a status that should be approached under the belief that if a person does not like it he can quit."

The unanimous opinion was delivered yesterday in reversing a Harrison County Circuit Court decree granting Hallie L. Harbert a divorce from his wife, Lulu, on charges of cruel and inhuman treatment.

The opinion, written by Judge Jo N. Kenna, found that while "the record shows beyond peradventure that these persons are unhappily married and they likely can never get along together, we cannot say this record shows her conduct toward her husband has been cruel and inhuman. Incompatibility as between husband and wife is no ground for divorce."

Decision Deferred After Hearing

Transfer of 5 White Schools For Negroes' Use Protested

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

Nearly 300 persons, both Negroes and white, jammed into the Franklin School building yesterday at a hearing on protests against the transfer for Negro use of five white schools.

A committee of the Board of Education, which had expected to take action on the proposed transfer, voted to consider the matter further in the face of the overwhelming opposition voiced by those present.

"We had not anticipated so much opposition," Mrs. Philip Sidney Smith, chairman of the board's committee on building and grounds and presiding officer at the hearing, declared.

On two occasions when the question of segregation in the schools was injected into the hearing, Mrs. Smith was forced to pound the table with a gavel to bring the hearing back to order.

"That is not the issue," Mrs. Smith said.

She explained that the question was whether 3301 Negro students

Communists Wreck Milan Newspaper And Party Offices

Milan, Italy, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Communist mobs, surging through the streets of Italy's second largest city in thousands, wrecked a Monarchist newspaper plant and the headquarters of the right-wing Common Man Party today.

They were driven back in attacks on the newspaper organ of the Catholic Church and on a police station.

The Communists turned out twice during the day—first in protest against their casualties in brawls with rightitsts which are spreading rapidly throughout Italy, again late today after a time bomb had exploded in their headquarters.

All shops closed before nightfall. Traffic was blocked in many areas as Communists raced through the streets in trucks. Every man the police could muster was now on duty. American Press Association and newspaper buildings, including that of the Communist units, were under heavy police guard. All persons entering them were searched.

The Communists opened their attacks by wrecking the headquarters of the Common Man Party and attacking the Catholic Church newspaper organ, Italia, where police held them back.

After the bomb exploded in their headquarters, the Communists tried to storm the Via Fate Fratelli police station in the center of the city to rescue five Communists held for taking part in morning riots.

Driven back by a three-row cordon of heavily armed carabinieri,

16 Hurt in City Hall Fighting Before Police Eject Mob

Marseille, France, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Communist-led mobs stormed the City Hall and Palace of Justice today, beat the mayor—a follower of Gen. Charles De Gaulle—and seized control of his office.

Sixteen persons, including the Mayor and eight city councilmen were injured in fighting in the City Hall before police reserves ejected the Communists.

An American flag, which hung from a balcony of the City Hall in commemoration of Armistice Day, was pulled down and torn to pieces.

Police reinforcements were reported en route from all surrounding towns tonight to maintain order in France's second largest city and greatest seaport.

Seeking revenge for the election of Mayor Jacques Carlini on the De Gaulist ticket in the recent elections, a mob under Communist Leader Jean Cristofol invaded the City Hall at the close of the first session of the new municipal council.

Members of the crowd ranged through the building, seeking the mayor and other members of the De Gaullist rally of the people on the council.

Attacking Carlini in his private office, the invaders beat him and several others.

Cristofol established himself in the mayor's office as members of the mob wrecked furniture in several offices.

Police and gendarmes rescued the mayor and members of the

Suspects Identified By Victims in Hospital; Automobile Recovered

Two youths, nabbed by alert police in a D st. rooming house early last night were "positively" identified as the pair who beat, robbed and abducted a middle-aged Washington couple Monday night.

Police say both the suspects admit robbery and abduction of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jones, 3334 Blaine st. ne.

One of the men also was identified by Paul S. Allen, 47, of Baltimore, Md., who was shot in the thigh and robbed of his billfold Monday night.

Find Revolver in Room

Held for investigation and possible identification in other armed robberies are:

Charles William Taylor, 21, a porter, and Russell Leon Perry, jr., 21-year-old laborer, both of 212 D st. nw.

Two plainclothesmen who had been watching the rooming house saw Taylor and Perry go in early last night. They called five men from the robbery squad, Det. Sergts. Donald R. Webber, Thomas Harty and Reuben Nichols and Pvts. Richard W. Mower and Miller Dixon.

Police said a .38-caliber revolver, answering the description of the gun used in the Jones case, was found in their fifth-floor room.

Automobile Found

Meanwhile, the Jones automobile in which the two men fled after Jones and his wife had leaped out of it, was found by police in a parking lot between 2d and 3d and F and G sts. nw.

Within a short time after their arrest, Taylor and Perry were taken to Casualty Hospital, where the Joneses and Allen are recovering from their injuries. Both Jones and his wife were "positive" in their identification. Allen identified only Perry, but police did not disclose whether he was identified as the man who shot him.

Anti-Red Alliance Urged By De Gaulle

United States, Britain Asked to Join France Against Communism

Paris, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle today called on France, the United States and Britain to join forces against world communism and prepare against the possibility of a new war.

Speaking at a press conference policed by members of his Rally of the French People (RPF), De Gaulle said communism was a greater threat to France's existence than any power had been in history, including Adolf Hitler's Germany.

"The threat is all the greater because it (a Communist Party) exists within our own state," De Gaulle told some 200 foreign newspapermen.

Asked whether he considered a third world war inevitable, De Gaulle replied:

"A new war is a possibility. This is all—but we must face that possibility and prepare for it."

Despite strong Communist opposition to the RPF, De Gaulle said that he believed the party could take power in an orderly fashion, without causing civil war.

"I do not believe that public opinion in this country is directed toward civil war or armed violence," he declared. "But, if it must come, force must remain on the side of the law."

Discussing world communism, he said: "It is natural that those who are menaced should organize against the worst eventualities. That is why we must have complete agreement with other powers, such as the United States and Britain, in the form of a treaty which would be concrete and broad and in which each should have its own advantage and make its own contribution, not as beggars but as equals . . .

"It is France, as the most threatened nation, that should take the initiative in such an alliance."

He reaffirmed France's traditional opposition to a strong Germany and urged a federation of German states under Big Four control, with the Ruhr under constant Allied supervision.

Dozen Varieties of Drunks Are Listed by Police Chief

Hawthorne, N. J., Nov. 12 (AP).—Police Chief Ryan Vandervalk today told members of the men's club of the St. Clement's Episcopal Church that there are 12 different kinds of drunks that police have to handle.

They are:

1. The Leaning Drunk—wants to lean on something or somebody.
2. The Singing Drunk—harmless, but a nuisance.
3. The Crying Drunk—always wants to weep on some convenient shoulder.
4. The Running Drunk—half runs and half staggers as he goes.
5. The Fighting Drunk—gets nasty after a few drinks and wants to fight everyone.
6. The Wifebeating Drunk—always wants to fight with his wife.
7. The Charitable Drunk—gives away money or anything else he has with him.
8. The Religious Drunk—heads for the nearest church and goes to sleep.
9. The Suspicious Drunk—always suspicious of someone.
10. The Talking Drunk—always wants to make a speech.
11. The Important Drunk—feels important and knows all the important people.
12. The Loving Drunk—wants to hug and kiss every woman he meets.

Corn Crop Estimate Cut 11 Million Bu.

Planting of Winter Wheat Kept to 70% Of Normal by Plains Drought, U. S. Says

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

A 1947 corn crop 11 million bushels under the optimistic estimate of last month was forecast yesterday by the Department of Agriculture.

At the same time, gloomy prospects were held out for the 1948 yield of winter wheat, upon which a large part of the world must depend for food. Drought in six Great Plains States, which produce three fourths of all the Nation's wheat, has held planting to 70 per cent of normal, with the outcome of winter wheat already in the ground uncertain.

The total wheat crop for this year was estimated at 1406 million bushels, the same as in October. This figure is an all-time high but two million bushels under the September estimate.

Production of all grains this year, the department estimated, will total about 142 million tons. Of this amount, 45 million tons will be grains for human consumption, largest production of this type in history. Feed grains, however, will amount to only 97.5 tons, half a million under the October estimate which has the lowest in six years.

Aggregate of All Crops Good

Production of all crops, the forecast revealed, will be little affected by changes which have occurred in many of them, and will fall only 1 per cent below the average of the five "excellent" years of 1942-1946.

One slight note of optimism with respect to the short corn crop was held out in the statement that "a significant improvement in quality and feeding value resulted from the extended growing and curing season." Nevertheless, this year's yield is estimated at only 2447 million bushels as against 3287 last year, while the yield per acre was estimated to have dropped from 37 bushels to 29.

In addition, the corn supply will be adversely affected by the "disappearance" of 429 million bushels reported last October 1 for the preceding three months. This reported "disappearance" referred to a lowering of stocks on hand through heavier feeding to livestock and greater purchases by industrial users.

Drought Cuts Wheat Estimate

Winter wheat prospects were unpromising due to prolonged drought in the Great Plains areas of western Kansas, northwestern Oklahoma, the Texas Panhandle and much of New Mexico.

"No general rains have fallen," the report stated, "since the beginning of the fall seeding season over a considerable portion of the southern Great Plains . . . probably not over three fourths of the intended winter wheat acreage was seeded by November 1 in the six States of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado and New Mexico, where normally seeding would be largely completed. During the latter part of October considerable acreage in this area was seeded in the dust . . .

"In general, growth in this six-State area is very uneven and much less advanced than usual."

'Generally Unfavorable'

In much of the area, the report said, "present prospects are generally unfavorable with conditions ranging from wheat lying unsprouted in the dust to some fields up to good stands, particularly where favored by recent rains. In much of this area the first 2 to 8 inches of topsoil is usually dry."

Other winter wheat areas, which produce but a small fraction of the total annual yield, were in much better condition. The Pacific Northwest was exceptionally favored and planting in the North Central

Budget Size a Factor

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

A group of prominent and progressive-minded businessmen proposed yesterday a double-barreled approach to economic stability, through a new Federal budget policy and a plan of tax reform and reduction.

The proposal, which contemplates an immediate tax reduction of about six billion dollars, and an ultimate cut of about 15 billion dollars by the early 1950's, was broached by the Committee for economic development.

The program, contained in a 70-page volume titled "Taxes and the Budget," is the result of a four-year study of the CED's research and policy committee. It was released jointly by the CED chairman, Paul C. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker Corp., and the research group's head, Raymond Rubicam, New York advertising executive.

In its tax reduction recommendations, the CED obviously favored prompt action and, in fact, scheduled a plan in detail to take effect next year. But it carefully hedged its suggestion with a consideration of the inflationary situation.

Reductions should be made for 1948, it said, "unless inflationary conditions make this unwise." President Truman and his Council of Economic Advisers have consistently objected to tax reductions at this time, on grounds that they would create additional money in the hands of consumers.

Secretary Changes Tactics

Smiling Marshall Sees Press, Readily Answers Questions

Secretary Marshall yesterday submitted to half an hour of rapid-fire questions at a press conference and answered most of them crisply, easily and willingly.

A week ago, at his regular press conference, he stone-walled questioners with what seemed to be his old military manner. Yesterday he sat, relaxed and smiling, on a table in the front of the State Department's auditorium and responded affably. He did his best to explain the background of certain answers, and once went off the record with an explanation rather than refuse an answer.

The auditorium was so crowded for yesterday's conference that once the secretary strode down the aisle so he could hear a question fired at him from the back of the room.

He showed no strain in spite of having spent almost two hours in the morning answering questions from the House Foreign Affairs Committee on his third consecutive day on Capitol Hill.

He did admit, however, that his head was so stuffed with figures on the European recovery program that he could not longer trust his memory on all of them, but wanted to check them with his aides.

Marshall Urges Stopgap Relief Vote by Nov. 30

U. S. Can Bear Stopgap Cost, Harriman Says

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

Secretary of Commerce Harriman assured the Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday that the United States could send 597 million dollars of stopgap relief supplies to Europe this winter without straining the American economy.

His testimony was a postscript to last week's report by his 19-man committee of private citizens, which outlined what the United States could "safely and wisely" supply to Europe in a four-year recovery program.

Two conditions would have to be fulfilled, Secretary Harriman said, if the winter supplies are to be moved without trouble. The first was the utmost possible conservation of wheat at home and the second was the extension of export controls beyond their expiration date of next February 29.

Questioning by Senators Lodge (R., Mass.) and George (D., Ga.) showed that they were anxious to have supplies for Europe bought wherever possible in foreign countries because of supply shortages in the United States.

Senator Lodge pointed to the Navy's announced shortage of oil and asked whether the 35 million dollars worth of petroleum shipments proposed in the stopgap program could not be obtained elsewhere. Harriman assured him that a large part of the scheduled shipments would come from outside the country.

Senator George was worried about the shortage of nitrogen for fertilizer, compared to present

Italy's Pipelines Of Relief to Be Dry By Dec. 1, He Says; Quizzed on China

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

A November 30 "deadline" for congressional passage of the 597-million-dollar interim aid program was set yesterday by Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

Marshall told the House Foreign Affairs Committee Italy's relief pipelines will run dry by December 1. He said France and Austria need help by December 31.

"We would have to vote on the emergency program in November?" asked Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas (D., Calif.).

"That would be my thought," replied Marshall.

Quizzed on China

He said legislative action on the long-range, 16-nation recovery program should be completed by "early March."

Marshall, backed up by Undersecretary, Robert A. Lovett and Lewis W. Douglas, Ambassador to Britain, appeared before the House group to urge speedy interim aid action, but was pressed hardest on an unrelated question—300 million dollars in proposed assistance to China.

The Secretary, who used the China figure during Senate hearings Tuesday, told a press conference it was nothing but a rough estimate, on the spur of the moment.

As a matter of fact, he said the proposed 20 million dollars a month for 15 months for China, starting April 1, 1948, has not yet been cleared by other governmental agencies involved. He said he hoped to have an Administration-approved proposal to relieve chaotic inflation in China before Congress meets in regular session in January.

He told the House committee substantially the same thing, but it didn't check vigorous questioning by members. This continued until Chairman Charles A. Eaton (R., N. J.) ruled the subject "exhausted."

Marshall declined to disclose details of the China aid plan, but said:

"What we have in mind very briefly is in relation to their import program overseas, outside China, to see what can be done toward a stay of execution in the deterioration of their monetary situation."

Military Question

He said the proposed aid would "give them a chance, with reasonable action on their part, and very energetic action on their part, to take some action toward restoring the financial situation."

Representative Walter H. Judd (R., Minn.), former medical missionary to China, insisted something would have to be done to meet the 70 to 80 per cent military drain on China's budget.

"That, of course, is the destructive factor," agreed Marshall. "The problem is how to deal with that."

Would the aid proposal deal with this "root of the China problem?" Judd asked.

"It probably will not," said Marshall. "That will have to be something else."

The China questioning was cut off by Eaton, after objections by Representative Sol Bloom (D., N. Y.) that the Secretary "does not want to get into a controversy with reference to China."

Marshall had just told Judd: "I do not wish to get into criticism of the Chinese government in this hearing."

Wedemeyer Report

Nonetheless, questioning later returned to China when Representative James G. Fulton (R., Pa.) asked when a report made by Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, after a trip to the Orient last summer, would be released.

"I don't know that it will be released," said Marshall. "I don't think it is in the best interest of the Chinese government or our Government to release it."

Marshall said it might be possible to publish some portions, but Wedemeyer went to China to provide him with information and "in international affairs of this kind you can't spread everything on the table."

Fulton inquired if Congress

President Confers On Aid and Prices

Chief Executive Sees Representatives Of Agriculture, Industry and Labor

President Truman, preparing the message on foreign aid and high prices he will present in person to Congress Monday, conferred yesterday with representatives of agriculture, industry and labor.

Among those with whom Mr. Truman talked were M. W. Thatcher, head of the National Federation of Grain Cooperatives, and several of his associates; Earl O. Shreve, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce; and CIO President Philip Murray. Earlier this week he talked with William Green, president of the AFL, and Earl Bunting, president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

The President will address a joint session of Congress in the chamber of the House at 1:30 p. m. Monday.

Upon leaving the White House yesterday, Thatcher told newsmen Mr. Truman had said he would "look into" the use of purchase certificates as a means of getting grain to the market. Thatcher said his organization had recommended the plan, which was used successfully a year ago in connection with European famine relief.

Under it the Government would issue certificates for wheat which farmers could redeem at the prevailing market price during the current year or the following year. If the plan were made effective January 1, Thatcher said, the wheat farmer could redeem his certificates for cash when he chose for income tax purposes.

He said he and his associates also recommended:

1. Continuance of present export controls but without re-establishment of domestic allocations of agricultural products.

2. Acceptance by the United States of its "major responsibility" to meet the needs of hungry people abroad and to help "stabilize world economic and political conditions."

3. That no price controls be established on selected farm products but is "ceilings become necessary," they be established "for the whole economy."

4. Support by the President of farm cooperatives.

5. Continuing emphasis on programs to reduce food waste.

In another move directed at aid to Europe, the White House announced yesterday that the Army had been asked to lease an ordnance plant in Texas in order to double its output of nitrogen for fertilizer. The plant, the Cactus Ordnance Works at Etter, Tex., now produces 60,000 tons of nitrogen a year.

Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman said the lessee must agree to double this capacity by construction of new facilities. Bids, he said, were being asked on the basis of a 20-year lease with prior claim to all nitrogen produced secured to the Government.

From another direction, plans were being furthered to save 56 million bushels of grain now being fed to poultry. Representatives of the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council, the International Baby Chick Association and the National Poultry Producers Association will meet here Friday to discuss means of meeting its pledge to save grain as a result of ending poultryless Thursdays.

Dr. Alfred Van Wagenen, acting managing director of the Northeastern organization, said poultrymen must:

1. Reduce hatch of chicks for broilers by one third below last year's levels in the next 90 days.

2. Send roughly one hen out of every five now on farms to market by December 31.

U. S. Can Bear Stopgap Cost, Harriman Tells Senators

American demands. The Secretary told him there was "elbow room" for sending some nitrogen from the United States, especially since it was urgently necessary to build up European food production quickly.

Harriman drew the following picture of the supply situation here in relation to the 597-million-dollar stopgap aid program:

GRAIN—Stopgap relief shipments will have no new impact on domestic markets, because the grain earmarked for France, Italy and Austria has already been includede in the over-all goals for shipment abroad.

COAL—The total of 2,065,000 tons to be provided for France, Italy and Austria is "substantially less" than exports to those countries in recent months.

NITROGEN—The 14-million-dollars worth to be sent to Europe under the stopgap relief program represents less than 5 per cent of present American supply, "but coming in the month when domestic demand is at a peak, such shipments would create a special problem." The European needs can be met partly by shipments from other producing countries.

COTTON AND MEDICAL SUPPLIES—The proposed relief shipments will create no supply problem.

Under questioning from Senator Vandenberg, Harriman said the Communist control of French labor unions was "a very serious matter."

"The Communist leaders look upon things from the standpoint of politics rather than the welfare of their members," he said. "I don't think we should minimize the fact that we may have difficulties in both France and Italy. It is possible for labor leaders, when they have the power, to create strikes and other difficulties."

"It is my impression," Senator Vandenberg remarked, "that the proposed bilateral agreements with those governments would bring home to the native populations the responsibility they bear for internal conditions."

Hoarding Problem

Harriman agreed that the receiving governments should be required to set production targets for themselves.

"Beyond that," the Secretary said, "I don't think we should interfere. If we do more, it would react against our program, because we all know the revulsion that comes from too much outside interference."

Senator Wiley (R., Wis.) was worried about the hoarding of gold and dollars in France, which Harriman said "might well be several billion dollars."

"We want to be a Good Samaritan but not an Uncle Sap; we've been that for a long time," said the Wisconsin Senator.

"I don't know of any way that money can be brought out of hoarding except by creating confidence in the currency," Harriman replied. "As for the hoarding of food, it's perfectly possible under a dictatorship to shoot farmers if they hoard food, but we believe in a different system."

Work Praised

Later in the hearing Senator Lodge wanted to know how much steel the Europeans intended to use for housing and how much for other purposes. Richard Bissell, executive secretary of the Harriman committee, replied that the 16-nation European committee would submit figures on the exact uses of the American supplies before Congress was asked to act on the long-term recovery program.

Senator Vandenberg praised the work of the Harriman committee as being "as devoted a piece of public service as I have ever seen." He said its report not only showed tremendous industry but "a profound devotion to the task and to the directive given by the President."

U. S. Sending Poland 100 Locomotives

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

A hundred American locomotives will be ready in a few weeks to haul Polish coal and grain to western Europe.

The engines came out of a 40-million-dollar loan given Poland by the Export-Import Bank, with Government approval, 18 months ago.

Th first shipment—29 engines with their tenders—will leave Weehawken, N. J., next week on the Norwegian freighter Beljeanne. Another 33 are due to leave the following week, and the rest, with two big track cranes, will be shipped in December.

The locomotives are standard gauge, useful for freight or passenger trains. They will fit Polish and European roadbeds, but not the wide-gauge Russian railroads. The engines cost 12 million dollars and are to be followed by about 28 million dollars worth of freight cars and other rail equipment.

With the output of their own mines far below the prewar level, the countries of western Europe—France, Italy, The Netherlands and Scandinavia—and the Balkans still look to the Untied States for much of the coal they must have to build up their own industry to a self-sustaining level. The Marshall Plan aims to meet part of this need with coal from Poland, where rich veins yield a large surplus for export.

The rebuilding of the Polish coal industry more than a year ago ran ahead of the means of transport and the Export-Import Bank made the Polish Provisional government a loan of 40 million dollars to buy rolling stock in this country. The terms were the same as those given other European countries in 1945 and 1946—3 per cent interest, with the loan to be paid back in 20 years, by half-yearly instalments starting in 1951.

Bids wree asked when the loan was announced, on April 24, 1946. The Export-Import Bank announcement at the time said it was hoped some of the rolling stock could be shipped in time to haul Polish coal late in 1946. Building the engines took more than a year, however.

The idea of cutting off the loan, or blocking the shipments because of the stand the present Polish government takes on the Marshall Plan was derided by experts. They said European recovery—the success of the Marshall Plan—depends in part on coal from Poland. To upset the deal, one man said, "would be cutting off our nose to spite our face."

Conservation Days Backed By Churches

Tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday were designated as "Conservation Days" by the District Commissioners yesterday.

On those days, pastors of all District churches will ask their congregations to reaffirm their pledges to conserve food for the starving persons of the world.

The action was taken on a request by Father Jerome E. Winter, pastor of St. Stephen's Church; Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, and Rabbi Solomon H. Metz, head of the Adas Israel Congregation.

The Commissioners' proclamation urged the congregations to "subscribe wholeheartedly to the program dedicated to this great humanitarian effort . . . and thus insure the inalienable right of freedom from want which is the heritage of all people."

Tonight at 8, the Rev. Fred S. Buschmeyer of Mount Pleasant Congregational Church will discuss the relief needs of Europe in a meeting at the Commerce Department auditorium sponsored by the Washington Area Relief Mobilization. The WARM clothing drive is now in progress.

Dr. Buschmeyer, who is also chairman of the executive committee of the Congregational-Christian Church in America, recently returned from Europe. Rabbi Harry Silverstone will give the benediction and a new documentary film, "This Road We Walk," will be shown.

Bread and Butter No Longer For Free in House Restaurant

A roll and butter now costs a nickel in the House restaurant at the Capitol.

This new charge was on the menu for the first time when the restaurant reopened for business yesterday.

Prices of a majority of items were unchanged, but beer was 25 cents a bottle, up a nickel since the restaurant closed, and the $1.50 steak order brought an 8-ounce minute steak instead of the former 10-ounce sirloin.

Restaurant Manager W. A. Brockwell said other items were up from 5 to 15 cents.

Meanwhile, Capitol Architect David Lynn said the remodeled Senate restaurant in the Capitol would probably open by Saturday, and surely by Monday.

Camp Lee Soldier Drowns on Fishing Trip

Petersburg, Va., Nov. 12 (AP).—A Camp Lee soldier drowned and another was rescued yesterday afternoon when a boat from which they were fishing capsized in Blackwater River near Dendron.

The drowning victim whose body was later recovered was Master Sergt. Donald C. Shasser, 29, of Denton, Md. (no street address available), who had been stationed at Camp Lee since January.

The other soldier in the boat was Capt. Harold Hafer, who was saved by Joseph S. Bage, a civilian employe at the camp.

Middle East Oil Held Vital to U. S.

Security and Peace Depend on Keeping It From Unfriendly Hands, Says State Aide

New York, Nov. 12 (AP).—Loy W. Henderson, a top State Department policy-maker, said today that the fate of three continents depends on keeping the oil fields of the Middle East out of the hands of an "unfriendly great power."

Without saying so directly, he made it plain he had Russia in mind.

"It is clearly in the interests of our own national security and in those of world peace that there should be no aggression in this area," Henderson said.

He is director of the State Department's office of Near Eastern and African Affairs. In an address prepared for the Academy of Political Science he asserted that "Middle Eastern oil represents the lifeblood of the industry and transport not only of southern Asia and of Africa but also of the Europe of the future."

"An unfriendly foreign power in possession of these reserves would be in a position to hamper, if not prevent, the rehabilitation of western Europe and to retard the economic development of Africa and southern Asia," he said.

"In view of their economic and strategic importance the Middle East and southeast Europe are prizes most tempting to an aggressive and ambitious great power.

"Such a power might well be able, if once in possession of the strategic and economic resources of this area, to decide the destinies of at least three continents and to cast a dark shadow over the whole world for many years to come."

Henderson said "it is becoming increasingly clear that international communism has the aim of bringing about situations in the countries of the Middle East and in Greece likely to lead to a weakening of the ability of these countries to resist Communist pressure and penetration."

But the peoples of the Middle East, he said, are becoming increasingly aware of the true nature of communism and are being bolstered in their resistance by the United Nations and the United States.

Shortage of Fuel This Winter Predicted

Chicago, Nov. 12 (AP).—Oscar L. Chapman, Undersecretary of the Interior, predicted today the oil industry will be unable to meet the Nation's fuel needs this winter and that demands for Government controls will result.

He recommended continued Government-industry cooperation to lessen the impact of shortages and head off such demands.

In an address prepared for delivery to the American Petroleum Institute, Chapman said he is opposed to Government controls "as a matter of policy and on the grounds of practicality."

Calling upon petroleum producers to provide oil and gasoline for the armed forces and other Government bodies, utilities, farms, homes, industries and private consumers, Chapman said:

"Every one of these is an industry function. The Government does not produce oil or make or distribute products, nor should it."

Huge Increase in Demand

Chapman said the 1948 domestic demand for petroleum will be 5,700,000 barrels a day, 67 per cent above the 1938 total, and total demand outside the United States will be 3,300,000 barrels a day, compared with 2,127,000 in 1938.

Recently, he said, an interdepartmental committee predicted that daily United States demand would reach 6 million barrels and daily world demand 10 million barrels by 1951.

"Already, less than three months later, that estimate seems too low," Chapman said.

"This winter, for the first time in its peacetime history, the oil industry will be unable to meet the full petroleum needs of the American people."

Chapman said that while most persons will be able to fill their requirements, "even 1 per cent of our population is nearly a million and a half people—and a million and a half people chilly or out of work for lack of fuel oil, even for short periods, or unable to harvest their crops for lack of gasoline, will expect remedial action."

Timonium Ready For Cattle Show

Timonium, Md., Nov. 12 (AP).—Animals from points as far distant as Michigan, Mississippi and Arizona will be on display here when the Eastern National Livestock Show gets under way here Monday.

Richard C. Riggs, president of the show corporation, said the 19-year-old event would include breeding cattle classes for the three beef breeds—Hereford, Aberdeen- Angus, and Shorthorn, for the first time this season. Previously entries have been limited to fat steers, fat hogs, and fat lambs. Prizes for winning stock will total $35,000. In addition there will be judging contests for members of the 4-H Club and the Future Farmers of America.

Laborites Hike Taxes to Fight Inflation Peril

London, Nov. 12 (AP).—The Labor government called today for twice as big a tax on company earnings and imposed higher levies on alcoholic drinks and other consumers' items in order to fight inflation by cutting down the amount of money available for purchase of goods.

The announcement was made in the Commons when Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton presented the interim autumn budget.

He said the proposed revenues would absorb an additional 832 million dollars of the annual surplus spending power, estimated unofficially at around $3,200,000,000.

The budget is subject to parliamentary approval but most of the taxes became effective with Dalton's announcement.

Dalton proposed increasing the tax on distributed company profits from 12½ to 25 per cent and upping the levy on undistributed earnings from 5 to 10 per cent.

He decreed what amounted to a tax on advertising budgets with only half a company's expenditures for that purpose permitted to be classified as "allowable expenditures" for taxes. Formerly, all advertising expenses were allowable.

"In these days much of the advertisements are a serious waste of money and labor," he said.

He demanded more revenue both from the rich and from the workingman. For the first time in history the laborer must pay a tax for one of his favorite pastimes, betting on dog races and in football polls. A pint of beer in his local pub will cost 1 pence (2 cents) more.

Purchase taxes will be doubled, pooled wagers on football scores and parimutuel betting on dog races will be taxed at 10 per cent. The betting tax, to be effective January 4, was expected to yield 15 million pounds (60 million dollars) a year.

Excise duties on all beer, wines and spirits will be increased, but the import duty on tobacco, upped last spring, was left alone.

Dalton observed that Britons were "still smoking too much" even at the present price of 3 shillings fourpence (68 cents) for 20 cigarettes.

He did not ask for an increase in the basic income tax of 9 shillings ($1.80) in the pound.

He proposed discontinuance of subsidies on leather, cotton and wool, but asked for continuance of the agricultural subsidy which cost $1,586,000,000.

Purchase taxes will be increased as follows: from 16 2/3 to 33 1/3 per cent; 33 1/3 to 50 cent; 66 2/3 to 75 per cent; 100 per cent to 125 per cent.

Deputy Conservative Leader Anthony Eden criticized the new tax schedules as failing to meet the country's needs.

"It was very far from a clear picture of how we are going to meet the essential problem of inflation," Eden said.

Marshall Sets November 30 As Deadline for Voting Aid would be asked to act on Chinese aid without seeing the Wedemeyer report and Marshall said he thought so. In answer to a direct question, he said he did not agree "with everything General Wedemeyer said," but that was not the reason the report was not released.

The China subject bobbed up again at Marshall's press conference. The Secretary said he has been trying since August, 1946, to get certain funds for China, first through the Export-Import Bank and then by other means. At present he said he is trying to figure out a program more directly related to the financial situation in China.

One of the problems facing him now, he said, was how to help the people in the Communist-dominated areas without letting the help go to the Communist armies.

Sets Out Projects

He was asked whether he still felt it essential, as he did in January of this year, to broaden the present Chiang Kai-shek government. He said the State Department certainly was very hopeful that the base of the government would be broadened.

He declined to say whether the United tSates would attach any political condition to whatever help it might give China.

A reporter asked him what kind of project he had in mind when he originally tried to get money for China. He answered that one was rehabilitation of the Canton-Hankow Railway, another was improvement of public utilities in Shanghai, another was rehabilitation of Chinese coal mines and still another was improvement of harbor facilities at the Taku Bar, in North China. The last of these, he explained, would have opened a water route to Tientsin to offset the interruption of rail traffic.

Winds Force Flier To End Try for Record

Burank, Calif., Nov. 12 (U.P.)—Speed Pilot Paul Mantz landed here tonight after turning back over New Mexico when cross winds hampered his attempted transcontinental speed record flight.

Mantz said he abandoned his effort to break his own West-East record for propeller-driven planes over Albuquerque, N. Mex., when he found northerly winds were holding his average speed down to 450 miles per hour.

Cominform Starts Its House Organ

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Nov. 12 (AP).—The first issue of the new Cominform's official organ, entitled "For a Lasting Peace, for a People's Democracy," appeared on the news stands today.

A front page editorial said the journal would "exert every effort to help the Communist parties rally their peoples into a united camp" and would conduct a struggle against "bourgeois ideology."

The editorial said the new journal would report on Communist activities, elaborate questions of the "invincible theory of Marxism-Leninism," strengthen the mutual contact and "fraternal solidarity of working people of different countries" as well as to carry material showing the construction of socialism in the U.S.S.R.

The paper is published in French, English and Russian and is to appear twice a month, dated the 1st and 15th.

'British' Quoted

Soviet Bomb Story Given Some Belief

Paris, Nov. 12 (AP).—J. R. Pecheral, London correspondent of the pro-De Gaulle newspaper, Aurore, said today some British military circles had information which caused them to believe the report the Russians had tested an atomic bomb in Siberia on June 15.

The correspondent declared last July that the Russians had such a bomb. Yesterday the Rightist newspaper L'Intransigeant printed a Prague dispatch, reporting that Russia's first atomic bomb was exploded near Irkutsk.

(Well-informed authorities in Washington regarded many of the stories coming out of Europe about atomic bombs as being Russian-inspired fishing expeditions for military information and as propaganda.)

Pecheral, who claims close contact with British military circles, said some of them considered the report as "something practically certain."

Moscow, Nov. 12 (AP).—Foreign Military sources in Moscow discounted today the story that Russians had exploded an atomic bomb near Irkutsk June 15.

"We probably are going to have a lot of reports from all corners of the world concerninfi the Russians and the atomic bomb," said one informed foreign source. "For my part, I prefer to wait and let the Russians make any report on this subject."

U. S. Cuts Corn Crop Estimate

and Northeastern States was about on schedule.

The department injected into its forecast an outside hope that winter wheat prospects might be brightened in the next six weeks.

"Seeding is still possible," it said of the drought-stricken region, "if sufficient rain should fall during November and December, particularly in the Panhandle areas."

In an effort to meet the feed grain shortage, intensified by failure of the corn crop to meet the three billion bushels declared necessary to meet requirements, the Government plans to ask farmers to plant 6.5 per cent more acreage to livestock feed crops next year. The prospective goal for corn, oats, barley and grain sorghums is 156 million acres, about 9¼ million more than was planted to those crops this year.

The Agiculture Department already has recommended a 1948 wheat goal of 75 million acres, about five million more than the 1947 goal. As a matter of fact, however, some two million more acres actually were planted to wheat this year than the recommendation for 1948.

Yesterday's crop estimate showed milk and egg production establishing new records. Milk production per cow was the highest in 23 years during which records have been kept, though total milk production was slightly lower than the October average for the last three years because of a reduction in the number of milk cows on farms. Egg production was 8 per cent higher in October than for October, 1946, with the number of layers 2 per cent higher and production per layer the highest on record.

Hay and roughage for stock feed were described as "adequate" in most areas and pasturage better than average on November 1. Many stockmen were reported feeding stalks and crop residues and all kinds in lieu of scarce grain and livestock was said to be in generally good condition except in the Southwest.

Total fruit production was estimated at only 4 per cent below last year's record and 20 per cent above average. Prospects for truck crops for fall harvest were placed at 7 per cent above average, though 21 per cent below the 1946 record. Winter truck crops were estimated to be 18 per cent, spring crops 11 per cent and summer crops 15 per cent above average.

The record 77-million-bushel rice crop already forecast seems assured, the report said.

D. C. Area Feed Corn Yield Is Increased Over Last Year

In the face of generally lower estimated production of feed grains this year, the Department of Agriculture yesterday forecast yields in the Washington area considerably better than in 1946.

Except in Maryland, the yield per acre of corn was improved over last year, while the national average dropped from 37 bushels to 29. For Delaware, a yield of 31 bushels against 31 last year was indicated; for Maryland, 36 against 38; Virginia, 35 against 32, and West Virginia, 40 against 34.

The total corn production for those States was forecast at 4,340,000 for Delaware; 16,092,000 for Maryland; $39,550,000 for Virginia, and 12 million for West Virginia.

"In the South Atlantic States, where farmers are finding their corn better than expected," the report said, "estimated production is up 3 per cent from a month ago. Husking is well advanced. Virginia, West Virginia, the Carolinas and Georgia have record high yields per acre."

Although estimates for the apple crop were up from those of October 1, production in the South Atlantic States was forecast at 10 million bushels, less than half the 1946 yield and only slightly more than half of average. Virginia, with five million bushels, has about half of average. Virginia, with five million bushels, has about half of an average crop and West Virginia, with three million bushels, about two-thirds of average.

In milk production per cow, Virginia and Maryland were above the national average of 13.54 pounds, Virginia averaging 14.7 and Maryland, 15.4. Both States were above their 1946 averages of 13.4 and 14.7, respectively.

Transients Gladly Pay $10 for 3 Days in Jail

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 12 (AP).—Two transients asked police desk Sergt. L. O. Jones for lodgings in the Dallas jail.

"Costs money to run this jail," Jones said discouragingly. "I'll have to charge you."

"How much?" one of the men asked.

"Ten dollars."

"How long do we get to stay?"

"Three days."

"We'll take it," said the weary wanderers and handed the sergeant $10.

Bond Speculation Admitted by Meyers

warned that it might tend to incriminate him.

Meyers said he wanted to waive any claim to immunity. He said his counsel had warned him that the deal might be open to "misinterpretation." "Criminal interpretation" might be placed on this deal.

Questions by Ferguson

Under the insistent, hammering questions of Ferguson, Meyers testified that he thought "there was some inference" in a conversation he had with Hughes that the pilot-designer thought "he had obligated himself to Eakers" by getting the go-ahead to fly his plane.

Hughes had earlier testified that the first time he had ever seen Eakers was when he asked him to give him the go-ahead on the flight test. He said Eakers had called in Gen. Carl Spaatz, Air Force chief of staff, and Spaatz had agreed to a proposition that Hughes would test the plane but would pay the Government back the five million dollars it cost if the plane crashed.

Hughes said he had been much impressed by Eakers, thought at the time he wanted to hire him, but deliberately did not mention it for months. Hughes said that Eakers had announced his retirement, and was making plans to go into business in Oregon before he offered him a job.

Stock Purchase Related

"I don't want to say that Mr. Hughes actually stated to me that he was under an obligation," Meyers said. "There just was that inference or I drew that inference."

Meyers said that in 1940 Eaker wanted to buy 100 shares of Republic Aviation Corp. stock, and that he made the purchase for Eaker in his own name.

"Why did you buy it in your name? Why not Eaker's name?" he was asked.

"I'm damned if I know, Senator, but I did," Meyers replied.

Asked who put up the $1000 to buy the stock, Meyers said he thought Eakers did, but he wasn't sure.

Meyers, now receiving a $461 monthly pension, said he did not believe the stock purchase violated any Army regulations.

The only rule was, he said, that contracting officers could not hold stock in an aviation company with which they had contractual relations for the Government.

At the time of the stock transaction, Republic was building the Thunderbolt fighter.

Throughout his testimony, Meyers insisted he had never asked Hughes for a job during the war nor for any loan of any kind.

Just before the hearing recessed, Noah Dietrich, executive vice president of Hughes Tool Co., took the stand to say that Meyers had told him early this year that he had been annoyed because Hughes had turned him down on a $200,000 loan.

Ferguson Presses Dietrich

"I told him it was shocking and appalling to me," said Dietrich, "and asked 'Do you mean you made this request when you had that F-11 contract under your jurisdiction.' He told me he didn't see anything wrong about it.

"I don't think this man knows right from wrong. I think he is a war casualty."

At this point Ferguson started to press Dietrich as to why he had earlier testified that he knew of no fraud or corruption in connection with the contract, and why he had not told of Meyers' attempt to obtain the loan.

"Now wait a minute," Dietrich exclaimed.

From the back of the room, Hughes shouted out:

"Well, you asked if any fraud had been perpetrated."

Hughes has maintained right alonfi that his reason for refusing the loan was he thought such a transaction might be regarded as an improper one.

Dietrich termed the request "corrupt."

Ferguson warned that the committee intends to explore the entire "bond deal" at a later date.

Meyers said the most he ever had at any one time was four million dollars ,owned jointly by himself and his wife, a former actress.

He said he bought two million dollars' worth of bonds at par and bought the rest in an open market.

He did not say where he obtained his funds.

He said the method used to speculate in the Government bonds was to borrow money at 1 per cent interest and buy the bonds on 1 per cent margin.

Since the bonds paid 2 per cent, he could double his money within a year even if the market price did not go up.

The normal margin requirement is 10 per cent, experts consulted by the committee said.

Federal Reserve officials said it would be practically impossible to get rich on such a deal under present market conditions. Big profits could be made during the war, they added, when the Government was issuing numerous new long-term bond issues. The same type of security is not being offered today and the bonds have reached such a stable price level that there is less room for speculation.

Meyers told the committee that under the speculative system he adopted, it was possible to buy 25 million dollars worth of bonds on margin for $250,000, borrowed at 1 per cent interest, and that with that 1 per cent investment the speculator's money could be doubled in a year since the bonds bore a 2 per cent interest.

In order to clarify the mechanics of this type of transaction, Ferguson asked Meyers whether he could have made a million dollars on a $250,000 outlay if the bonds went up 4 points, as they did.

Meyers, still insisting he had not asked Hughes for a loan, said that was correct but it would have been only $750,000 after capital depreciation.

Meyers said that he and his wife first purchased two million dollars of shortterm 2 per cent bonds. Subsequently, he said, they bought another one million dollars, and he said he had a 3 per cent interest in a family partnership in another two million dollars.

By converting the 2 per cent bonds to 2½ per cent bonds, he testified, he made "a paper profit" of $90,000 but he told the committee that he never actually realized those profits since "we didn't sell out then," and now stands just about even on the deal.

Ferguson asked Meyers if it were true that billions of dollars had been handled in transactions of this kind.

Meyers replied that every bank was handling Government bonds.

Meyers said he considered the deal such a good thing that he told his commanding general, Gen. H. H. Arnold about it, and said he didn't know why more people didn't do it.

General Arnold, according to Meyers, consulted Robert A. Lovett, then Undersecretary of War and now Undersecretary of State. Lovett, a banker in private life, advised General Arnold against the transaction, according to Meyers, and Arnold did not enter into those speculations.

Many in Md. Still Paying Canceled Tax

The word apparently hasn't reached many nearby Maryland residents and citizens that a penny sales tax is no longer required on purchases up to 14 cents.

Informed by The Washington Post yesterday that clerks in numerous Montgomery and Prince Georges establishments are still collecting the penny tax on purchases under 14 cents, State Comptroller James J. Lacy promised last night to send "10 or 12 men to the area today to correct the situation."

The amended Sales Tax Act, raising the exemption level from 9 to 14 cents, became law shortly before 1 p. m. Monday when Governor Lane signed the bill passed by a special session of the Maryland Legislature last week.

Many business firms throughout the nearby Maryland area were still asking for the irksome additional penny even on 10 cent purchases yesterday. And citizens, also apparently unaware of the new law, were still paying it.

Asked if his office had notified all business firms in the State of the correct procerure under the new amendment, Lacy replied in the negative. "It would be too big a job," he said.

"It is just the law," he added, pointing out the new legislation had been "generally publicized" and "it is up to people to abide by it."

He placed responsibility for the now illegal collection of the additional penny on under-14-cent purchases on the merchants.

Observers, noting the irony of the situation, pointed out Montgomery and Prince Georges residents had bitterly opposed the sales tax before its adoption. "Now they are so accustomed to it," one said, "they are even paying it when they don't have to."

Pollution Board Eyes Ultimatum To Md. Canneries

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 12 (AP).—The Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission will be asked Friday to approve "an ultimatum" to canners to stop dumping wastes into State waters.

Paul W. McKee, commission secretary, said the group will be asked to approve a letter warning canners it is unlawful "for any polluting material to be discharged from any source into any stream or other body of water that will create a nuisance, be detrimental to fish life or destroy the use of waters for recreational or agricultural purposes."

Also scheduled for discussion at the meeting will be three regulations to carry out the 1947 antipollution law dealing with oil, garbage and new sources of pollution.

Shotgun Wielder Is Found Guilty

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 12 (AP).—George Tobie, 55, of Pasadena was convicted of four charges of assault with intent to kill in Anne Arundel County Court today.

Tobie was accused of firing two shotgun bursts at a police car parked near his home early in the morning of September 14, injuring Sergt. George Bolm and Patrolman Peo Kinsey. Other occupants were Mr. and Mrs. William G. Yith, who had asked police to escort them from a tavern after asserting Tobie had threatened them.

Judge McWilliams deferred sentence.

Johnson to Head Va. Teachers Group

Fredericksburg, Va., Nov. 12 (Spl.)—General Johnson, principal of the Walker-Grant High School here, has been elected president of the First District, Virginia State Teachers Association. A. L. Scott, principal of the John J. Wright High School, Spotsylvania County, was named chairman of the executive board.

Speakers at the annual meeting included Dr. W. H. Taylor, association president; Dr. A. G. MacLin of Virginia State College, and J. R. Picott, executive secretary of the State association. The district group is composed of 250 Negro high school and college teachers.

Martinsville Man Indicted in Slaying

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 12 (AP).—Roy Ridenour, 34, Martinsburg, W. Va., was indicted on a murder charge by a Washington County grand jury today in connection with the death of Charles Taylor, 45, said to have been slain last July in an argument over a gambling debt.

Ridenour was arrested by Baltimore police three days after Taylor was shot on a highway near here. He has been confined to the Washington County jail since.

Reds Smash Into Chinese Rail Center

Tientsin, China, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Communist troops supported by heavy artillery smashed throught the south and east gates of Shihchiachuang, key rail center 165 miles southwest of Peiping, and engaged nationalist defenders in fierce street battles in the walled inner city, government military dispatches reported today.

Unconfirmed reports in Peiping and Tientsin said Shihchiachuang, a city of one million, already had fallen.

Raidoed military dispatches, however, claimed the nationalists held the center of the city and that Chinese Air Force planes were strafing Communist columns.

The dispatches also said Yuanshih, 28 miles south of Shihchiachuang, was under Communist attack and expected to fall momentarily.

Bodyguards Given Scare by Chiang

Nanking China, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek frightened his bodyguards today when he acknowledged the acclamation of a crowd of by approaching and allowing a large group to surround him.

The incident occurred at a service commerating the birthday of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, founder of the Chinese republic.

Secretary Cites Petkov Case in Scathing Comment

Secretary Marshall commented scathingly yesterday upon the treason sentence of life imprisonment passed upon Juliu Maniu, the peasant leader of Romania.

He said the trial "conforms to the general pattern of all such political trials" in eastern Europe, "notably the judicial travesty of the Petkov trial in Bulgaria." Nikola Petkov, opposition leader, was recently condemned to death and executed.

The wider purpose of such trials, Secretary Marshall told his press conference, is "to eliminate every vestige of democratic opposition to the Communist-dominated regimes."

"The stature of Maniu as an outstanding champion of democratic ideals in eastern Europe over many years is unaffected by the sentence which has been imposed upon him," the Secretary said.

He took the unusual step of letting his comments be quoted directly. He declined to say whether the United States would make a formal protest to Romania or take other action arising from the Maniu trial.

Yugloslavs Free American Soldier

Trieste, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—United States Army authorities announced tonight that Sergt. Duel Farrell, 21, Starkville, Miss., who was seized by Yugoslav troops yesterday while fishing southeast of Gorizia, was turned over to Italian officials in Gorizia late today.

Farrell returned to his unit and reported that he had been treated well by the Yugoslavs. He said he was questioned briefly and then held under guard at San Pietro, a small Yugoslav town.

Pfeiffer, Coming Here, Says Reds 'Have Dropped Mask'

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

HUNGARIAN LEADER ARRIVES—Arriving yesterday in New York, Zoltan Pfeiffer, leader of the Independent Party of Hungary his wife, Magda, and their daughter, Magda, 5, leave an overseas plane after a flight from Frankfurt, Germany. Pfeiffer, who fled Communist-Dominated Hungary, was Secretary of the Ministry of Justice Ferenc Nagy

(Editor's Note: Clinton B. Conger, United Press manager for Germany, accompanied Zoltan Pfeiffer, Hungarian Anti-communist leader, on his secret flight to the United States from Budapest.)

By Clinton B. Conger
By the United Press

New York, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Zoltan Pfeiffer and his family arrived safely on American soil today at the end of a secret flight from Europe where the anti-Communist leader said he had escaped "from the shadow of the (Communist) noose" in Hungary.

It was a cloak-and-dagger flight from the Communists who have finally muzzled their last opossition in Hungary. Pfeiffer was a tight-lipped mystery man until the crew of the American Airlines flagship which brought him from Frankfurt told him that in another hour he would be safely on a United States airfield at Stephenville, Newfoundland.

Then his worried face relaxed, he took a look at his sleeping wife and daughter, peered at my business card again and motioned me to follow him to the rear of the plane.

"I know nothing since I went underground eight days ago, you understand," he began. "I can only tell you why I left."

He said that the Hungarian Communist Minister of the Interior, Laszlo Rajk, had "run amok" lately in his determination to suppress the last opposition to the alleged coalition government actually run by Communist Vice Premier Matyas Rakosi.

Hungarian secret police scour the country by the jeepload, he said. Where they cannot act, the dreaded Russian NKVD steps in. Friends disappear, months later reappear on a witness stand to swear to "utter lies, things that we and they know cannot be."

Today, after eight days on foot, by horsecart, milk train, and airliner, he reached the United States to warn:

"The Communists have dropped their mask. Life in Hungary is insupportable. You have two choices—either escape the country or lie flat in the manure.

"Unless the necessary political and military dikes are being built, the western European countries too will be overrun by Communism. But the Marshall Plan plus (stressing the 'plus') a determined United States policy can help western Europe save itself."

Tonight he will stay with Dr. Tibor Eckhardt, New York, another Hungarian exile. Then he will continue to Washington to see other prominent Hungarian refugees and State Department officials there. With Pfeiffer was his parliamentary aide, Laszlo Acsay, and Mrs. Acsay.

"I did all a democrat of good will could do," Pfeiffer said. "Finally it reached the point where I was to make a speech in Parliament, but decided I could not. Opposition had inflamed the Communists to the point where my speaking would have endangered every man in my party. The Communists have dropped their mask in Hungary.

"I played along right into the shadow of the noose—what more can a man do?

"No politician on earth can do anything against a loaded pistol," he said.

Mikolajczyk Aide, Wife, Safe in Sweden

Stockholm, Sweden, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Stefan Korbonski, Polish opposition official whose arrival in Sweden was announced officially today, said that he had been "underground" since his escape from Poland October 20 to avoid falling into the hands of the Polish secret police.

The 45-year-old deputy to Peasant Party Leader Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, with whom he fled, arrived here Saturday with his young brunette wife, Zofi, after a "very adventurous escape." He refused to divulge details.

Milan Swept By Red Riots

backed up by an armored car, the Communists turned down the nearby Via Giovasse, overwhelmed the 10 policemen guarding the Monarchist newspaper Mattino d'Italia, and wrecked the plant.

About 20 persons were wounded in the day's disorders.

With the killing of three men during the night—two Communists and one member of the Common Man Party—the death toll reached six in riots which have now extended from Sicily to the Far North.

Thousands of Communists converged in the Duomo Square in the center of the city to protest the killing of two Communists at nearby Mediglia last night.

Carlo Alberganti, Communist member of the local Chamber of Labor, shouted to about 20,000 of his followers:

"It is time to put an end to provocations against Communists. If the government will not take adequate measures against the Neo-Fascists and provocateurs, the people will make their own justice in the square." Then the Communists raided Common Man headquarters.

[The signal for the Communist action was given by Palmiro Togliatti, Moscow-educated head of Italian communism, the New York Herald Tribune reported. Togliatti, who spoke to the Italian Communist Party central committee in Rome, said the conservative forces in Italy have been gaining courage from the continued existence of the anti-Communist Catholic Party government.

["The Italian Communist Party will have to win decisive victories through great mass battles," Togliatti said.]

Common Man Party members said that in addition to doing about $13,500 damage, the Communists had stolen an unspecified sum of money.

what to do about old man h.c.l.

Don't overlook the chance to save money, these high-cost days. Especially when the amount might be substantial. Especially when the savings might be made on the important item of home-heating. Especially when a heating unit as fine as the General Electric oil-fired boiler (which also provides year 'round domestic hot water service) can be the money-saver—

SEE IF A HEAT-SURVEY WILL SHOW SAVINGS

You'll never know how much good, hard cash your present system might be wasting until you let us compare its running costs with the economy of a General Electric. We will make that heat-measurement, free. We'll let the figures do the talking. Here's what they've said for others—council and escorted them safely from the building.

Another crowd attacked the Palace of Justice earlier in the day. They broke windows with stones, then invaded the building in which four members of the Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor were being tried for taking part in a demonstration Monday against increased streetcar fares.

As the judge declared the four men guilty 3000 demonstrators, some in the building, some massed around it, shouted so wildly that his voice was drowned out.

In the confusion two of the four prisoners escaped.

Police attacked the demonstrators in the building and drove them to the street. The crowd then smashed more windows and again drove into the building.

They seized files in the public prosecutor's office and tossed them through windows.

This afternoon the two men who escaped returned to the Palace of Justice, escorted by a huge crowd, to give themselves up.

While armed mobile guards blocked all entrances, the four defendants were taken into the courtroom. This time the judge acquitted one and gave the other three suspended sentences.

Gloom Grows Over Chances of Big 4 Accord

London, Nov. 12 (AP).—The major Western powers demanded today top priority for the Austrian peace pact in the face of Russian opposition and growing gloom over chances of an accord at the coming four-power Council of Foreign Ministers.

In a solid stand, the deputy ministers of the United States, Britain and France, here to do the spade-work for the council meeting, November 25, firmly disputed a Soviet contention that Austria's future be discussed by the council only after an attempt to settle German problems.

A decision was temporarily deferred. American informants said the chances of the council to succeed in its fifth attempt to settle accounts with Germany and Austria were poor.

Robert A. Murphy, the United States delegate, said the Allied powers as long ago as 1943 had pledged themselves to treat Austria as a liberated country instead of an enemy. He will present the United States proposals for the council agenda tomorrow.

In the House of Commons today Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin expressed hte belief Allied occupation of Germany would continue at least five years as far as can be foreseen at present."

2d Writers' Luncheon Set November 25

Exploration, sport, world affairs and pictorial drama will be discussed at the second of The Washington Post's Book and Author luncheons this season, to be held at the Statler Hotel on November 25 at 1 p. m.

Steichen

Authors who are to appear include James Ramsey Ullman, author of the best seller, "The White Tower," whose current book is "Kingdom of Adventure: Everest"; Edith Sulkin, who has written "Continent in Limbo" as a thoughtful study of her travels in Europe; Corinne Griffith, star of the silent screen and wife of the Redskins football owner, who writes of "My Life With the Redskins," and Edward Steichen, whose recent book, "Blue Ghost," is a pictorial drama of the aircraft carrier USS Lexington in battle engagement.

Luncheon tickets, at $3, now are on sale at the following bookstores; Ballantyne's, Bookman's, Brentano's Community Book Shop, David Pearlman, Francis Scott Key, Kann's, Mittel's, Paul Pearlman, Pursell's, Sidney Kramer Books, Whyte's, and Woodward & Lothrop, and in Alexandria, Better Mouse Trap, Colony Book Shop and the Chequire House.

King Michael Flying To Royal Wedding

Lausanne, Switzerland, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—King Michael of Romania, flying his private plane to attend the British wedding November 20, emphatically denied reports today that he was fleeing his Communist-dominated country. "We never even consider such an idea," Michael said. "We plan to return to Bucharest in 10 days."

Ex-Spy Quoted As Setting Fire To Normandie

New York, Nov. 12 (INS).—A French language newspaper in New York City reported today that a former Nazi spy and German-American Bundist has confessed he set the fire that wrecked the giant French luxury liner Normandie at her Hudson River pier in 1942.

The newspaper, France-Amerique, identified the alleged spy as former SS man Fritz Scheffer and quoted him as saying that in 1942 he was working as a hair dresser in New York but actually was an agent of the Nazi spymaster, Admiral Canaris.

The story was promptly termed "bunk" by New York City Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy. The FBI said it would reserve comment.

The fire marshal said it was established definitely that carelessness was the cause—sparks from an acetylene torch igniting highly inflammable kapok life preservers.

Reports Confession

France-Amerique, however, said Scheffer confessed to Allied Intelligence officers in Germany, after his arrest there:

"It is I who started the fire on board the Normandie. The whole affair was arranged in New York. I was in charge of those who were to start the fire.

"But I was not the big boss of the sabotage. He was a special envoy of Admiral Canaris and I knew him only as 'No. 437,' during our meetings in a Harlem cafe.

"I got a job on board the Normandie for one of my men as a stevedore. I chose a number of specialized workers and put them under him.

"When I gave the signal, about 10 men lighted the highly inflammable piles of kapok-stuffed lifebelts with their blow torches.

Says He Delayed Alarm

"It was not until these fires were well under way that I ordered an alarm turned in.

"Contradictory reports were given to firemen in order to retard their efforts. Of course, in our sabotage preparations we had not overlooked the fire-fighting equipment.

"I then went to Argentina where I put myself at the disposal of Felix Schmidt. I stayed there a few months and then went back to Germany."

The Normandie was being prepared for use as an American troopship when she burned. Only recently she was broken up for scrap.

Blizzard Halts Fliers in Alaska

Northway, Alaska, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Globe-girdling Clifford Evans and George Truman were forced to land at the U. S. air base here at 4:05 p. m. (EST) today when they ran into a blizzard and snowstorm in their second attempt to reach Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, en route to Edmonton, Alberta.

The vagabonding fliers had taken off from Big Delta, approximately 100 miles north of here three hours earlier.

Fugitive Leaves '46 Car For Stolen '42 Model

McDowell, Va., Nov. 12 (AP).—When somebody takes a 1942 mode lautomobile and leaves a 1946 model in its place, it may seem fair exchange, but not according to law.

That's what happened in this Highland County town Sunday night when Charles Helms, McDowell man employed by Hot Springs, Inc., in nearby Bath County, stopped overnight to visit his parent safter making a business trip to Roanoke.

Helms left a 1942 Chevrolet he was driving, which belonged to the company, outside the house. The next morning it was gone and in its place was a 1946 Dodge.

Police investigation revealed that the Dodge belonged to a resident of Lexington and was stolen there that Sunday night by a runaway from the Greenleaf reform camp there. The runaway, a native of Indiana, was still at large tonight.

Self-Blinded Ex-Forger Believed a Suicide

Philadelphia, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—A youth who blinded himself in prison so he would not be tempted to commit forgery again has jumped bail on mail theft charges and is believed to have committed suicide, a United States attorney revealed today.

The official, Russell L. Hiller, told Federal Judge James P. McGranery that Jerome Poster, 24, disappeared from his home Friday. He requested that a bench warrant be issued for the arrest of the youth.

Soviet-Backed Slap at Franco Approved by U. N. Committee

Lake Success, Nov. 12 (AP).—A Soviet-supported slap at Franco Spain was approved today by the United Nations political committee but it fell far short of the unanimous vote its backers wanted.

The 57-member committee voted 29 to 6 for a toned-down mixture of three resolutions aimed against Generalissimo Franco. France, China, Britain and Russia were among those voting for it. The United States and 19 other countries abstained.

The committee thus reaffirmed an assembly resolution of last December 12 which called on U. N. members to withdraw their ambassadors from Madrid and on the Security Council to act if a democratic regime were not installed in Spain in a "reasonable" time.

The new resolution now goes to the full assembly, where delegates expected it would receive final approval.

Charles Fahy, American alternate delegate, said the United States felt the resolution meant the Security Council should act. He said the United States did not favor economic measures against Spain which the Council could take under the charter. The United States is on record against any action which "would initiate change by violence."

Six Latin American countries contended the proposal constituted unwarranted interference in the affairs of a nation.

Other U. N. developments:

1. South Africa and India clashed in the Political Committee over the issue of aleged "Jim Criwism" against Asians in South Africa. India again charged South Africa with discriminating against Indins in South Africa and argued that South Africa had failed to carry out a 1946 Assembly resolution calling on the two countries to settle the issue between themselves. South Africa said the U. N. has no jurisdiction, that the question is purely a domestic one.

2. India withdrew from the contest for a seat in the Security Council. This left a clear field to the Soviet Ukraine, which was generally expected to be elected at a full meeting of the Assembly tomorrow at Flushing Meadow Park, New York.

3. The U. N. prepared to consider 23 items at three Assembly meetings tomorrow. These included the year-around "Little Assembly" and the Korean election commission already aproved over Russian protests in the Political Committee.

4. Britain failed to deliver an expected declaration declining major responsibility for enforcing the proposed partition of Palestine. Details of the plan still were under stalled pending a British statement.

Students Demonstrate For Honor System

Richmond, Va., Nov. 12 (AP).—An alleged threat to the school's honor system prompted 500 Richmond Professional Institute students to stage a brief mass street demonstration today. It broke up after the students were assured the matter would be taken up at a student convocation Monday.

Tax-Regulator Plan Proposed

This would act as a further pressure on an already high demand.

On its longer-range tax-reduction scheme, the CED also affixed a limit. The plan would take effect in some hypothetical year in the next decade, when extraordinary foreign-aid disbursements will have disappeared, and on the assumption that international relations will not be such as to demand excessive military expenditures.

But after making this assumption and this limitation, the report recommended that we adopt a budget yielding a surplus of three billion dollars a year above expenditures, on the basis of an economic situation of high employment. The criterion suggested was a national income "corresponding to employment of about 96 per cent of the labor force."

With the labor force at its present size, the designated surplus would be achieved when about 2.5 million persons were unemployed. On the same basis, the budget would balance when unemployment rose to about 4 or 4.5 million.

The CED called this budget system a "stabilizing budget policy." It would counter inflation when income rose by automatically absorbing, through taxation, more of the Nation's dollars, and would counter deflation in periods of falling prosperity, since less money would be flowing out of consumers' hands to the Treasury.

Meantime, in good periods or bad—except for an extraordinarily sharp change in the economic situation—the amount of Federal expenditures would be stable, year by year.

This policy was contrasted with two other budget systems, both of which the CED rejected. One was the "annually balanced budget policy," which attempts to keep Government revenues continuously equal to or in excess of expenditures, regardless of business conditions.

This policy, the report declared, has the effect of intensifying fluctuations both ways, taking less taxes in booms, more in depressions.

The second policy, termed the "managed compensatory budget," was a favorite New Deal idea. Under it, attempts would be made to adjust tax rates and expenditures to encounter anticipated trends.

Thus if employment was adjudged "about to" fall, taxes would be decreased and Federal outlays expanded, and vice versa.

The trouble with this plan, the CED said, is that it is impossible to make forecasts of coming economic trends with sufficient accuracy.

Further, "expenditures resist downward change and taxes resist upward change. In the present state of economic forecasting, it will always be possible to make out a plausible case that depression is around the corner.

"Such a prediction will permit both unpleasant alternatives to be avoided, since under the managed compensatory theory the forecast of a depression requires lower taxes and higher expenditures. This system offers no realistic hope of debt reduction."

The policy recommended, the stabilizing budget, had the prime advantage of offering a settled and relatively fixed pattern of taxes on which business can make long-term plans, the CED argued.

On the basis of this kind of budget, the report argued that taxes can be cut by six billion dollars next year, and still achieve a three-billion-dollar surplus and admit about four billion dollars for foreign aid in 1948 (just about the amount contemplated in Secretary of State Marshall's estimates to Congress on Monday).

In making the tax reductions, it recommended a five-point plan, each item of which was also in the nature of a reform, contributing to the longer-range policy. The recommendations were:

1. Reduce the present initial rate of individual income tax (now 19 per cent on the first $2000 of taxable income) to 15.2 per cent on the first $1000 and continue the progression of marginal rates to reach 67.3 per cent at $100,000 and a top rate of 82 per cent at one million dollars.

2. Extend to married couples in all States the privilege of dividing their income, deductions and exemptions equally between them. This community property provision is already in effect in 13 States; the discrimination in the others should be ended by Federal action.

3. Eliminate excise taxes on communications and transportation. These taxes, though hidden, enter into the prices of almost all commodities, including the necessities of life, and are particularly burdensome on low-income groups.

4. Make a start toward the elimination of the double tax on dividends. This could be done by treating the tax paid by the corporations on the dividends they issue in the manner of a withholding tax, to be deducted from the individual's return. The CED considered the present system as a "serious inequity" and a "major obstacle to economic expansion."

5. Lengthen the period for which business losses may be carried forward and applied to future profits from the present two years to five; reduce the carry-back period from two years to one.

Turning to longer-range tax policy, the report insisted that something more than tax reductions was needed. "We also need tax reform," it said.

"If tax reform is left to follow tax reduction, and is not made the guiding principle of tax reduction, tax reform may never come.

"There are two real dangers. One lies in concentrating attention on only one or two parts of the tax system. The second danger lies in arbitrary, across-the-board formulas for tax reduction.

"Horizontal cuts from a bad tax system will not create a good tax system."

As its own guiding principles, the report considered the necessities of relieving undue burdens on lower income groups and at the same time relieving, in the higher brackets, what it considered to be seriously repressive effects of the present system on incentives to effort and investment.

To work out a specific tax reform-reduction program for the hypothetical year "195x," the report assumed a probable national income of 220 billion dollars, and a Federal budget of 30 billion dollars, or 5.8 billion dollars below the official estimates for next year.

This would permit a tax reduction of about 15 billion dollars and still yield a surplus of three billions.

In addition to and in expansion of the items already called for in the 1948 program, the report recommended:

1. Reduction of the starting rate on individual income taxes to 11.5 per cent, with rates rising gradually to 50 per cent on the $100,000 bracket, and a top of 77.5 per cent for a million dollars and over.

The report placed great emphasis on the need for reductions in the lower brackets, to maintain purchasing power.

But it was equally emphatic on the necessity of giving incentives to personal and business risks and investments. Once the tax rate exceeds 50 per cent of income, the report noted, the taxpayer feels he has only a minority interest in his earnings, and is prone to choose security rather than go in for the ventures which are relied on to keep our economic system expanding.

2. Reduce taxes on corporate profits from the present 38 per cent to 30 per cent. And when revenues permit, cut taxes to the flat rate applied to the initial level of individual incomes, i. e., 11.5 per cent.

3. Eliminate the tax on intercorporation dividends, and the penalty tax on consolidated returns.

4. Give greater latitude in annual allowance for depreciation.

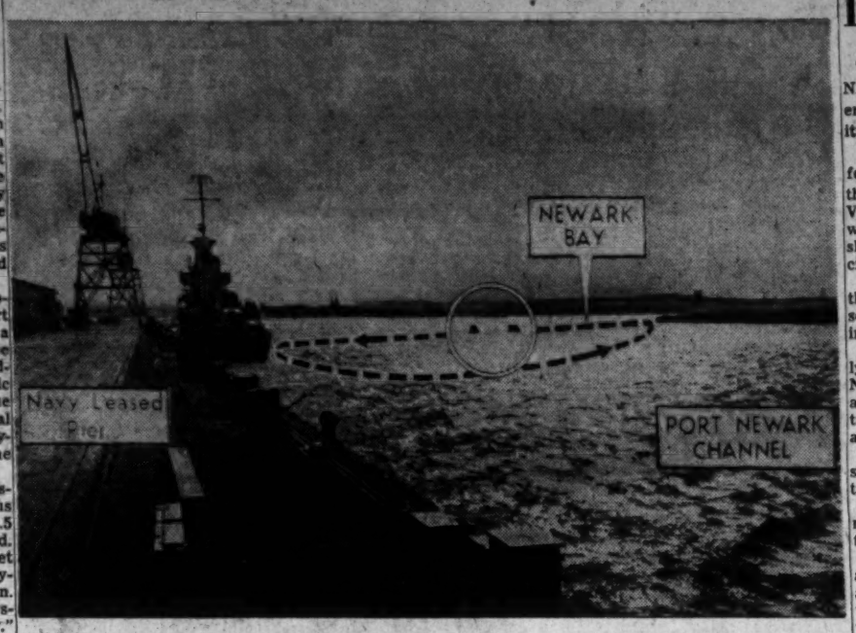
The report suggested that in the long run it made little difference if a corporation charged off a new expenditure in one year or over a longer period.

5. Eliminate all excise taxes except those on liquor, tobacco and gasoline. This was seen as "the only way in which substantial tax relief can be obtained by the lowest-income group in the population."

At a press conference on the report, Hoffman pointed out that the CED was not formally making its recommendations to Congress.

Besides Hoffman and Rubicam, other members of the CED Research and Policy Committee included Beardsley Ruml, chairman of the board of R. H. Macy and framer of the present pay-as-you-go tax system; Wayne C. Taylor, former Assistant Secretary of Commerce; Fowler McCormick, chairman of International Harvester Co.; Eric A. Johnston, president of the Motion Pitcure Association of America; Jay C. Hormel, chairman of the Hormel meat-packing company; Chester C. Davis, president of the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank, and Gardner Cowles, publisher of the Des Moines Register & Tribune.

Newark 'Navy' Stands by for Action



Associated Press WIREPHOTO

BATTLE LINE—In this photodiagram of the Port Newark area the city-operated fireboats (circled) patrol the mouth of the channel in a move designed to block the entry of the 30,000-ton decommissioned battleship New Mexico. The warship, in tow, is expected to arrive today for scrapping at a pier leased by the Navy and subleased to a salvage firm. Newark wants no more vessels scrapped on the water front

Armistice Terms Discussed In Naval 'Battle of Newark'

By The Associated Press

The Navy and officials of Newark, N. J., are nearing an agreement to end the "battle of Newark Bay," it was announced last night.

Emerging from a two-hour conference with Undersecretary of the Navy Kenney, Newark's mayor, Vincent J. Murphy—who does not want the 30,000-ton former battleship New Mexico scrapped in the city's port—said:

"We are near an agreement on this matter. I am certain that something will be worked out within a week."

"But," the mayor declared sternly, "the entrance to the port of Newark will continue to be blockaded by our fireboat navy until the agreement is signed, sealed and delivered."

Kenney confirmed Murphy's statement that an agreement is in the offing.

Kenney jovially referred to the mayor as "Commodore Murphy of the Newark navy."

The substance of the hoped-for agreement calls for the Navy to allow the Port of New York Authority to utilize a salvage dock at which the New Mexico is scheduled to be junked. Officials of Newark and the Port Authority objected to the scuttling there because, they said, it would hold up an 11-million-dollar rehabilitation program.

Murphy said, "We may permit the New Mexico to enter the port—providing that we can get assurance from the salvaging company that it can complete its operations in a reasonable time."

Newark Asks Support From New York City

Newark, N. J., Nov. 12 (U.P.)—Public Safety Director John Keenan, "admiral" of the Newark "Navy," sent an S O S to Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York today asking for police boats to bolster his defenses against the battleship New Mexico.

Keenan telegraphed O'Dwyer after tugboat captain, John Stephens Blank 3d., radioed his defiance of the Newark "Navy" from one of the three tugs towing the New Mexico toward Newark harbor.

Informed of the wet reception Newark's "Navy" has prepared for him, Captain Blank said his men, all veteran warriors, are "fully capable of handling any situation."

He added that the four main batteries of the New Mexico are intact and Capt. George Creegan of Staten Island is aboard with a standby crew of 15 men.

But—alas—"holes have been burned in the gun barrels so they can never be fired again."

The Newark "Navy" consisting of two fireboats, has orders not to let her pass. It is armed with 10 powerful streams of water per boat.

Legal Murder

After Petkov, Maniu. Juliu Maniu has been sentenced to life imprisonment by a military court, and varying sentences have been imposed on his associates in Romania's Peasant Party. He is the latest victim of the totalitarian technique of elimination. Capital punishment was abolished in the Romanian constitution, but Maniu, who is 74 years old, is virtually given the death penalty. He is ailing, and life in the cells reserved for political prisoners in Romania will not last long. The main thing from Moscow's point of view is that this foe of tyranny is silenced. But is he? Silence out of the tomb of famous men who die for liberty can be more eloquent than oratory. And it pierces time and space when imposed by despots upon the spokesmen of freedom. So it was with Petkov. His voice, dead in his lonely grave in Sofia, muffled in dark Bulgaria, was heard within a month in the French Assembly. Men who cherish liberty recognized it whenever the Communists took the rostrum, and chanted his name "Petkov! Petkov!"

It will be the same with Maniu, for his name is held in esteem wherever men love freedom. He had been an enemy of oppression since his youth. He opposed the dictatorship of Carol, the Vienna award, and the German alliance. When German troops were still on Romanian soil, he joined the government of liberation, which brought his country on the Allied side. He cooled toward the Russians when the Soviet government began to turn the screws on any independence for Romania and grind down the Romanians in subjection. A great sadness will fall upon a people who acknowledged Maniu as leader. At least three quarters of the population are with him, but they cannot turn a hand in his behalf because 175,000 Russian troops all armed with the latest engines of war are stationed in Romania.

Note, again, the cynical disregard for treaties involved in this foul deed. Under the peace treaties with the satellites, Romania is obligated to safeguard human rights and maintain fundamental liberties, including freedom of expression and legal trial in Romania. This is the pledge contained in Article 3. In another article she must submit any transgression of this pledge to arbitration. Our protest against what is tantamount to the legal murder of Maniu will doubtless be based on these articles. But the government in Bucharest under Petru Groza will, of course, do nothing. It is a slave government acting on orders of the Soviet command. If this is the way the satellite treaties are honored, what is the use of negotiating the major treaties with Moscow? A new effort is going to be made November 25 in London. But, even if Moscow shows a disposition seriously to negotiate, where is the guaranty that it will keep its word? All faith is rapidly ebbing out of Russo-American relations.

Main Street—1947

Correspondents who have been exploring postwar Mitevilles and Middleburgs have found them comfortable, self-sufficient, still for the most part fundamentalist in religion and politics, and with little interest in what they call "world saving." In a recent account in the New York Times magazine of Rushville, Ind., Wendell Willkie's home town, Gilbert Bailey reported that the favorite barbershop tune was "Let the Rest of the World Go By."

Yet we find Sauk Centre, Minn., the Main Street Sinclair Lewis made famous in his novel of 1920, the scene of a week's demonstration for a one-world program. United World Federalists of Minnesota chose Sauk Centre for a campaign similar to that put on last spring by Norwalk, Conn. But Sauk Centre citizens themselves entered with zest into the meetings and rallies, and helped in a house-to-house canvass to get names to a petition asking Congress to take steps toward making the United Nations a world federal government with powers adequate to prevent war. Among the attractions of the week was "Red" Lewis himself, who addressed a group of businessmen, some of whom may have contributed to his picture of Babbitt. He warned them that if atomic war wasn't prevented, Sauk Centre might become another Hiroshima.

Sauk Centre, now a town of around 3500 population, is as prosperous and self-sufficient as any of the other Main Streets of the country. It has lost some of its geographical remoteness since the days of Carol Kennicott, and has become closer physically to goings-on in Minneapolis, Chicago, New York, and Washington through motor car, airplane and radio. But that does not mean it has become any closer in thought to national or international problems. In other words, it is a typical small town. The difference is that it has been stirred by leadership. People, whether on Main st. or Fifth ave., can be roused to thought and action only by leadership.

Smoke And Fire

It is quite impossible to determine whether Mr. Howard Hughes or Maj. Gen. Bennett Meyers is telling the truth to the Senate subcommittee which is investigating their relationship at the time that the allocation of airplane contracts to Mr. Hughes' company was being considered. Mr. Hughes has stated under oath that General Meyers had asked him for a loan of $200,000 without interest for the purpose of speculating in Liberty bonds. If Mr. Hughes is to be believed, General Meyers hoped to make a million dollars out of this speculation and thus to provide "security for his family." General Meyers has asserted this story to be completely false, though yesterday he admitted having made a $90,000 profit on the purchase of short-term Treasury bonds in 1944.

Meanwhile, General Meyers has said that Mr. Hughes offered him $100,000 if he could arrange the removal of the prohibition of the exhibition of the movie The Outlaw in New York City. Now Mr. Hughes has denied this assertion categorically. Previously, Mr. Hughes had stated that it had been suggested to him that General Meyers had been responsible for the prohibition, and that the general had been able to exercise this power because of his intimacy with Mayor O'Dwyer. Thereupon, Mr. Hughes said, he had invited General Meyers to California for a discussion of the question, incidentally spending about $3000 on the general's transportation and entertainment. Mr. Hughes now admits that on this occasion he had asked General Meyers "to remove the finger that I believe he had put on it," meaning The Outlaw, but asserts he did not offer the general any money. Mr. Hughes had already stated that he believed that General Meyers had used his influence to have the picture prohibited in New York purely out of revenge for having been refused the loan already mentioned. There is also the matter of the proposed job in one of Mr. Hughes' companies for General Meyers after his retirement from the Air Force. Both witnesses have admitted that such a job had been discussed; but General Meyers says that he refused the offer of it from Mr. Hughes, and Mr. Hughes says that the general applied for the job and was refused.

It is necessary, as we say, to reserve judgment concerning the truth behind all these sordid charges and countercharges. On one point, however, the evidence is already clear enough: the relationships between contractors and some of the high military officials who had the duty of passing upon the contracts were anything but proper. From General Meyers' testimony it is plain that the degree of the intimacy between himself and Mr. Hughes far exceeded what was necessary for the conduct of official business. He has, for example, stated that it "might very well be true" that he had permitted Mr. Hughes to spend more than $3000 in entertaining him. This, of course, does not prove any venality on General Meyers' part, but it certainly does not put him beyond suspicion of reproach.

There is a further suggestion in the evidence thus far collected by the subcommittee that if there was venality among these officials, not all of it was necessarily of a mercenary character. There is such a thing as bribery by prestige; that is to say, a willingness on the part of officials to make decisions contrary to their judgment for the sake of holding on to their jobs. We are not sure that in the case of a country at war that this is not the more contemptible.

Loyalty

The present situation of the Government with regard to American Communists is in certain respects analogous to that of the government of James I of England with regard to the English Catholics after the discovery of the Gunpowder Plot, with, of course, the important difference that the Catholics represented an old order and the royal government a new one. Whether correctly or otherwise, it was believed that Catholics would necessarily work against the interest of the throne and in the interest of some hostile Catholic power such as France or Spain. The most elaborate oaths and other formularies were, therefore, devised to exclude persons who might hold a secret allegiance to the Pope, not only from public office but also from the universities and from every position of the slightest influence. These laws are known historically as the Test Acts, and some of them were not repealed until rather late in the nineteenth century.

Whether the Test Acts could be justified at the time they were enacted, on the ground of political self-preservation, is, of course, a question of political first principles. Certainly, no believer in the principles of free government would undertake to defend them. That, however, is beside the point. The point is that the Test Acts succeeded, as their authors knew they would succeed, because no sincere Catholic would take the required oaths or comply with the prescribed forms; those who did so were promptly disowned by their coreligionists. In other words, both parties, whatever their mutual hatreds and suspicions, understood the solemnity and sanctity of such public professions. If this state of mind prevailed today, the loyalty investigation would be altogether unnecessary; the mere pledge, taken by every Federal employe, to uphold the Constitution of the United States, would serve to exclude all those who honestly believe that the Government established by the Constitution should be undermined and overthrown. But it is well known that communism has a special morality of its own, which is wholly in conflict with traditional morality, and that Lenin and others have taught deception and dissimulation, even in such fundamental matters, to be the most effective instrument of the revolution.

This is well illustrated in the case of the persons arrested in connection with the Communist conspiracy in Canada which reached almost into the heart of the Dominion government. It should be remembered that this conspiracy was not discovered as the result of any surveillance within the government, but fortuitously and as the result of revelations by an employe of the Soviet Embassy at Ottawa. Up to that point the loyalty of most of the persons who were secretly engaged in this conspiracy against the government was not even suspected. Nevertheless, the Royal Commissioners, who afterward examined the conspirators after the discovery of their plot, stated that > . . . It became apparent to us that they had been purposefully educated to a condition of mind in which they regarded obedience to the rules of Communist bodies as their highest duty, and that if their immediate objects could be advanced or protected by mendacity or concealment . . . they were quite prepared for such a course and recognized it as a requirement expected of them.

Here, then, is our modern dilemma. The conclusion is that the liberty we all seek so passionately to maintain becomes endangered in any society that includes a political group which believes that the end it envisages justifies any and every means of achieving it.

Not Imperialism

Thurman Arnold delivered an interesting address the other day on American foreign policy under a challenging caption—"The New American Imperialism." From that title one would expect the address to be a spirited challenge to the Marshall Plan. It was not. On the contrary, the former Assistant Attorney General spoke with warm approval of the aims of the Administration's foreign policy and succeeded in epitomizing it in words that are likely to give it new meaning to many who listened to or read his address with care.

". . . As the economic leader of a metropolitan world we cannot afford to maintain international slums as breeders of disorder," Mr. Arnold said. "This is the most significant revolution in American thought and attitude of our times. We have at last identified the prosperity of western Europe with our own safety and security. It is an imperialism for rehabilitation, not for exploitation. It is called a cold war. But it is a war to get ahead of our enemies, not in destroying production but in reviving it." He thinks that the result of the effort to get Europe back on its feet will be "a greater stimulus toward expanding production than we have ever known before except in war."

Except for a single word, we think this description and estimate of the United States' foreign policy is apt and illuminating. But Mr. Arnold is likely to find his phrase—"imperialism for rehabilitation"—bandied about Russia in distorted form and dinned into the ears of Europeans by Communist propaganda as proof of America's intention to exploit them for its own gain. Few Americans will misunderstand Mr. Arnold's meaning. For that matter, Moscow's propagandists are fully aware of the intent behind his statement. The point is that one tainted word, such as "imperialism," can be used by these clever propagandists to reverse the meaning of an entire speech—to turn it against a policy that it was intended to sustain.

This effort on the part of Mr. Arnold to describe the new American foreign policy that is taking shape in fresh and vivid terms reminds us that no one has succeeded in embodying that policy in an effective slogan. Perhaps no slogan that will be simple enough to become a common expression and at the same time comprehensive enough to cover our yearning for freedom, security, peace and a moral world can be devised. Of one thing we are quite certain: no such slogan can be built around the discredited concept that still clings to the word "imperialism."

MOUSE'S SONG

Hid in the windy grass
Watching the tomcat pass,
Cat with the whiskery
Smirk on his mouth,
Mouse has been ragging him,
Coaxing him, dragging him
Through the wet grasses to North and to south.

Cat with the lashing tail,
Cat with the cocky male
Arch to his back, and the Strut to his walk,
Who is the pricker
Of egos, the tricker
Who puts the fine swearing
In tomcatty talk?

I am the little mouse,
I in my grassy house
Rustling in roots when the Tomcat goes by,
I am the master
Who leads to disaster
Cat rushing brook-ward. Here!
Cat, it is I!

"Church And State"

The writer of The Washington Post editorial of November 2 on "Church and State," commenting on a recent pronouncement of Pope Pius XII to the Roman Rota on the relationship between church and state, makes one objection to the Pope's position in connection with these words of the pontiff: "Church and state go back to the same font, God."

The editorial objection was that "any idea associated with Hegel's concept of the state as God walking on earth is likely to receive an unfavorable reception in this country. The authority exercised by American governments is mangiven authority." The Pope's statement is in perfect agreement with that of the editorial writer. The latter's objections to the papal statement on the ground that the Pope's words are in opposition to his own is based on a misunderstanding of the Pope's words as quoted above.

To say that church and state go back to the same font, God, is simply to acknowledge God as man's creator and provident director of man to his ultimate end. In such a view the church and state become alike instruments ordained by God to aid man in attaining the purpose of existence. There is nothing in that view in any way opposed to men as giving immediate authority over themselves to a particular government.

If civil authority, like that of the church, is ultimately from God, the former authority is certainly immediately from the consent of the governed. That is sound Catholic political philosophy and nothing Pius XII says has contradicted it. The editorial writer's attempt to tie up such a philosophy with the Hegelian philosophy of an absolute state with no authority above or outside the state is an attempt to unite contradictories. Even a cursory knowledge of Caholic thought in this field would have prevented the high incongruity of putting Pius XII and Hegel in the same school of politics or indeed any attempt to unite such disparite views in any area of human thought or action.

Segregated Schools

In The Washington Post of October 31, Dr. Robert A. Maurer, vice president of the Board of Education, commenting on segregation in our public schools, said that the board, in maintaining segregated schools, is carrying out the laws of Congress; that the Organic Act of 1878 and all appropriations "presume" a segregation of schools.

It is true that the Act of 1878 did provide for segregated schools, but our public schools are now operated under the Organic Act of 1906, (34 Stat. 317, Ch. 3448) and not the Act of 1878. The Act of 1906 neither presumes nor compels segregation. And Section 13, the final section, of the act, provides: "This act shall be in effect on the first day of July, 1906, and all acts or parts of acts in conflict herewith are hereby repealed." This act makes no provision for the allocation of funds between white and colored schools, nor does it in any manner suggest that segregation is mandatory.

In the same article Mr. Wender, who directs the operations of recreational areas on the same pattern as the schools are operated, says that, "segregation, where carried out by the board, was a matter of law, and not a matter of arbitrary policy."

To presume is to take undue liberties; to behave with undue boldness; and this is exactly what we think both of the Board of Education and the recreation board are doing. They are taking away the rights and privileges of the Negro people without authority, and we believe that this is unlawful.

Mr. Maurer goes on to say that, "present conditions in many of the schools are almost entirely the result of the war." We do not agree with this, but let us say that it is true—our complaint is not with the cause of segregation and poor buildings and crowded classes; rather we complain of the effects. And much of what is ill in our present school situation would not be so if it were not for the rigid rules of segregation imposed by the Board of Education.

Sensible Skirts

I was delighted to read in The Washington Post of November 3, that Margaret Truman favored the knee-length skirt. Princess Elizabeth said she was going to wear her dresses a little below the knee several months ago, when this fight about skirts first started.

Surely when the two leading ladies of the two leading nations of the world express themselves as preferring "the little below the knee length," there should be no further question as to what length skirt to adopt for business and street wear. I hope other prominent ladies will follow her example of letting it be known that they also favor the sensible length skirt.

Morgenthau Plan

Whenever I see the name of Henry Morgenthau, as I did in one of your editorials a few days ago in connection with the European DPs, I almost see red, as I recall his extra-curricular pronouncement that I have regarded as being largely responsible for the Battle of the Bulge, which cost us so many casualties.

That pronouncement about an "agricultural economy" for Germany played right into Goebbel's hands and made the Germans fight like demons thereafter. It was worse than the "unconditional surrender" pronouncement which Mr. Churchill was against for the same reason. Churchill knew that the Reds would be the enemies of tomorrow as they had been the enemies of yesterday, and he naturally had that contingency in mind.

By the policy pursued, we have helped greatly to make Russia a more powerful nation and the potential ruler of Europe and Asia. Of the two totalitarian powers it is the worse, in my judgment. My fear is that by a myopic policy we have put our own system of government in jeopardy.

I wish Mr. Morgenthau had told in his writings who was responsible for his usurping the functions of the State Department in the above particular so that the future may be able to assay the wisdom of the policy.

"Plebe System"

I was rather taken aback when I read the article, "Why I Resigned From Annapolis," by former Midshipman R. L. Smith in the October Atlantic. I was even further astonished when I was confronted with your editorial, "Plebe System," Otober 24. I can find some excuse for Mr. Smith's article; it is rather obvious to me that he is or has been embittered by his experiences at Annapolis and has chosen to express his troubles in exaggeration. Frankly, I don't know whether to start first with Mr. Smith's article or yours. Since his is the more vicious of the two, allow me to make a few initial comments.

Mr. Smith tries to clear his own position in the public view by emphasizing the fact that he stayed at the academy for seven months after the conclusion of plebe year, thereby exonerating himself from any accusations that might arise as to whether he resigned because he "couldn't take it." Apparently he feels that as a third classman he was no longer expected to abide by the "system" but just couldn't stand seeing others treated as he had been. It seems to me that if things were actually as bad as stated, and if Smith were as conscientious as he would have us believe, he would have indeed remained at the Naval Academy if for no reason other than to reform the "system."

But rather than concentrate on Smith's article, I would rather consider his and yours in the sense that they were both written about a situation that no longer exists.

The first class governs the general conduct and actions of the brigade by a class policy which is strictly adhered to by every midshipman. I would like to quote the preamble to our class policy to give you an idea of how wrong both you and Mr. Smith are in assuming a negative attitude toward the make-up of interbrigade discipline.

"We, the members of the class of 1948-B, intend to develop discipline based upon mutual respect and the principles disclosed to us in the recently established leadership course. We contend that the former interclass relationships have lost sight of the purpose for which they were designed, namely, the indoctrination of loyalty and cooperation in and between all classes, with a brigade esprit de corps second to none.

"We intend to utilize the methods which eliminate the flagrant violations of mature personal dignity. We hold that instruction by example is vital to the organization and the administration of any military unit.

"With the aforesaid principles as guides, we shall develop a body of men who will go forth into the Naval Service as better leaders and better officers."

These basic principles and the supplementary stipulations based upon them were submitted to the superintendent of the Naval Academy, approved and given the full force of regulations after they had been agreed upon by the entire first class at a class meeting. It is not hard to express the feelings of the underclasses toward our aims. I personally asked a fourth classman to give me his candid opinion of the Naval Academy and its interclass relationships. His response was simple but convincing: "I like the Naval Academy and the many friends I have made here very much. I am thankful for the opportunity to attend such a fine school as you Americans have here at Annapolis. I have never been molested nor have I been dealt with unfairly in any manner."

Midshipman Henry Richards of New Orleans, La., formerly an enlisted man in the Navy, was equally as satisfied with his associations and experiences of the past five months, supposedly the hardest for plebes. When asked if he had any complaints regarding the upper classes, he, too, answered in the negative. "I honestly have no cause to complain; I think that the first-class policy is as fair as any could be and I hope none of my classmates destroys what we plebes have here by 'bucking' the policy. I have heard many stories about what the academy used to be like many years ago. It certainly has changed for the better. I can't quite understand some of these articles I've read recently."

I could quote many others, but the general consensus is typified by these two plebes and immediately displays the fact that rather than being an unpleasant existence, plebe year is now a guided and relatively pleasant step from previous environment toward a naval career.

Two-Way Aid Plan

By Malvina Lindsay

Tomorrow's Trade

"I'M WILLING enough to save people in Europe from starving," says the American taxpayer, "but I won't be a sucker. What I want to know is—how long are they going to be on our necks?"

This question now being widely asked may bring the public up against fact facing that goes beyond the necessity of saving an occasional egg or slice of bacon. Those concerned with making the European Recovery Program something more than a handout believe Americans cannot deal with it intelligently unless first awakened to the foreign trade crisis toward which the Nation is drifting. Here is what they would say to the questioning taxpayer:

"How long you will need to help Europe depends largely on yourself. Not on your being a Santa Claus, but on what you do about helping Europeans make and sell goods so they can earn dollars to buy food for themselves.

"First, please realize that these 'lazy foreigners,' as you sometimes call them, don't want charity any more than you would want it. From England, France, Holland, other countries constantly comes the plea: 'Only give us a chance to help ourselves.'

"RIGHT NOW housewives all over England, led by Queen Mary, are busy with the needle in their few leisure moments making articles to sell abroad to get precious dollars to buy food. It is true these sweaters, golf stockings, baby coats, rugs, leather goods will be expensive, partly because of our tariff barriers. But they are an example of the enterprise and hopes of people who want to stand on their own feet.

"By helping them you would also help your own pocketbook—if tariffs could be adjusted so you could buy their goods more reasonably. That is what the multilateral trade agreements among 17 nations recently concluded at Geneva is making a start toward doing. Next week in Havana the United Nations Conference on International Trade and Employment will try to do something more permanent about this.

"You see Europeans make many goods you need, which mean economic life to them. Holland is busy raising bulbs, England making tweeds, linens, pottery, chinaware; France wine, perfumes, clothing; other countries gloves, shoes, handbags, watches that they hope to sell you so they may buy food to get strength to rebuild their countries, and also buy machinery and other products to restore their industries.

"If they are not put on their own feet economically, you will be disturbed for years to come by their hunger—unless they drag you down sooner into their depression."

"BUT," YOU are probably saying, 'If I buy their products, what will happen to our made-in-America goods?' Have you ever thought what would happen to American goods if you didn't take their products?

"Our wheat, cotton, automobiles, freight cars, typewriters, fountain pens, kitchen gadgets would pile up in such surpluses that exporting industries would lay off millions of workers. Moreover, most of the goods foreign peoples want to sell here are not in competition with our main products.

"Here is a sobering fact—this is not merely a question of relief for Europeans, it's also a question of trade relief for yourself. This country can't continue having its cake and eating it. It can't keep on selling abroad unless it also buys. Right now our exports are falling because people abroad have less and less dollars with which to buy them. The more they fall, the more people here lose jobs.

"Even if the European Recovery plan is adopted, goods sent abroad under it to rehabilitate Europe won't make up the lag. This is a dilemma the country has been building up to for a quarter of a century. Our biggest economic problem of tomorrow is: How are we going to sell the surplus of goods we can produce above what we can buy? Economists warn that to be prosperous in the future we will have to adapt our economy to taking more imports. Only that way can we get customers for our goods."

"PR" For Washington

Here in Cincinnati we have just ended a proportional representative council election and I believe it is the best example of what our founding fathers meant in the Bill of Rights, and the other institutions under which we live and work. Cincinnati reelected a CIO labor leader, reelected a Negro civic worker, elected an AFL labor official and six other truly representative Americans, all chosen by proportional representation.

Not one of the nine candidates for council had to run in any primary because we have eliminated the primary. Not one needed the O. K. of any political boss or party, although Republicans and Democrats and Independents ran under respective labels of their groups. Voters simply marked their ballots numerically—from 1 to 9 in the order of their choice. Thus one could vote for any man from any "party" or for men from all parties, in the order of one's preference. This makes every vote count. The council hires a city manager who does all the hiring and firing.

In this way the District of Columbia could set a shining example to the whole Nation and to the world—that American freedom is not just a pretty sentiment in an ancient document written in longhand by some philosophical lawyers a long time ago.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

Iron Curtain And Marshall Plan

LIPPMANN

THE BAD news about the prospects of the crop from the winter wheat belt in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas underline sharply the conclusion of the Paris conference that European recovery requires a resumption of trade and mutual aid between western and eastern Europe. Perhaps the greatest weakness in the Administration's presentation of the program to Congress is its extreme understatements about—one might almost say its disposition to gloss over—the crucial importance to the success of the Marshall Plan of a flow of food and feeding stuffs, also of timber and coal, from eastern Europe. The likelihood of a very poor American crop will dramatize the impossibility, which was well understood in Paris, of basing the recovery of western Europe and western Germany on the resources of North America alone.

I AM venturing, therefore, to make a few observations on the relation of the eastern European countries to the Marshall Plan. They are based on a number of off-the-record talks I had with Communists, non-Communists, and anti-Communists in Warsaw and Prague just after the 16 western nations at Paris had completed their report.

It is clear to me that the prompt acceptance of the invitation to participate in a European program reflected the real interests and sentiment of Poland and Czechoslovakia, the two key countries within the Soviet orbit. I am no less certain that the command from Moscow forbidding them to participate on pain of a rupture of their alliances was a humiliation which will long be remembered. For it must never be forgotten, no matter what the appearances, that the Poles and the Czechs are intensely patriotic, nationalistic peoples. It is immensely significant that the Soviet propaganda designed to reconcile them to nonparticipation is based almost entirely on assertions that the Marshall Plan will impair the sovereignty and independence of the European nations.

WHATEVER the real reasons which caused Moscow itself to decide against participation, it is reasonably clear now that Moscow realized the great attraction of a European program to its allies. In opposing it, Moscow was taking what it thought was a calculated risk. Its primary calculation was that no country would in time of peace make such a massive contribution to the welfare of other nations except on terms which required heavy sacrifices from the recipients. The Russians felt sure, because that is the way they would have acted, that the project would fail: that Congress was not capable of the enlightened disinterestedness of Secretary Marshall's Harvard speech, and that it would not vote the funds without making demands which the Europeans would be compelled to reject.

Soviet propaganla against the Marshall Plan—the charge of American imperialism—is staked upon the belief that in voting the funds Congress will impose political conditions, and that in administering the aid the State Department will intervene in the internal affairs of every country that accepts aid. The Communists are telling Europe that the Marshall Plan is merely the Truman Doctrine, and that the Truman Doctrine is exemplified by the Greek intervention.

NEVERTHELESS, I am satisfied that not too much weight should be given to the propagandist attack. It has not disposed of the need and the desire of the eastern nations to participate in a European program of recovery. They are reconciled to nonparticipation in the immediate American aid program, as distinguished from the general European program, because, having studied the report, they believe that even if there were no ideological and diplomatic barriers, they would not qualify for much American assistance.

They see that the American Government aid is largely concentrated on food, fuel, and raw materials, rather than on capital goods. Now eastern Europe and Russia are not in a crisis arising from a deficiency of food, fuel, and raw materials. They are potential exporters of these commodities to the west. What they want from the west are capital goods which, as they become available, they expect to buy with their food and fuel.

THE DIFFERENCE between western Europe and eastern Europe is that the west is in a state of crisis—which requires emergency aid from North America—whereas eastern Europe is, except for certain regions like Bohemia, in a state of chronic misery, which can be relieved only gradually. The west has a higher standard of life which is in danger of collapse if American aid is not forthcoming promptly. The east is accustomed to a low standard of life but it is able at least to maintain it out of the resources which are open to it. For western Europe abnormal aid is required if the existing social order is to be maintained. For eastern Europe its isolation means that the improvement of its condition of life will be much slower than if intercourse with the west is resumed and begins to flourish.

Therefore, in the short run there is no irresistible pressure upon Moscow from within the Soviet orbit to make a European settlement. This is the strongest asset Moscow has in the diplomatic bargaining over the German and the Austrian treaties. In diplomatic terms the cardinal virtue of the Marshall Plan is that in relieving the crisis of western Europe, it permits western Europe to bargain on equal, even favorable terms, with eastern Europe. If it were not for the Mashall Plan, western Europe would have to accept necessitous bargains in order to get access to the indispensable food of the east.

IN THE longer run, however, the bargaining position of Russia must decline. Eastern Europe, especially in view of Russia's own tremendous reconstruction needs, must stagnate if trade is not resumed with the west. There is no prospect of eastern Europe's being able to become self-sufficient in capital goods—in steel products, machine tools, electrical equipment. The Communists in these countries know this quite as well as anyone else, and there is little doubt, I think, that they will work for the resumption of trade as they develop exportable surpluses and as the western countries are able to make available capital goods.

IF WE are wise, we shall encourage the resumption of this trade, which is fundamental to the success of the Marshall Plan. We shall rescind any vetoes which may have been interposed on productive loans to eastern Europe. We shall remove the impression that we frown upon the negotiation of trade agreements. We shall abstain from contemplating the notion of a separate peace with a part of Germany which would make permanent the provisional division of Europe into two military spheres.

We shall bring our diplomatic planning into harmony, not with an unduly low estimate of how to "sell" the program to Congress but, with the realities of the European recovery program—to which our people are about to make the largest contribution which any nation has ever in time of peace made for the general interest of mankind.

Off The Record

By Ed Reed

"I always take the labels off the cans—I never like to know what we'll have for dinner."

U. S. Incomes At New High In September

American incomes soared to an all time high in September, the Commerce Department reported yesterday.

September personal income rolled up to an "extraordinary annual rate" of $210,300,000,000, the department said, explaining that the annual rate is determined by multiplying the seasonally adjusted total for the month by 12.

The department said the outsize figure was due largely to the heavy cashing of GI terminal leave bonds in September, but it added that even if the bond cashing were left out September's annual rate would still be nearly four billion dollars above the 195 billion dollars of August.

A major reason was the upswing in factory payrolls in September to an annual rate of 45 billion dollars, bettering even the wartime highs reached in early 1945, as employment expanded and average weekly earnings rose.

With both prices and sales of livestock increasing above August levels, farm income also rose substantially, as did that of business owners. The latter, the department said, reflected chiefly increases in manufacturers and retailers sales.

Personal incomes cover all receipts by individuals including relief payments along with wages and salaries, business and farm net income, dividends and interest and net rents of landlords.

The record rise in September lifted the average of personal income for the first nine months of 1947 to an annual rate of $194,500,000,000, the department said. That compares with $177,200,000,000 actually received in 1946.

Farmer Co-op Tax Exemption Is Attacked

By The Associated Press

Repeal of the Federal income tax exemption for farmer cooperatives was urged upon the House Ways and Means Committee yesterday by the National Tax Equality Association.

Garner M. Lester of Jackson, Miss., association vice president, testified that "escape from income taxes presents a three-fold problem that seriously affects our Government, our economy and our Nation's future." He listed the three:

1. The Treasury "is losing hundreds of millions of dollars of needed revenue each year through income-tax loopholes favoring certain kinds of business organizations."

2. Taxpaying businesses — especially smaller enterprises — "are slowly but surely being strangled by this unfair competitive situation."

3. "National totalitarianism will inevitably result of the American system of private enterprise for profit is supplanted by a subsidized system."

Called "Big Business"

Lester said co-ops "have become big business," doing a 13 billion dollar annual tax-free business volume."

He said the issue "involves no question as to the right of cooperatives to exist and to grow in the reasonable manner of their competitors." Co-op spokesmen have contended before the committee that the real purpose in the tax fight is to destroy cooperatives.

Lester said the National Tax Equality Association has nearly 8000 members, mostly small businessmen.

The committee has taken up the coop tax status as part of a study looking toward a general overhauling of tax statutes. It has not indicated what, if anything, it will do with the coop tax status.

Others Testify

John H. Stambaugh of Valparaiso, Ind., representing the National Retail Farm Equipment Association, testified "if tax exemption and other favoritisms are continued they will result in elimination of independent business establishments and will break down the competitive system of free enterprise which prevails throughout the farm equipment industry."

Joseph F. Walsh of Potosi, Wis. told the committee he has organized many cooperatives but has always believed "we should pay our share of the taxes like any other corporation."

Walsh said in a statement that "Eventhough I am fully convinced that the cooperative movement is not the salvation of th eeconomic far mproblem, I am still strongly convinced cooperatives render great benefits to the rural communities.

"There are, however, many abuses in the movement to which I am bitterly opposed."

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Behind The Harriman Report

THE GENERAL acclaim for the Harriman report is recognition of the truly great qualities of that document. For a long time to come, it is likely to be a landmark in the sea of words poured out on the question of European aid.

CHILDS

First of all, it faces the facts of life on both sides of the Atlantic. No wishful thinking colors its conclusion that aid sufficient to stimulate recovery must come from the United States.

Nor was any effort made to gild the conclusions with the phony rhetoric that is too often applied to state papers as icing is put on a wedding cake. The fact that the report is written in simple, readable English is an unexpected break.

The 20 members of the Harriman committee—the President's Committee on Foreign Aid—represent a wide range of opinion and an even broader range of capacity and interests. On the whole, the weight is heavily on the conservative side. W. Randolph Burgess, vice chairman of the National City Bank of New York, is a conservative banker unalterably opposed to Government in business. Chester C. Davis, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, is likewise a conservative with a deep suspicion of Government intervention.

Yet, along with James B. Carey of the CIO, and George Meany of the AFL, and economists, industrialists and agricultural specialists, they sat down and agreed on the terms under which American resources could be made available for European recovery. They weren't always in agreement. Some pretty hot arguments went on before they signed their names to the final document.

TWO MEN deserve special credit for the report of the committee. One is Richard Bissell, jr., executive secretary to the group. Bissell worked unceasingly to marshal the facts and figures that were the basis for the agreed conclusions.

The other is Robert M. La Follette, jr., former Senator from Wisconsin, a member of the committee. La Follette's role is particularly revealing of the forces that have brought America to this time of decision.

La Follette is the head of a political dynasty that stood for isolationism through two world wars. His late father, "Fighting Bob," believed that America could stay out of World War I. For speaking his convictions, he was pilloried in the war fever leading up to American entry.

"Young Bob," as the son has always been known in Wisconsin, believed that America could stay strong in the Western Hemisphere and thereby avoid involvement in World War II. He did not think that America could settle Europe's quarrel by intervening.

In the Republican primary election last year, La Follette's opponent was Joseph R. McCarthy, a veteran of World War II. McCarthy attacked La Follette both for his isolationism and his progressivism. La Follette would normally have expected support from trade-union members in the industrial areas of Wisconsin. But he had made a speech some time before attacking Russia's imperialist aggression in eastern Europe. Communist-dominated unions in Milwaukee set out to defeat this man who had done so much for organized labor. In La Follette's opinion, this supplied the narrow margin of his defeat.

HE HAD already begun to shed his isolationism. He saw only too well the hostility of communism for anyone who stood, as he had done throughout his career, for social progress achieved through evolution and democratic consent rather than through revolution and dictatorship.

It was at the urging of his good friend Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, who had likewise left isolationism behind him, that La Follette was named to the President's committee. In every session La Follette's repeated insistence was on making the committee's report as realistic as possible, so that the public would believe in it.

Thus far the only dissenter seems to be Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio. The fear of communism has blasted him from his former America First position. Yet, as in almost everything else, Taft is a "yes, but . . ." man.

In his New York speech to the Ohio Society he proposed stopgap aid for Europe next year of about three billion dollars at the most. This is roughly half of the $5,750,000,000 proposed in the Harriman report.

In reality, what Taft proposes is to continue the European breadline. It is the surest way to guarantee more—one, two or three years—of "operation rathole." That is perhaps the most important conclusion of the Harriman group—aid that is merely a dole will never bring reconstruction in Europe.

Hotel Room Denied to Haitian Official at Mississippi Parley

By The Associated Press

Francois Georges, Haitian Minister of Agriculture, said yesterday he was told that "for reason of color" no hotel reservation was available for him when he arrived in Biloxi, Miss., to attend a national Agriculture Conference.

Speaking through an interpreter at the Haitian Embassy here, Georges told a reporter he had been invited as a guest of honor to the meeting of the National Association of Commissioners, secretaries and directors or agriculture in Biloxi November 9 to 13.

He said although his reservation at the Buena Vista Hotel had been confirmed, he was told by a hotel official when he arrived that there was no room for him.

Subsequently, he said, H. K. Thatcher, executive secretary-treasurer of the association, told him that "for reason of color" he could not be accepted.

In Biloxi, Thatcher, who is Commissioner of Agriculture of Arkansas, said that Haiti, along with Mexico and other countries as far south as the Panama Canal, had been invited to send representatives to the conference.

"It never occurred to us at the time we mailed the letters that this situation would arise," Thatcher said.

He added that after Georges arrived he was assigned to a cottage outside the hotel and was told that he would be welcome to participate in the meeting, but that his meals would be served in the cottage.

Georges refused the offer, Thatcher said, and at the request of the Haitian, he was driven to New Orleans in a State patrol car to leave by plane for Washington early Sunday.

A State Department press officer said the department hadn't yet received any notice of the incident.

Democrats to Open Convention July 12

Next year's Democratic National Convention will open in Philadelphia Monday, July 12, National Chairman J. Howard McGrath announced yesterday.

Republicans will meet in the same city to select a presidential candidate three weeks earlier.

New Car Sales Here Up 44% In Ten Months

By S. Oliver Goodman

Washington sales of new passenger and commercial automobiles in October totaled 2279, an increase of 126 over the previous month but 347 under October, 1946.

October was the first month this year in which new car sales here were under those of the same 1946 period, according to records of the Washington Automotive Trade Association.

Cumulative sales for the first 10 months this year amounted to 17,093, or 44 per cent over the 11,844 in the same 1946 period.

Meanwhile, local auto dealers were studying plans of the National Automobile Dealers Association to improve public relations. Main reason for this campaign apparently is contained in results of an automotive market survey recently published for dealers which revealed that:

Twenty-five per cent of car owners planning to buy in 1947 admitted placing orders with more than one dealer;

Fifty per cent of new car buyers are doing business with the same dealer who sold them their last car;

Forty-eight per cent believe dealers aren't fair in distributing motor cars;

The average car in communities over 2500 is a 1940 model with 58,000 miles on its speedometer.

Immediate dealer objective is to soothe ruffled feelings of the 48 per cent who consider auto distribution unfair. In this connection NADA claims sales abuses "are due mainly to the insufficient supply to meet the heavy demand for new automobiles and willingness of some buyers to resell recently purchased new cars at fantastic prices."

Many dealers, NADA points out, have attempted to curb this latter practice by negotiating "repurchase pacts" under which buyers agree to retain cars for a specified period or sell them back to dealers.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Former Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson yesterday was named general counsel of Reynolds Metals Co. and will also be elected a director of the firm, according to President R. S. Reynolds. Patterson recently retired to private business and formed the law firm of Patterson, Belnap & Webb . . . James S. Adams will retire as chairman of the board of Standard Brands, Inc., on December 31 and join the securities firm of Lazard Freres & Co. as a general partner . . . W. J. LeMunyon of New York will address the auditors' section of District Bankers Association at meeting tonight in Burlington Hotel.

NEW DIRECTOR: Andrew Parker, president of Woodward & Lothrop, Inc., was elected to the directorate of Riggs National Bank, President Robert V. Fleming announced yesterday. Parker was born in Washington and educated at St. Albans School here and at Lehigh University. He has been associated with the Washington department store since 1936 and became its president last July 1. He is a grandson of the late S. Walter Woodward, who helped to found the store in 1880.

Pennsy Omits Dividend Action

Philadelphia, Nov. 12 (AP).—Pennsylvania Railroad directors at a meeting today omitted action on a second dividend for the year.

The railroad, which has made a return to stockholders every year since its organization in 1846, paid a 50-cent dividend April 15. It has paid two dividends annually since 1940, last year's amounting to $2.50.

Latest earnings report of the railroad show a deficit of $7,051,372 for the first nine months of 1947 compared with a deficit of $14,787,100 for the same period last year.

The PRR paid only one dividend in 1939—November 8—but made payments in May and November from 1940 through 1945. In connection with last year's anniversary, payments were made in March and June.

"NEVER KNEW HOME-LIFE COULD BE SO GAY" says Washington Husband

"A few months ago I brought home a business friend for a pot-luck dinner. My wife was furious because I hadn't forewarned her and we were having stew. So, to mollify her, I called up the corner store and had them send up a bottle of Virginia Dare Wine to dress up the table ... Well, that bottle of wine added so much pleasure and gaiety to our evening that now we serve Virginia Dare every night, even when we dine alone."

Thousands have found that Virginia Dare has a magic way of turning quiet little evenings at home into big, gay evenings of smooth, solid happiness! P. S. Also try Garrett's Port, Sherry, Muscatel, Sauterne, Rhine and Burgundy.

Railroad Unions Organize For 1948 Political Campaign

By The Associated Press

Top officers of 19 railroad unions last night set up an organization for political activity in the 1948 elections, the first such move in recent railroad annals.

Up to now each of the railroad brotherhoods has decided on indorsement or opposition to candidates as a separate union and without a direct appeal to the more than 1,500,000 railroad workers for united action.

The Railway Labor Executives Association recessed its meeting late yesterday, then met as individuals and formed "Railroad Labor's Political League."

The executives of 19 of the 21 railroad unions then adopted a resolution agreeing on the principles to be followed in bylaws to be written, and declaring there is:

"Need for railroad workers more fully and efficiently to exercise their rights to vote."

The two brotherhoods not in the association are the trainmen of A. F. Whitney, and the locomotive engineers of Alvanley Johnston.

The association, under the leadership of Harry W. Fraser of the Order of Railway Conductors, and T. C. Cashen, retiring chairman of the Railway Labor Executives Association, said railroad labor "should be more fully informed on the issues arising in election contests."

2 Cleared in Rape Case, One Guilty

Two Washington men were cleared by a Prince Georges County, Md., jury early yesterday of charges of raping a 24-year-old Washington Woman. One of the defendants, however, was found guilty of assault with intent to rape.

Absolved was Thomas C. Chambers, 26, of 4689 A st. se. a former Washington policeman. Convicted was William P. Brown, 30 of 1629 Corcoran st. nw. He faces a sentence of from 18 months to life imprisonment.

The jury returned its verdict at 3:33 a. m. after two hours deliberations.

The State charged that Brown hailed a taxicab for the woman on the night of June 2, got into the cab with her, and assaulted her after a drive in Prince Georges County. Chambers was driver of the taxicab, it was testified.

SOUL AND BODY: John Garfield and Hazel Brooks in the Palace's fine film of the fighting world, "Body and Soul," in which Anne Revere, as the fighter's mother, is giving one of the year's best performances

Lawrence Versatility Is Given A Workout in 6 Coward Items

Baltimore, Nov. 12.—Gertrude Lawrence is delighting Baltimoreans at Ford's Theater this week in her revival of six of Noel Coward's "Tonight at 8:30" playlets.

Coward himself directed the series prior to returning to England this afternoon on the Queen Mary. The two appeared in the playlets 12 years ago in England and a year later at Washington's National Theater. In the varied roles the playlets provide, Miss Lawrence reveals the versatility which has made her a top American favorite.

She is at her best in "Hands Across the Sea," a zany trifle, and "Fumed Oak," which its author has called "an unpleasant comedy." Her airy nitwit of the first comedy is a delight offering in neat contrast to the grubby tartar of "Fumed Oak."

In "Shadow Play," the finale of this particular bill, she is far less effective and so is Coward's writing. The songs, "You Were There" and "Play, Orchestra, Play," are fine, but the story, staging and dancing of the piece leave much to be desired. It's a definite let-down to the evening and should be replaced with material from Coward's revue sketches. This bill will be repeated Friday night and Saturday matinee.

"Red Peppers," juiciest of Coward's parodies, closes the second bill, which includes "Ways and Means" and "Family Album." These will be done again Thursday and Saturday nights.

Graham Payn, noted during the war years in London musicals, plays several of Coward's old roles and more than suffices, particularly as a dancer and singer. Philip Tonge scores effectively in character roles. Ablest of the supporting players is Norah Howard, who appeared in Washington in "The Wookey" and "You Touched Me." She does extremely well by the Limey character parts.

Producers Homer Curran, Lewis and Young are taking the plays to Philadelphia and Boston before opening a Pacific Coast run Christmas Eve. They plan to take them to Washington "at the earliest possible date."—R. L. C.

One on the Aisle—

Picture's a Knockout ... Palace Has One Of Year's Best

By Richard L. Coe

THE PALACE HAS a swell picture in "Body and Soul"—one of the year's best. You shouldn't miss it.

While this is a story of the ring racket, it's a great deal more than that in purely human values. Its theme is the disease of materialism, that same soul-destroying poison which disrupts families and brings on world wars. This isn't stated, but it's unmistakable.

Everything about "Body and Soul" has been well done. The cast, headed by John Garfield, Anne Revere and Lilli Palmer, is splendid. The screen play by Abraham Polansky is a model of such writing. The photography by James Wong Howe is a study in itself.

After such recommendations you may be surprised to learn that the story is one you've seen in scores of pictures. A poor young man wants to make money and the prize ring is the easiest, quickest way. By the time he has gotten to the top he's lost those closest to him and learned that the game is a dirty business. At the climax of his career he has a choice: lose the championship but win a pile of money or win the championship and risk the gang violence controlled by a fistic dictator.

That doesn't sound very promising as fresh screen material, does it?

But by observant dialogue, honest character-drawing, one of the best fight scenes the movies have given us and, above all, by telling the story in pictures, this familiar outline becomes engrossing.

The Essence of Moving Pictures

The fact that it's told primarily in pictures is the pith of the movie. Essential as Polansky's admirable dialogue is, the film could be watched and completely understood by a deaf man. Each sequence is dovetailed neatly into the pattern of the whole; there are no extraneous scenes which so often destroy the effect of a film. A great deal is shown of the story of Charley Davis, but never too much.

As a picture of the fight game, it probably will draw howls of foul play from the inner circle it shows in such pitiless light. For authenticity, we'll leave that to the sports writers; but people being as they are when it comes to the disease of grab-grab-grab, "Body and Soul's" atmosphere of the ring racket seems completely convincing.

While the entire cast is fine, Anne Revere is outstanding as the fighter's mother, a poor, proud woman who despises her son's ambitions but is too wise to attempt more than the role of shrewd observer. It's written with fine honesty and Miss Revere makes it Academy Award caliber.

John Garfield Scores

John Garfield never has had a finer role than Charley. Tough, determined, dreamy but honest, his Charley is a memorable figure. Lilli Palmer, maintaining an individuality unique in Hollywood, is splendid as the girl who loves him but refuses to have anything to do with the man the racket has made of him. And there's a strikingly sensuous newcomer in Hazel Brooks, a South African-born Brooklynite who became a model, then Mrs. Cedric Gibbons and now a film player. Whether she's an actress, we doubt, but she's certainly a looker.

Canada Lee, too, is fine as a boxer who is eventually killed in throwing a fight to Charley, and so is Joseph Pevney as Charley's repental pal who first got him into the rat race.

On realism of setting and authenticity of dialogue, the new Enterprise Studio is to be congratulated. Their first pictures, "Ramrod" and "The Other Love," were not much to boast about, but in "Body and Soul" Producers David Loew and Charles Einfeld have a winner.

IN BRIEF: "Nightmare Alley" did so well at the Capitol it's staying a second week. The stage show will be new, however, with Edith Fellows of the movies heading the bill . . . Sidney Lust's Drive-In Theater at Beltsville closes its first season Saturday night. Lust says he's planning to resume in April "bigger and better than ever." This leaves Paul Foley's Airport as the area's surviving member of the drive-in trio . . . "The Raider" yesterday began its second week at the Little . . . "The Captive Heart" will stay another stanza at the Hippodrome beginning Saturday.

TOMORROW: "Christmas Eve," a three-stories-in-one yarn which opens today at the Warner, is reviewed by Richard L. Coe.

Mich. GOP Chiefs Welcome Stassen

Candidate Concedes State to Vandenberg, His Mentor if He Becomes President

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Dearborn, Mich., Nov. 12.—Flying into the Midwest on a delegate-hunting trip, Harold E. Stassen tonight announced that he regarded Michigan as a closed political reserve.

This is the home of Senator Arthur Vandenberg, one of the most distinguished men in the Republican Party, whom many regard as a dark horse in case of a deadlock at the GOP National Convention in Philadelphia.

Stassen, an outright candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said he wouldn't contest for delegate support in Michigan. He said he expected that the 41 delegates from the Wolverine State would "solidly support" Senator Vandenberg.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, regarded as the No. 1 contender for the nomination, adopted pretty much the same attitude when he was visiting his home town of Owosso, Mich., on his "vacation tour" last July.

Many Bigwigs at Dinner

Obviously, both Stassen and Dewey are hoping to be the second choice of the Michigan delegates. For either of them to go after first-choice votes would be the poorest kind of strategy, considering the enormous popularity of Vandenberg.

Stassen's announcement that he would make no contest in Michigan—the first such announcement that has come from him—was made at a dinner in the Dearborn Inn attended by most of Michigan's GOP bigwigs. Among those present were Arthur Summerfield, Republican national committeeman; Mrs. Dudley C. Hay, national committeewoman, and a representative of Gov. Kim Sigler.

Stassen, who had dinner with Senator Vandenberg in Washington just before taking off on this 12-State tour, paid eloquent tribute to the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"I have found myself in more complete agreement with the positions taken by Senator Vandenberg, both on foreign and domestic matters, than with any other Republican leader," Stassen said.

Whirlwind Morning in N. Y.

The former Minnesota Governor added that if he should be elected President he would count heavily on Vandenberg for counsel and advice.

Stassen went through a whirlwind schedule in New York today before taking off for Dearborn. He began the day with an interview to the political science class at Princeton University, conducted by a means of a telephone and a loud speaker in the classroom. Then came a conference with members of the New York Academy of Medicine, a radio recording, a radio interview and a luncheon address before the Grocery Manufacturers of America.

In this, Stassen called for support of the Truman-Luckman voluntary save-food program. He urged Government announcement of a definite policy to maintain a price relationship between grains and meat, "so that it does not pay to finish cattle with cereal grains."

He advocated creation of a "top-caliber" agency to supervise aid to Europe, and said early steps should be taken to assure manufacturers of farm tractors and fertilizer for spring delivery in Europe.

Stassen was to take off from the Willow Run Airport tonight and fly to St. Paul, Minn., where he was scheduled to arrive at 12:30 a. m.

Metal Workers Strike

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Many industrial planes were tied up today by a nation-wide strike of 16,000 metal workers, who demanded about 30 per cent wage increases.

Mental Cases Are Shackled

ure up to the standards specified, he said.

Dr. Duval pointed out that without the necessary attendants and nurses to operate the modern treatment equipment, the hospital stood less chance of attracting graduate psychiatric students to do resident work.

He said the hospital should try to improve its setup so that Georgetown and George Washington University medical schools would use it for training purposes.

Dr. Duval said he represented Dr. Walter A. Bloedorn, dean of George Washington University medical school, who was unable to attend. "Those of us interested in teaching would very much like to see a better setup at Gallinger," Duval declared.

Mason directed Health Officer George C. Ruhland and his staff to prepare a report for the Commissioners giving details of what must be done to make best use of the hospital's present psychiatric facilities.

He said the Commissioners would go along with any practical suggestions for improvement. The Commissioners are convinced a new psychiatric building is necessary at Gallinger, he said, but they don't know when funds will be available.

Dr. Gilbert said the hospital is attempting to lengthen its period for accredited training from one year to two. Gallinger is now accredited by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology for one year's training, he said. The longer training period would attract more personnel, he declared.

"We never had to manacle patients before the war," Dr. Gilbert asserted. But now, following the wartime drain on personnel, "we are all overworked," he said. "All of our weekend work is done on a voluntary basis."

Mason said he would recommend that Dr. Gilbert's salary be raised "commensurate" with his job and that he be relieved of his duties as District alienist. "Running the psychiatry ward is enough of a job for one man," he declared.

St. Elizabeths Parley Slated for Today

The Commissioners today will meet with Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing to discuss problems concerning the handling of District mental patients at St. Elizabeths Hospital.

Commissioner Guy Mason said the city heads would explore the possibilities of sending more District patients to the hospital at "slightly lower rates."

300 Jam Hearing on Transfer of Schools

now attending classes part-time were to be given full-time instruction.

The transfer of the Webb, Blow, Hayes, Bowen and Lenox Schools will provide them with full schooling, she said.

One Speaker Approves Plan

A majority of the 45 persons who spoke at the hearing were Negroes and all but one opposed the transfer.

Disadvantages cited by speakers were that elementary school buildings are not suited for junior high use, that students will be forced to travel long distances in bad weather, and that the Blow School heating system is inadequate.

Dr. Hobart M. Corning, superintendent of schools, declared after hearing the witnesses that he was "very confused."

"We have always considered part-time instruction in the schools a very serious proposition.

"Yet when we have a chance to do away with it in certain instances you time after time list as more important small inconveniences," Corning said.

A major portion of the three-and-a-half-hour hearing was devoted to a discussion of the Blow and Webb Schools which under the proposed transfer would reduce overcrowding at the Negro Browne Junior High School by 1223 children.

Leonard S. Hayes, an attorney, said that the 15 Negro organizations he represented believed that the advantages of a full-time program are "far outweighed by the disadvantages" of accepting "old, decrepit school buildings."

"It is said that this is to be a temporary transfer, but experience and knowledge leaves us to believe that once these buildings have been transferred, it can then be said that our situation has been alleviated and appropriations can be made to take care of other situations which may arise."

Others who protested the transfer were representatives of the Kingman Park Civic Association; the Far Northeast Business Men's Association; the Washington Industrial Union Council, CIO; the D. C. Teachers' Branch, Local 3, UPW; the Ivy City Civic Association; the Southeast Civic Association; the Committee for Racial Democracy in the Nation's Capital, and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Montgomery Picks Long-Range Seers

5 Planners to Study Road, Zoning, Tax Matters Far Ahead

By Roger B. Farquhar
Post Reporter

How many schools and roads will Montgomery County need in 1960? What about zoning classification needs in 1970? And how high a tax rate will be needed in 1958?

The answers to these and other questions will be sought by a five-man committee named yesterday by the Montgomery County commissioners.

Purpose of the committee is to analyze Montgomery County population trends and the county's future needs.

The members: J. Wilson Dodd, clerk and treasurer of Takoma Park; Ralph Boyd, past president of the Allied Civic Groups; John McDonald, Rockville town engineer; Albert E. Conradis, county public utilities agent, and Gene Fry, Bethesda real estate man.

The committee idea was proposed by Commissioner Wesley I. Sauter of Bethesda, who pointed to a lack of long-range planning by the county government. "We are groping in the dark," he declared.

Sauter and Commissioner Oliver W. Youngblood were asked to submit names of citizens and officials to conduct the survey.

The commissioners also revealed yesterday they had raised the salaries of three trial magistrate clerks, Samuel A. Carr, Bethesda; C. Clyde Harris, Rockville, and Edwin B. Colie, Silver Spring, from $1800 to $2400.

The board further announced award of a contract for a street project near the new Hecht Co. Silver Spring store to the firm of Contee Sand and Gravel Co., of Laurel, which submitted a low bid of $37,018. The project calls for widening Ellsworth dr. from Georgia ave. to Fenton st., widening of Fenton st. from Colesville rd. to Pershing dr., and paving, curbing and guttering Ellsworth dr., and paving, curbing and guttering Ellsworth dr. from Fenton st. to Cedar st.

Service Strike In Fairlington Is Postponed

A strike of some 170 service employes at the Fairlington, Va., housing development, originally planned for today, has been postponed pending a union-management conference Saturday.

The conference was announced yesterday by Samuel Levine, attorney for Local 82, Building Service Employes Union (AFL).

The union had promised to strike today unless the Fair-Mac Corp., which recently took over Fairlington from the Government, agreed to a conference.

Levine said the Fair-Mac Corp. had "persistently refused" to meet union leaders since September 18, when a majority of maintenance and service workers at the development voted to join Local 82.

The union is now seeking recognition as the bargaining agent for Fairlington employes, he said.

William A. Ziegler, general manager of Fair?Mac, said there has been "no refusal to talk with the union," declaring the new corporation took over only on October 10 and that "there hasn't been time to take care of things like the union."

Saturday's meeting, which will be held in offices of David Krooth, attorney for the corporation, will be attended by John Goodman, international vice president of the Building Service Employes Union; Michael Lucas, secretary-treasurer of Local 82, and Robert Bailey, local president, Levine said.

2 New Suspects Held in Robbery And Abduction

Two new suspects in the brutal robbery and abduction of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jones, 3334 Blaine st. ne., were nabbed by police at 1st and D sts. nw. early last night.

Earlier in the day, two other suspects in the Jones robbery and the robbery-shooting of Paul S. Allen of Baltimore were cleared when the victims failed to identify them.

The Joneses were forced into their car at gunpoint near Union Station Monday night, robbed and beaten before they leaped from their moving car.

Allen was shot by two men, believed to be the Jones assailants, the same night.

Human Problems Are Paraded Before New Legal Aid Bureau

A parade of human problems—many tragic a few amusing—comes every month to Arlington's new Legal Aid Bureau.

Last April, the 60 lawyer-members of the bureau banded together to offer their legal services free to those who can't afford to hire a lawyer.

Since that time, the bureau has given its free counsel to 74 cases; the veteran who wanted advice on how to go about marrying a girl he met overseas; the wife who wants her husband committed to an institution for alcholism—and the lady who needed advice on changing her name from Mabel to Mable.

Before one bureau attorney recently came an attractive, 30-year-old woman. While she struggled on a storeclerk's salary to feed her three children, she explained, her husband had deserted her.

She needed advice on how to divorce him, she said, so that she might marry a steady, "decent guy," she's met, who might make a good father to her children. The bureau advised her, and the divorce is pending.

Roughly 50 per cent of all cases the bureau hears concern domestic relations, about 30 per cent are about contracts, and 20 per cent refer to real estate problems.

And some cases defy classification, like that of the man who complained a handyman had taken his radiator for repairs, had failed to return it. With bureau advice, he got his radiator back.

The 60 participating attorneys give their time at no charge. One a day, in rotation, they sit at bureau headquarters, 2054 N. 14th st., Arlington, to meet clients. Expenses of the service are met entirely from voluntary contributions of members of the Arlington Bar Association.

The bureau's executive committee, headed by Attorney Thomas Phillips, includes former Trial Justice Harry R. Thomas, Denman T. Rucker, newly elected Commonwealth's Attorney, and Attorneys Cornelius H. Doherty and Philip M. Grabill.

Biggest Stomach Ache Wears Out Zoo Workers

Pittsburgh, Nov. 12 (AP).—Highland Park Zoo workers were struggling today to care for the biggest stomach ache in the zoo's history.

Gloria, the elephant, was laid up with chronic indigestion. To prevent the three-ton animal from getting hypostatic pneumonia, her keepers have to turn her over, from on eside to the other, at intervals. And this, they said, was no cinch.

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

I'D SAY SATURDAY'S Maryland-North Carolina game at Griffith Stadium stacks up as the press agents' dream game, requiring no special artifices of press-agentry to whip up the biggest crowd in Washington's college football history.

POVICH

Maryland vs. North Carolina at this point of the season is so attractive per se (hot diggety!) that the ballyhoo boys of the two schools, the Messrs. Jake Wade and George Carroll, ought to pay their way into the park. As they go through the pass gate on Saturday afternoon, at least a blush would not be unbecoming.

No two publicity men ever had it softer. The customers don't have to be softened up for this one. That they are aware of the attraction was evidenced when the week opened with a 19,000 advance sale to the game. It's sure-shot to break the previous record of 25,000 to a college football game in the stadium, established, I seem to recall, by the Navy-Penn State game of 1922.

The fans began to scent this one a few weeks ago when Maryland's coach, Jim Tatum, demonstrated that he had something very special in the way of a football team. Carolina would be the test.

THE FOOTBALL FAN practically has his choice of reasons for wanting to see this one. Just to name a few, it presents:

1. Once-beaten Maryland against the team that was supposed to be the best in the South, and could be, yet.

2. Lu Gambino, Mr. Maryland Backfield, who has been averaging two touchdowns per game to lead the country in scoring, versus Charley Justice.

3. Maryland's smart T-formation stacked against Carolina's single-wing sorcery.

4. The old master versus pupil wheeze, with Carolina coached by Carl Snavely whose former tackler of 1934, Tatum, is Mr. Coach at Maryland.

And, anyway, Maryland's good football team has been something of a myth to Washington fans to this point. It's the first Washington appearance of the Tatum team that has been getting all the space in the papers and the first showing in Washington of Gambino.

FOR FOUR YEARS, now, Washington folks have been hearing about Charley Justice who was the super back of the Bainbridge Naval Station before he took Carolina into the Sugar Bowl as a freshman last season. In 1946, Justice was having a bad day when he didn't get off at least one 50-yard touchdown gallop.

Against V. P. I. last year, Justice galloped 68 yards to a touchdown. Against Miami, he scrambled 66 yards to another. Against Florida, he ran 90 yards with a kickoff and 70 yards with a punt to score. His stint against Tennessee was a 74-yard touchdown run. Virginia slowed him up a bit. He ran only 54, 45 and 18 yards to touchdowns.

This year Justice has averaged only 4.5 yards per rushing attempt. There were tall stories of dissension on the Carolina team, with the other players said to be miffed about the lavish treatment of Justice by the athletic authorities. One story had it he lived sumptuously in a four-room apartment with a chauffeured limousine at his disposal. "Rubbish," says Jake Wade. "He lives in two almost bare rooms with his wife, and drives a little Chevrolet."

TO THE REPORT that the Carolina players weren't blocking for Justice, public relations man Wade has another ready answer. "That's right, except they weren't blocking well for any of our other backs, either, in the two games we lost to Texas and Wake Forest. But that stage has passed. We've won our last four from William and Mary, Florida, Tennessee and Carolina State, and the blocking now is good."

The Tarheels were off with a roar this season, licking Georgia, their Sugar Bowl rival of last January 1, by 14 to 7. And then came disaster. They journeyed out to Texas and were slapped down, 34 to 0, then lost their second in a row, 19-7, to Wake Forest.

The Texas defeat was galling but understandable, says Wade. "Half of our boys were air-sick. The weather was too hot. And, anyway, we were crazy to schedule a game in Texas in September. Bob Neyland of Tennessee says nobody in their right mind should let themselves in for a September game in Texas. They're laying for you, in their own kind of weather."

Baseball Clears Leo To Take Job

Cincinnati, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Walter Mulbry, secretary to Commissioner (Happy) Chandler, made it plain today that the commissioner's office had no objections to Leo Durocher returning as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"Durocher, insofar as we know, has conducted himself beyond reproach during the time of his one year suspension," Mulbry said.

"He is free to seek and receive employment in baseball as far as this office is concerned."

Mulbry confirmed that he had discussed Durocher's status in a telephone conversation with Lou Niss, sports editor of the Brooklyn Eagle.

He said he told Niss that "you can quote me, or if you prefer, you can quote the commissioner's office as saying that there is no ban of any type, shape or color on Durocher as far as the commissioner's office is concerned."

Mulbry said that Durocher had been free to return to baseball since the time his suspension automatically was lifted at the close of the World Series.

Conerly-Poole Combo Keeps Passing Lead

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The Charlie Conerly-Barney Poole pitching and catching combination for Mississippi has been the hottest thing to hit Tennessee since the Oak Ridge A-Bomb hatchery.

Figures from the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau today showed the part played by the demolition duo in last Saturday's 43-13 rout of Tennessee, first time in grid history that Ole Miss beat the Vols.

Poole caught eight passes for 121 yards and a touchdown as his contribution, while Conerly, the Nation's total offense and passing offense leader for the past four weeks, completed 19 of 34 passes for 246 yards and four touchdowns. He ran the ball 12 times for 39 yards and two touchdowns and had a total offense mark of 285 yards in 46 plays.

Conerly, incidentally, has accounted for 1356 yards, or 61 per cent of Mississippi's total of 2180.

Poole may not approach the modern collegiate pass-snagging record of 50 set in 1941 by Henry Stanton of Arizona, now with the New York Yanks pros, but he's already ahead of the best performances turned in during the past five years.

He's now caught 35 for 379 yards and seven touchdowns, and has two games to go. He's grabbed eight in one game twice this year—against Tennessee and Kentucky, and he caught seven against South Carolina.

Dan Edwards of Georgia, hopped from fourth to second by catching six for 85 yards against Florida. His 461 yards on his 29 caaches is high yardage for the grid outfielders.

Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice kept North Carolina in the punting lead and himself in the individual top spot with his 44.2 average per punt, just a shade ahead of Forrest Bast of Lehigh, who had 44.1.

Boy Gridders Play 5 Games Saturday In Homecoming

Five football games between the Georgetown and Eastern Branches of the Boys Club of Washington will feature the Georgetown Branch homecoming program Saturday on the Ellipse.

Contests between the 80, 90, 105, 120 and 140 pound teams of the two clubs will get underway at 9:30 a. m. when the 80-pounders meet.

Ceremonies will be held at 11:30 a. m. at which time passing and punting contests, awards and introduction of the members of the 1935 Georgetown Branch 135-pound city championship team will take place.

Thomas Egan, president of the Boys Club, will kick off a new football held by Leo May, a member of the board of the club. The boy catching the ball can keep it.

Bleachers will be erected to take care of the large crowd expected to attend the games and ceremonis.

Bowl Officials Won't Release Ole Miss Eleven

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Sponsors of the new Delta Bowl football game promised today that Mississippi would be one of the attractions here January 1, despite reports that the Rebels, already under contract, may be "receptive" to bids from one of the larger postseason classics.

Dick Dewey, commander of the sponsoring Amvets, declared: "Ole Miss has not asked to be released from our contract. Under no circumstances will we release them."

Dewey's comment followed a report out of Miami that Ole Miss "is available" for the Orange Bowl and a subsequent statement by Rebel Coach Johnny Vaught that if a better offer is made "we certainly will investigate it."

'Disgusted With Boxing'

Des Moines, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—P. L. (Pinkie) George of Des Moines, saying he is "disgusted with boxing at the present time," announced today he is retiring as a manager of boxing except that he will continue to handle the affairs of Abel Gestac, Argentine heavyweight.

Picks All 20

14-Year-Old Wins Post's Grid Contest

THE WASHINGTON POST'S football contest last week attracted a record number of 36,475 entries—and a little child led them.

Master Trygve Tuve, 14-year-old Leland Junior High student, emerged the winner in a photo finish involving two others. For the first time this season, three entries listed the correct winners of all 20 games.

Tuve, son of Dr. and Mrs. Merle Tuve, 135 Hesketh st., Chevy Chase, missed the Notre Dame-Army score by only two points, 28-6, to win the prize by the slender margin of one point. The score was 27-7, Notre Dame. The alert lad thereby receives four tickets to the Maryland-North Carolina game and the coveted trip for two to the Army-Navy game with all expenses paid by The Washington Post.

Astoundingly enough, runnerup was William M. Kaiser, the winner of the second weekly contest this year. Kaiser, 30-year-old War Department employe of 3607 Georgia ave., picked Notre Dame to win by a 30-7 score, only three points off. The other nosed out was Lieut. F. W. Crook, 114 Danbury st. sw. He missed by a touchdown, picking Notre Dame, 21 to 7.

THIRTY-ONE entries just missed making it more of a blanket finish, losing only one game.

Young Tuve was in bed, nursing a cold, when informed yesterday of his winning entry. However, when The Washington Post photographer called at his home, he was greeted by an excited, fully clothed boy.

Yes, he picked the winners all by himself, Trygve informed, rather breathlessly. Although he doesn't play football on any organized team, he claimed he's been taking a big interest in the sports pages and has been following team performances closely.

Trygve's father Dr. Merle Tuve, research physicist, is director of the department of terrestrial magnetism at Carnegie Instituion. Trygve said his dad's too interested in scientific matters to worry about football contests.

"In fact," reported the intelligent young winner, "he told me not to bother entering because I had too little chance of winning."

Trygve was born here in Georgetown Hospital and is of Norwegian ancestry. He's rather proud of the fact that he and the secretary-general of the United Nations (Trygve Lie) bear the same name.

This may annoy some of the contest's "experts," but the Truve lad hasn't watched any games this year. "I've been too busy with my school work," said Trygve.

Readers are reminded that this week's entries may be submitted any time before the 4 p. m. deadline Friday. The current contest is the next to last. Next week, you'll have your last chance to win four tickets for an outstanding local game and qualify for the all-expenses-paid trip to Philadelphia for the Army-Navy game, November 29.

All-America Sets Date for Playoff

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The play-off between the winners in the Eastern and Western Divisions of the All-America Football Conference will be held either here or in Buffalo on December 14, it was announced after a meeting of club representatives here today.

Still in the running for the Eastern title are the New York Yankees, with a record of eight wins and two losses, and the Buffalo Bills, with seven wins, three losses and one tie. Cleveland leads the Western group with nine victories and one defeat.

There had been a report that the Buffalo club, in the event it won the Eastern crown, would ask that the play-off be transferred to Cleveland, but the team's representatives insisted today that the Bills would play the game in their home stadium, despite its comparatively small seating capacity.

Michigan-Wisconsin Tickets Bring $50

Madison, Wis., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Detective Capt. Harry L. Milsted said today that the city and university police were keeping a sharp lookout for scalping of Wisconsin-Michigan football game tickets as reports circulated that $100 a pair was the going price.

YOUNGEST CONTEST WINNER—Trygve Tuve, 14-year-old Leland Junior High student, picked all 20 winners and beat out a record number of 36,475 entries in last week's Washington Post football contest. Lucy, 9, congratulates her brother. They are the children of Dr. and Mrs. Merle Tuve, 135 Hesketh st., Chevy Chase

Here's What Justice Does After Scoring

By Noel Houston

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 12.—If Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice gets away on one of his spectacular touchdown runs in the game against Maryland in Washington Saturday—and North Carolina fans are offering up even prayers this week that he will do that more than once—the first thing he'll do after hitting the end zone is run back among his teammates striking out his paw for handshakes.

What's the guy doing? Asking for congratulations?

Not at all. Justice will be hunting out the men who threw the key blocks to congratulate them for making the touchdown possible.

That's the way the elusive 165-pound tailback plays the game and it's one reason why, though the sports writers call him a star, his associates call him about the greatest team player they've ever known.

Justice is a jumping jack of joy when another player on his team runs well or catches a difficult pass. In the few games he's played where time was about run out with the cause hopelessly lost, his teammates say he still talks it up with undiminished enthusiasm.

During the moments Justice is out of a game he doesn't sit on the bench. He prefers to kneel on the sidelines, where he watches every move of the game he's itching to get back in.

The simple truth is, Justice is an incurable eager beaver. This in spite of the fact that he jumped from Asheville High School stardom into big-time service football and at 23 is well into his second year of college sport. The guy just loves to play football.

It's hard to keep Justice out of plays that don't particularly require his services. For example, in the first play from scrimmage against North Carolina State last week, Justice handed off to fullback Walt Pupa and faked out to the left to draw off attention while Pupa hit the center of the line.

When Justice got out to the left sideline, his assignment was completed. But he saw that Pupa had plowed 20 yards into the secondary and, with help, was still shaking off tacklers. Justice isn't the kind of player to remain a spectator under such circumstances.

After all the technical talk about single wing setups, handoffs, reverses, double reverses, end around plays and pass patters, the one objective of the Carolina offense in Griffith Stadium Saturday will simply be "to shake Charlie Justice loose with the ball."

Hunchuk Reports To Lion Skaters

Coach Jack Riley's Washington Lions will be strengthened by the return of two key men and the acquisition of another player tomorrow night when they entertain Eddie Shore's improved Springfield Indians at Uline Arena, 8:30 o'clock.

George Hunchuk, 22-year-old, 185-pound defenseman made available by the Chicago Blackhawks, reported here yesterday and makes his debut with the local pros. Meanwhile, Larry Archmabeault, defenseman, and Kenny Schultz, center, return to action after being side-lined with injuries.

Plane 'Bombs' Hoya Campus, Promises 34-0 Villanova Win

AIR MAIL telegrams promising Georgetown's eleven a 34-0 pasting in their encounter with Villanova tomorrow night, spilled onto the Hoya campus late yesterday afternoon from the cockpit of a low-flying Piper Cub.

"It's too bad you won't be able to win the game as easily as you stole our mascot," read the leaflets which carried the signature "Villanova Student Body."

"If you think he's hard to handle, wait till you see how hard it is to take care of the 11 Wildcats who take the field Friday," the message continued. "We don't want to be bad sports., so we'll only run up a score of 34-0 or thereabouts."

The plane appeared over the campus at 4 p. m. yesterday and proceeded to shower all parts of the area with the vengeful reply.

Count Villain II, the kidnaped, catnapped peacefully in his well-hidden retreat. Hoya students promise to return him during half-time tomorrow night in Philadelphia. He has been under close Hoya guard since his capture last week by Hilltop sophomores Bill Blatty and Charley Bidwell.

Terp Spirit Called Tops By Trainer

Maryland is sharp as a tack for its engagement with the terrible Tar Heels of North Carolina at Griffith Stadium Saturday.

That's not a mere impression gained after watching the Terrapins practice yesterday. It's a straight-from-the-shoulder statement from a fellow who spends more time with the Terp players than their coaches—Trainer Duke Wyre.

"I've seen a lot of keyed up, spirited ball clubs," Wyre said. "but the Maryland club this week tops 'em all. And that includes the 1942 Holy Cross team which astounded everybody by walloping Boston College, 55-12, in the last game of the year."

He Should Know

Wyre knows what he's talking about on that score. He trained the Holy Cross team that came out of nowhere to land a haymaker on the previously unbeaten Eagles and score one of the most staggering upsets in modern sports history.

"All week long our players felt they could whip B.C.," Wyre went on. "We didn't go for all that stuff that Boston College was unbeatable. As long as they played just 11 men at a time against us we knew we could lick 'em. And I guess we did.

"Out here this week, I've noticed the same spirit. The boys are calm, but down deep inside of them they feel they're going to win. It's written all over them. Just watch for yourself.

"They've worked harder these three days than at any time during the year. They were up, way up, for the West Virginia game, but they're up even more now.

Players "Het" Up

Wyre had something when he said the team had worked harder since Monday than at any time this season.

George Barclay, who coaches the tackles and guards, was a relentless taskmaster, driving a dozen of his hefty forwards most of the afternoon in a bruising blocking drill. Not one of 'em winced. Tackle Jim Goodman expressed the sentiments of the group when he said:

"If we don't win Saturday it won't be because we're not trying. This has been hard work, but we rather like it."

Tatum Slightly Infected

Even the coaches, Headman Jim Tatum included, have exchanged their all-out gloom and despair outlook for one of mere pessimism.

The campus is full of "Beat Carolina" placards and students are all steamed up over the gigantic pep rally, the largest in the school's history, set for Friday night.

In the team dressing room, there's a big headline from The Washington Post on Tuesday which reads: "Tar Heels to be 'Fightin' Mad' for Terps."

On which one of the players wrote:

"Brother, they'd better be."

Charles Town Moves Up Post Time for Races

Charles Town, W. Va., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Officials at Charles Town Jockey Club have moved up post time at 1 p. m. for the 18-day race meeting which opens December 1, to close out the eastern racing season.

The track management said this would neable Washington and Baltimore patrons to get home in time for dinner.

B-a-s-e-b-a-l-l Strikes Out as Town Name

Lancaster, Ohio, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The folks in the combined towns of Basil and Baltimore who wanted to change the community's name to "Baseball" struck out today.

Common Pleas Judge Parker ruled against their petition. He held that the 626 persons who signed the petition did not constitute three fourths of the inhabitants as required by law. The town's name will remain Baltimore.

Bullets Lead Caps, 45-44, At 3d Period

BULLETIN—The Baltimore Bullets led the Washington Capitols, 45-44 at the end of the third quarter last night.

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

The Washington Capitols overcame a 7-point deficit to gain at 31-31 half-time tie with the Baltimore Bullets at Uline Arena last night in the opening game of the Basketball Association of America's season.

Witnessed by an estimated 3500 fans, the game was as hard fought as any played here in years. The Bullets, making their debut in the BAA, jumped off to an early lead and retained it until almost midway of the second period when Bones McKinney hooked in a basket to put the Capitols in front, 24 to 23.

The Caps held a three-point margin until the final seconds of the quarter when the Bullets sprinted again to tie it. Mike Bloom hooked ina tow-pointer and the Bullets trailed only by a point. They got the equalizer when Center Cleggy Hermsen swished in a free throw, awarded on Irv Rothenberg's foul.

The Bullets out-hustled and outsped the Capitols in the first period, owning a 21-to-14 advantage after the first 12 minutes.

With Hermsen, Bloom and Coach Bud Jeantee pounding the boards, the Caps couldn't get close to a rebound. The Washingtonians fared a bit better later, however, as Coach Red Auerbach brought his big boys, Torgoff, Tingle and Rothenberg into play and the Caps immediately began to narrow the gap.

Cliftons Wallop Carlisle Indians

Feller Faces Cut in Bonus

Cleveland, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—President Bill Veeck of the Cleveland Indians indicated today that Bob Feller would likely receive less money next season than the $87,000 Major League top the fireball pitcher pulled down in 1947.

Veeck said Feller would receive the same base salary—$40,000—he was paid last season, but that the attendance figure at which Bob's bonus starts would be raised.

Last season, Feller's bonus began when 750,000 customers cleared the turnstiles and stopped once it reached 1,250,000. Veeck indicated that the bonus next year would start at the one million figure.

The Tribe president said that Feller, who wound up as the league's leading winner, "had just a fair year. More clearly, a fair year for Feller.

"I don't believe he drew as many people as he would have if he hadn't run into trouble. My feeling is that if I give him a contract which will still allow him to cash in on a great season, which I expect him to have, I am being fair."

Feller stopped here yesterday to see Veeck after his barnstorming tour. The fireballer said he didn't intend to enter into any serious discussion on a contract until next year.

Hannegan Resigns As Browns' Director

St. Louis, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns announced today that Robert E. Hannegan, Postmaster General, had tendered his resignation as a member of the club's board of directors because of the press of other duties.

Hannegan, a St. Louisan and close friend of Richard C. Muckerman, president of the club, became a member of the board about two years ago.

Contract Is Richest Ever Given In Tennis

By Charles Dunkley

Chicago, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Jack Kramer, twice National Amateur Singles Tennis champion, and hero in America's last two Davis Cup matches with Australia, today joined the professional ranks at an annual salary of $50,000, largest contract ever offered a tennis star.

The announcement of Kramer's decision to turn professional was made by Jack Harris, Chicago promotor of tennis ventures.

Jack 'Very Happy'

At Los Angeles, Kramer said he was "very happy" that announcement had been made about his turning professional and that he looked forward to playing Bobby Riggs in their coming tour.

Kramer said he planned to spend the next few weeks training diligently to develop not only his game but his physical stamina.

"They tell me these one-night stands are pretty tough, so I want to be in top condition," he said. And added:

"Yes, I'm glad the announcement finally came out. I held out as long as I could, trying to get the best terms possible. I am very happy about the whole matter."

Kramer will team up with Bobby Riggs, professional champion, on a tour opening New York's Madison Square Garden, December 26.

They will engage in 50 to 60 matches in America's principal cities and also will invade South Africa, where Harris took Don Budge and Riggs on a highly profitable venture last year, and South America, a lucrative field for touring American tennis stars.

Kramer, whose home is Montebello, Calif., is rated as having the greatest drawing name in tennis.

Harris said Kramer's earning might exceed $50,000 a year since his contract also provides for a percentage agreement.

Harris' tennis troup may be expanded to include Dinny Pails, Australia's amateur champion and Davis Cup player, and Pancho Segura, Ecuadorian star.

Pails left for the United States by plane today to open negotiations with Harris, who said he probably would meet Pails in San Francisco, or later in Chicago.

Harris said that he had talked with Pails, but they have had some differences over a ocntract and they will need to meet before Pails' demands can be settled.

Pails Flies to U. S. To Join Pro Ranks

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Dinny Pails, Australia's No. 1 tennis player, flew to America today to turn professional, and was sped on his way by a sharp blast from one of the country's leading amateur officials.

"Australia amateur tennis is well rid of him," said Brian Fuller, president of the New South Wales Association. "Al tennis administrators feel the same about Pails—of discourtesy on his part. Pails was chosen to play in an interstate match starting next Wednesday. He also was to have played in the New South Wales championship next week. He must have known this morning at the latest that he was going."

"I think this is just another act they are sick of him.

The 26-year-old Pails, present holder of the Australian singles crown, said before his departure that he had not yet signed to play professionally, but that he expected to do so.

Parker Denies He'll Play for Pay

Buenos Aires, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Frankie Parker today denied reports that he would join the parade of Tennis stars joining the professional ranks.

Parker said he would return to California following his current Latin-American tour, and reenter the motion picture industry. He previously worked as an assistant director.

Pimlico Cup Race Closes Track Today

Pimlico Race Track, Md., Nov. 12.—A renewal of the duel between Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Halconero and Mill River Stable's Miss Grillo is in prospect tomorrow as Pimlico closed its 13-day fall meeting with the sixteenth running of the Pimlico Cup at two miles and a half.

This longest race on the American turf calendar is worth $25,000 in added money.

The field will include seven distance runners but Halconero and Miss Grillo shape up as the two which will receive the bulk of support from the closing day gathering at the Maryland Jockey Club's course.

At this meeting, each of these South American-bred performers holds a score over the other and tomorrow's clash will be the rubber in the local series.

Miss Grillo won the Governor Bowie Handicap at a mile and five furlongs in which Halconero was third. Then last Saturday Halconera won the Exterminator Handicap, two miles and a sixteenth, with Miss Grillo second.

Opposing these two will be Lazy F. Ranch's Calvados 112, H. L. Straus' March Chick 109, Herbert C. Boorse's Our Sensation 105, Miss Margie Fisher's Shivaree 100 and H. A. Luro's Grand Prince, II 107.

Mehrtens Runs Away With Race

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Pimlico, Md., Nov. 12.—A. J. Sackett's Gasparilla, who after being second with regularity behind some of the year's top juveniles, finally emerged from the maiden ranks today.

The son of Diavolo picked the 25,000 added the Walden as the spot for his best performance and ran away with the famous test of a mile and a sixteenth before a crowd of 13,000.

Jockey W. Mehrtens rode the colt into the wire seven lengths ahead of the Brookmeade Stable's Chains. Four lengths farther back came Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Newsweekly to be third with the Bobanet Stable's Tenabob fourth and last in the vest-pocket field.

Pays $5.20 Mutuel

Gasparilla was a co-favorite with Newsweekly in the betting and paid a $5.20 mutuel. Although the track was still heavy as a result of yesterday's rains, the winner was clocked in 1:49 1/5, not the slowest in the history of the event first contested in 1907. Calumet's Fervent won last year on a fast track in 1:45 4/5.

Mehrtens rode confidently on Gasparilla and took him under restraint leaving the gate. Tenabob and Chains, placed to drive a by outside and Chains bore into his rival in the opening 10 yards. However, Jockey Ken Scawthorn beat him off and Tenabob went on to set the pace.

At the turn Tenabob bore out and Chains, placed to drive by Jockey Jackie Westrope, forged to the front. Newsweekly began to move but Gasparila came on with a bold rush and swept to the front. Newsweekly failed to respond to pressure.

Through the stretch it was "no contest" with Gasparilla drawing out without effort and being guided along at the finsh. Chains was tiring but so were Newsweekly and Tenabob.

It was the tenth try of the year for the chestnut colt and he earned $21,450 for the outing. His previous efforts this season had accounted for $5000.

Baugh Regains Passing Lead; Nussbaumer Best Receiver

By AP Poll

Penn Center Top Lineman Of the Week

New York, Nov. 12 (AP).—Chuck Bednarik, center on the University of Pennsylvania's unbeaten and untied football team, today won this week's award as lineman of the week in the Associated Press poll.

Bednarik's name was on the lips of virtually everyone who saw Saturday's Penn-Virginia clash in Philadelphia. He was the key factor in Penn's triumph with the vicious tackling and pass interceptions at the opportune moments. He twice halted Virginia threats on the 1-yard line.

Art Guepe, Virginia coach, paid the Bethlehem, Pa., 220-pounder, compliments galore after the game.

"I think we would have scored more than twice—in fact, I feel sure of it—except for one man," Guepe said. "That Bednarik. We knew he was good. But he didn't believe any center in the country was that good."

Down in the Southwest another snapperback, Joe Watson, of Rice, received high praise. After his performance against Arkansas, Arkansas Coach John Barnhill asserted "Watson is the best center we have seen all year."

Wash Serini, Kentucky tackle, made tackles all over the field against West Virginia and drew high praise for his spectacular play.

Others complimented included: Malachi Mills, Virginia Military tackle, for making nearly 70 per cent of the tackles against William and Mary; Quentin Sichels, Michigan guard, for "tearing Indiana backfield to pieces"; Russell Frizzell, Tulsa tackle who sparked his team to upset win over Oklahoma Aggies; and Ziggy Czaroboski, Notre Dame tackle, who "seemed to be making the tackle almost every time an Army back carried the ball."

Colts to Launch An Early Search For New Players

Baltimore, Nov. 12 (AP).—Baltimore is starting an early round up of Colts for next year's All-America Football Conference.

Coach Cecil Isbell announced today he will send four operatives into the bushes immediately to sign up players who might help Baltimore get out of the cellar in 1948.

Isbell said he will retain only Nick Campofreda to assist him in the Colts' remaining games with Brooklyn on Sunday and Buffalo, Chicago and Cleveland.

The nation-wide round up will be made by Tom Stidham, Don Edmonds, Tarzan Taylor and Andy Hewlett.

Best Punts Also Made By Sammy

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

Just about the best passing combination in the National Football League, certainly the best in the East, was credited to the Washington Redskins yesterday with the release of weekly statistics.

Slingin' Sammy Baugh and Bob Nussbaumer, the catcher, are both out front in their favorite departments despite the team's third place standing in the eastern division.

After a week as runner-up to Sid Luckman, Baugh moved back into the top hurling position as the Redskins were taking a 21-14 beating from Pittsburgh. On an inverse grading system the tall Texan led with 105 completions in 186 attempts for a percentage of 56.4. He has thrown 13 touchdown passes, gained 1632 yards, had only nine or 4.8 per cent of his passes intercepted.

Luckman Actual Leader

Luckman, meanwhile, has hurled 194 times, completed 110 for 1623 yards 16 touchdowns and a 56.7 average. That 20 of his tosses, or 10.3 per cent of them, were intercepted spoiled his chance for the top.

Nussbaumer replaced Pittsburgh's Val Jansante as the East's ace receiver with four spectacular catches last week. He has now snagged 28 passes for 369 yards and two touchdowns. Washington's Eddie Saenz, with 19 catches for 365 yards, was in third place and fifth belonged to Hugh Taylor after 16 catches for 367 yards.

The Bears' Jim Keane, however, held the league receiving leadership after 39 catches for 511 yards and in second place in the West is the Cardinals' Bill Dewell with 28 for 345 yards.

'Skins, Lions in Trade

In a waiver agreement with the Detroit Lions, their National Football League foe this week in the Motor City, The Washington Redskins yesterday made a trade designed to strengthen the middle of their line.

Sent to Detroit was Guard Bill Ward, a second-year man with the 'Skins, and obtained in exchange was Tackle John Sanchez.

Sanchez, 26 years old, standing 6 feet 3½ and weighing 235 pounds, joined the Lions this year after playing the 1946 season at San Francisco University. His collegiate career was interrupted by four years in the armed forces.

The catch in the transaction is that the New York Giants, as the East's last place club, has until today to pick up waivers on Sanchez.

Baugh was also the champion punter of the east, sporting a 45.8-yard average in 30 kicks. His former understudy, Green Bay's Jack Jacobs, was tops in the west with a 43.3 average.

The Chicago Bears, who have won their last five games, led the offensive table while Washington, loser of four in a row, was second by 2697 to 2567 yards. The Redskins' weakness was indicated, however, in the fact they've picked up only 666 yards on the ground while seven other teams have done better, topped by the Los Angeles Rams with 1492.

Washington Top Gainer

In the individual ground-gaining department Kenny Washington, Ram star who failed to play last week, retained the lead with an average of 8.4 yards in 41 trips. The East's best is Steve Van Buren, Philadelphia sprinter who slightly overshadows Pittsburgh's Johnny Clement with an average of 5.4 yards in 117 attempts. Washington's best was still Sal Rosato, another Sunday idler, who was fifth in the East with 41 carries for 186 yards.

Bill Dudley, Detroit star, not only paced the league in scoring with 54 points but was also out front in Western Division punt and kickoff returns, ranked second in sectional interceptions and fifth in league ground gaining.

Other leaders were Boston's Frank Seno, best pass interceptor with eight for 94 yards; Pittsburgh's Walt Slater, best punt returned with 23 for 361 yards, and the Skins' Saenz, best kickoff returner with 584 yards in 19 attempts.

Middies Gird For Penn State

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 12 (AP).—With all the fuss over the pass that beat them last Saturday stricken from mind, Navy football players made the coming battle with Penn State their only order of business today.

Coach Tom Hamilton drilled them extensively on offense, seeking to perfect tactics for a club with one of the country's best defensive records. The Nittany Lions, who have it out with the Middies at Baltimore Municipal Stadium this Saturday, have scored 270 points against the opposition's 20 in seven games.

Hamilton already had made it plain that Navy was not disputing the touchdown that gained Georgia Tech a 16 to 14 verdict last week.

Jimmy Southard, Tech quarterback, caught the aerial after he had initially taken the ball from center in a T-formation play. His eligibility was questioned.

Both line and backfield came in for hard work today. Hamilton was lavish in praise of Center Dick Scott and Tackle Dick Shimshak.

The latter has been a "60-minute ball player all season," agreed Hamilton and Rip Miller, his line coach. And running against "supposedly some of the best tackles in the country, he has yielded nothing at all."

Cards Primed For 3d Win

Catholic University Coach Gene Augusterfer is all smiles these days and he has a good reason to be happy.

After three bad trouncings, his football team bounced back in remarkable fashion and is now the proud possessor of a two-game winning streak.

And, to make things even rosier, the Cards are favored to make Washington College's Sho'men their third consecutive victim this Saturday.

Catholic's comeback started after the Johns Hopkins game, when Augusterfer decided to scrap the T-formation in favor of the single wing. His inexperienced kids just couldn't handle the intricacies of the T with its involved fakes and hand offs.

So in midseason, with a squad of boys who had negligible football experience, he switched formations. And it worked.

Imagine Tech With George And Spears in Backfield

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

A football team that goes undefeated, untied and unscored upon in five interhigh games leaves little room for improvement.

But followers of McKinley Tech High team which has compiled such a record can't help but wonder how well their team would have done if in 1945 two promising sophomores hadn't decided to change schools.

The two lads are Quarterback Jack George of the St. John's team that has a 7-0 record, and Capt. Bob Spears, fullback of the Staunton, Va., Military Academy eleven that has won six out of seven.

This pair has racked up some of the better scholastic records in the East this season, and their ability to pass would fit nicely in the Tech attack, which seems deficient only in the tossing department.

George has clicked on 55 out of 87 passes for a .632, and 15 of his pitches have gone for touchdowns. He has placekicked 12 extra points, scored one touchdown and averaged nearly 40 yards on his punts.

Spears, the son of Robert (Doc) Spears, former University of Maryland football coach, has rolled up 700 yards on the ground for an 8-yards-per-try average. He has scored five touchdowns and passed to two others. He has picked up 200 yards on kickoff returns.

George was a student at Tech for one year, but was never a grid candidate. He was second high scorer on the basketball team that finished in the championship playoffs. At St. John's, though, he has been the leading triple-threat of the football team, top scorer of the basketball team and the hardest-hitting infielder of the baseball team.

Young Spears turned out for football at Tech but transferred to Staunton after two weeks. He has also been the leading scorer of the Staunton basketball team, and the leading point maker of the track team. He throws the discuss, shot and javelin.

Young Everrett tallied six touchdowns last Saturday to zoom past Tommy Birge of Alexandria's Episcopal High. Kenny now has 16 touchdowns and one extra point to his credit for 97 points, in 10 games. His team, which swamped Bullis High, 58-0, last week, has a 5-5 record.

Birge, northern Virginia's leading scorer last year, has 12 touchdowns and 14 extra points for 86 points in only five games. Episcopal has a 7-0 record.

Now Larry's Going to Try Horse Racing

Pimlico, Nov. 12.—The racing silks of Larry MacPhail, former president of the New York Yankees, will make their appearance on eastern tracks in 1950, it was disclosed today.

MacPhail, it is learned, has purchased three mares from Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, all of them now in foel to prominent sires. The trio will race as 2-year-olds three seasons hence.

For an investment estimated at $20,000, MacPhail purchased from Vanderbilt's Worthington Valley Sagamore Farm the mares Benign, in foal to First Fiddle; Boontown Gal, in foal to Discovery, and Blen Rose, in foal to the Derby winner, Shut Out.

The mares shortly will be transferred to MacPhail's Mary Angus Farm in Bel Air, Md. McaPhail's Bel Air holdings, vastly improved in the last year, are now one of the show places among Maryland farms.

When he retired from baseball last month, MacPhail indicated that he did not plan to return to the game and hinted that "I might even buy some horses."

Rotarians Hear Plea to Back Marshall Plan

A plea to get back of the Marshall aid plan was made to Rotarians yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Harris Elliott Kirk, for 46 years pastor of the Franklin Street Presbyterian Church in Baltimore.

Dr. Kirk, who has spent his last 20 summers in England, said that he had been there for three major crises—the fall of the MacDonald cabinet, the outbreak of war, and the 1947 economic crisis. By far the worst, the Rev. Kirk stated, was the 1947 crisis.

England has used up its own gold supply, and has spent most o fthe money the United States lent it. He credited the failure of England to get back on l er feet to the lack of a strong and decisive leadership, and "mass ennui, the natural aftermath of war."

Dr. Kirk said that England only recently discovered that she has 12 million people either unemployed or working in non-essential positions. He categorized essential work as coal production or productin for export, or export itself.

The lack of a strong government does not imply that the Marshall Plan is not necessary, he said. He urged the United States to support the plan to the limit.

New Air Raid Warning Equipment Being Developed, Defense Officials Say

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Defense officials disclosed yesterday that the air raid warning network set up in the United States during the war has been dismantled but that new-style equipment is under development for a possible new protective net.

Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal and Dr. Vannevar Bush, research and development board chairman, revealed this much of current defense plans at a press conference outlining progress in vitalizing the military establishment since unification.

Bush made it plain that no warning net, capable of giving protection of a surprise air attack, now exists on a national scale.

Appointment of a special committee of the research and development board to study the allied problems of a warning net and general air navigation was announced by Forrestal. President R. S. Damon of American Airlines heads the seven-man joint civilian-military group.

U. S. Plans Uncertain

"Any country must have an early warning network to be prepared against surprise attacks," said Dr. Bush. But he added that it was too early to say whether the United States would set up a complete net in peacetime.

Other officials declared that all three of the armed forces have micro early warning radar sets in service, but they are not linked in any such net as existed along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts during the war.

The Air Forces and Navy MEW sets are used largely for all-weather air navigation experiments and training. And no plotting rooms or fighter-director control centers exist except for limited training activity.

An Army spokesman said that this condition applies only to continental United States. Overseas bases, such as Pearl Harbor, do have warning networks operating, he stated.

Meanwhile, Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations, told the President's Air Policy Commission that he feels the United States is "relatively safe from attack for four or five years." And he added:

"I think that with the passage of time enough sense might pervade the world that the danger of war will lessen."

America, Nimitz declared, would be in grave danger from within—of sabotage and slowdown of defense work—than from attack from without, in case of trouble.

A strong United States "is the greatest factor for stability of the world," the wartime Pacific commander said. Money spent on the armed services pays dividends in this way, as well as for security, he declared.

Nimitz urged the commission to back a program calling for maintenance of naval aviation at a "ready operating strength" of 5793 planes and a "healthy" aircraft industry capable of expansion in an emergency.

Secretary Forrestal announced at his press conference the appointment of three deputy directors of the Joint Staff of the armed services. They are: Rear Admiral Cato D. Glover, heading the joint strategic plans groups; Brig. Gen. Walter E. Todd, USAF, joint intelligence group, and Brig. Gen. Donald P. Booth, USA, joint ogistics plans group.

Other points developed at the defense chiefs' press conference:

Thomas J. Hargrave, munitions board chairman, revealed that a tentative industrial mobilization plan has been drafted and is being circulated among Government officials for comment. It may be made public, in part, this winter.

Forrestal said his new joint committee to study reserve problems of the armed services will consult with State Governors and State adjutants general. He declared there was no thought of "unilateral disposition" of questions dealing with the National Guard.

Consideration is being given to commissioning a bloc of graduates of the Naval Academy in the Air Force each year. The USAF now gets some of its officers from West Point and a proposal for the establishment of an air academy is under study.

Sasscer Backs Aid for Europe

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 12 (AP).—A town meeting heard Representative Sasscer (D., Md.) describe food conditions in Europe and advocate definite action on immediate and long-range aid to stricken countries as a means of preventing war.

"I think all of us," he said last night, "feel the humanitarian, motive behind temporary aid. Long-range aid, he suggested, is "what's best for our own country."

Sasscer was a member of the subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee which recently toured 14 countries in Europe and the Middle East.

He said Germany's food shortage was most acute and Italy's was the next severest.

Congressional Reports At Variance on Revenue Bureau

REVENUE: Treasury's Internal Revenue Bureau is slated to be given opposite treatments in two reports on its work to be presented soon to congressional committees.

A report by the staff of the House Appropriations Committee will lambast the agency and its methods. It will attempt to justify the 20-million-dollar budget cut the agency was given by the committee.

However, a different tack will be taken by the Joint Congressional Committee on Taxation. Though critical of some Revenue methods, it can be expected to say that the agency needs more employes to collect several billions in taxes which are now escaping the Treasury. The report will point out that Revenue has enough employes to check only a small percentage of the 73 million income tax returns.

Revenue was forced to lay off about 5000 employes last July after the House committee slashed its budget. Its officials estimated the lay-off would result in the loss of approximately 400 million dollars in taxes. The Joint Committee report will uphold that contention.

The Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee will get the joint committee report.

WHITE HOUSE insiders predict the President will send two messages to Congress during its special session. The first message next Monday will deal with inflation at home and emergency feeding abroad. The second message will be sent to Congress about 10 days later. It will deal with the Marshall Plan to rehabilitate Europe.

PEOPLE: Robert L. Cochrane, assistant administrator of the Greek-Turkish aid program, will return here in about 10 days to resume his old job as chief of Budget Bureau's public works section. Budget Director James Webb asked for his release . . . Norman H. Collison has returned to the Interior Department to direct that agency's participation in the Marshall Plan. He was former Coal Mines administrator and he's a retired Navy admiral.

JOBS: The United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization is seeking top-flight Americans to handle executive and specialized jobs. The agency has commissioned Mario P. Canaipi, a private personnel consultant who was a wartime Federal personnel official, to help it select good people.

Canaipi is seeking nominations from Federal officials, educators, and business organizations. He recently returned from Paris where he conferred with UNESCO officials. He can be contacted at his office, Canaipi, Clifton & Associates at 1621 Connecticut ave.

AGRICULTURE: Distinguished service awards were given to three outstanding agriculture employes and public servants by Secretary Anderson at a ceremony held yesterday afternoon on the Washington Monument grounds. Honored were:

Hugh H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service; M. L. Wilson, chief of the Extension Service, and William A. Jump, chief of Budget and Finance.

Superior awards went to these employes here for extraordinary accomplishments:

Nettie Bradshaw, Martin R. Cooper, M. E. Johnson and Francis J. Marschner, all of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics; Milton H. Fohrman and Dr. R. E. Hodgson of the Bureau of Dairy Industry; Dr. George Jamieson, Production and Marketing; Kenneth Jacob and William J. Morse, Bureau of Plant Industry; Ann McFadden, personnel office; William Orr, jr., Farmers Home Administration; Seibert A. Rohwer, Entomology and Plant Quarantine; Ethel Smith, library; Homer G. Smith, Farm Credit, and Bertha Zoeller, information office.

Service awards also were given to 100-odd employes who have been in the department 40 or more years. The oldest Agriculture employe in point of service is Bernard Cunningham of Kansas City, Mo., who is a meat inspector and stock examiner in the Bureau of Animal Industry.

NOTES: The girls at Arlington Farms will stage an old-fashion carnival in the recreation room at the farms tomorrow and Saturday nights. Everyone invited . . . Civil Service will require agency hearing examiners to send it statements of their experience and backgrounds before December 1 to be considered for "absolute" appointments . . . A number of Army's Quartermaster employes who were transferred to Cameron, Va., below Alexandria, have been given promotions.

12,000 Members of Boys Clubs Given Chance to Win Puppy

FRIENDS—Robert Edward, 9, of 508 G st. se., a Police Boys Club member, hugs Ronnie, cocker spaniel, at Club No. 5, where he wrote his essay "Why I Can Give a Good Home to a Cocker Spaniel Puppy." Robert will get a puppy if he wins the contest

An opportunity to win a cocker spaniel puppy was given 12,000 members of the six Metropolitan Police Boys' Clubs yesterday.

Two dogs will be given to winners of an essay contest on "Why I Can Give a Good Home to a Cocker Spaniel Puppy." Essays must be 25 words or more, and must be received at the local club's headquarters by 9 p. m., December 15.

The contest is open to two classes—midgets, from 6 to 10 years of age, and juniors, from 11 to 14. The winners in each class will receive a cocker spaniel puppy at the annual Boys' Club party just before Christmas.

By way of opening the competition, sponsored by the Capital City Cocker Club, Miss Dorothy Grover, a member of the club, took two cockers to perform tricks for 65 boys at No. 5 Boys' Club, 5th and E sts. se., Tuesday night.

Trained dogs appeared last night at No. 10 club. Before the contest closes they will perform at the four other clubs. Their next scheduled public appearance is to be Tuesday night at No. 12 club.

There's only one catch in the contest, which is to be judged by the Cocker Club, and that is that all essays must be accompanied by a signed permission to accept the dog from the contestant's parents.

Two Youths Arrested in Jewel Theft

New Yorker, 15, And D. C. Boy Held; Four Automobiles, Band Saw Stolen

Two juveniles were arrested yesterday while attempting to dispose of loot stolen from a Georgia ave. jewelry store Monday night.

More than $1000 worth of jewelry was found on a 15-year-old New York City boy, while six watches, valued at $300, were recovered from pawn shops. The boy had in his possession eight men's watches, three rings and a cigarette lighter, police said.

The New York boy admitted breaking into the Your Friendly Jeweler store, 5501 Georgia ave. Police believe that the other, a 17-year-old Washington resident, was only concerned in the attempts to dispose of the stolen goods. Both were sent to the Receiving Home.

Precinct Dectective Matthew L. Bailey, who with two other officers arrested the boys following a tip, said he believed all the loot was recovered. Allen E. De Haven, owner of the store, was not able to estimate acurately the amount stolen as new goods and watches being repaired were both included in the theft.

Four Autos Stolen

Meanwhile,at least four auto thefts, an armed robbery attempt and several housebreakings appeared on police reports from all sections of the city yesterday.

Police returned to St. Elizabeth's Hospital a 16-year-old girl who pointed a .32 caliber automatic pistol at Grocery Owner Isaiah Cunningham, 87, of 1527 12th st. nw. and demanded $3. Cunningham grappled with her and helped William Lawson, 1737 17th st. nw., take the gun. Police said she was away from the hospital in temporary care of her parents. The gun, she said, had been stolen. Later she said it had been given to her by a boy friend.

Joseph Berry, 40, of 1324 Union st. sw., told police three unidentified men entered the lunchroom where he was eating at 4th and C sts. sw., took him outside, beat him and attempted to rob him. A 23-year-old suspect was arrested; the other two are still sought.

Other Thefts

Other thefts reported:

Loss of a $125 portable, 8-inch band saw, stolen from Jack Kahn of Stores Fixtures, Inc., 912 9th st. nw., between October 25 and yesterday. The saw was taken from 711 8th st. se.

Hotel robbery of a typewriter and black Persian lamb coat owned by Mrs. Florence O. Miller of New York, registered at the Washington Hotel. She gave their value as $540.

Three pairs of shoes from the Gaffins Clothing Store, 925 H st. ne., after the show window had been broken. Police arrested two youths, 15 and 16 years old.

Six sheets, six pillow cases, canned goods and $10 in cash from the residence of Carrie Stevens, 5304 Call pl. se. She valued the articles at $26.

Whiskey valued at $139.67 from the Super Liquor Store, 1633 N. Capitol st. A show window was smashed.

Automobiles reported stolen:

A 1937 Plymouth four-door sedan from Bolling Field.

A 1947 dark green Plymouth sedan owned by Sidney Wolf, 3011 Ontario rd. nw., stolen from in front of 4102 Harrison st. nw.

A Ford tudor sedan, 1937, owned by Lee Taylor, 912 4th st. se.

Court Asked To Enforce Adams St. Covenant

Nine Residents File Suit to Bar Negro Families From Moving In

A suit was filed yesterday in District Court to enforce a racial covenant barring two Negro families from moving into homes they bought recently in the first block of Adams st. nw.

Named as defendants were Mrs. Marian E. Royster, of 1618 14th st. nw.; Rudy Giacolone, of 1437 Fairmont st. nw.; Robert Lee Walton and his wife, Katie Lee Walton, of 2121 N st. nw., and Ralph Miline, of 917 New York ave. nw.

The suit lists as plaintiffs these residents of the block:

Mr. and Mrs. Marc M. Foronoff, of 23 Adams st. nw.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Stout, of 19 Adams st. nw.; Arthur L. Espey, of 37 Adams st. nw.; Mrs. Elizabeth C. Barker, of 28 Adams st. nw.; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Soper, of 48 Adams st. nw., and Mrs. Catherine E. Bright, of 64 Adams st. nw.

Eviction Notice Served

The suit alleges that Giacolone deeded the property at 47 Adams st. nw., to Mrs. Royster, Negro, last October 28, and that Milone deeded the house at 70 Adams st. nw., to the Waltons, Negroes, on October 26.

The suit says that the Waltons plan to occupy the house they have purchased and that Mrs. Royster has served an eviction notice on the present occupants of 47 Adams st. nw., and plans to move in there.

The covenant suit asks: That Mrs. Royster and the Waltons be enjoined during the pendency of the suit and permanently thereafter from moving in or permitting anyone with Negro blood to move in and that their deeds be declared null and void.

The suit identifies the plantiffs as property owners on the north and south side of Adams st. nw., between N.Capitol and 1st sts.

On May 25, 1945., according to the suit, they entered a covenant that no part of the land be used or occupied by or sold, conveyed, leased, rented or given to Negroes or any person or persons of Negro race or blood.

Covenant Recorded in 1945

The covenant was to apply to the signers or their heirs for a 21-year period and was recorded in the Land Records Office September 22, 1945, the suit states.

Attorneys for the plantiffs are Henry Gilligan and James O. Crooks, the law firm which is handling three of the four racial covenant cases (two of them are in the District) to be considered next month by the Supreme Court.

Mrs. Foronoff, who with her husband is one of the plantiffs in the Adams st. case, said that when owners in the block learned that the two houses had been sold to Negroes the North Capitol Citizens Association was notified and the matter turned over to Gilligan.

She said that at the request of John F. Hardie, president of the North Capitol Citizens Association, she canvassed the block and obtained "about 35 or 40" signatures of protest. Mrs. Foronoff said Gilligan selected owners of six homes from her list as plantiffs.

Home Broker Denies Sales Overcharges

A District real estate broker was charged yesterday with participating in a scheme to sell homes to four veterans at a price higher than the Veterans Administration appraisals.

The broker, Mitchell Quick of 2413 Pennsylvania ave. nw., appeared before the District Real Estate Commission at an all-day hearing in the District Building to deny the charges.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Edward A. Beard asked the three-man commission, headed by Tax Assessor Edward A. Dent, to revoke Quick's license because of his alleged part in the sale of properties to Joseph N. Slaughter, 2028 Gales st. ne.; James L. Moses, 2024 Gales st. ne.; Clarence W. Dickason and John W. Liggett, both of 614 19th st. ne.

Beard said the charges stemmed from an attempt to overcome a Veterans Administration policy not to guarantee veterans' housing loans on properties where the purchase price was higher than appraisers' valuations. The policy was adopted to prevent veterans from purchasing homes at inflated

Dickaso nand Liggett testified that they contracted to buy a two-family dwelling at the 19th st. address in September, 1946, for $9750 through Quick. The VA appraisers, however, set $9500 as the top valuation for the house.

When the seller refused to reduce his price, they signed a contract calling for $9500 sale price with a $250 initial deposit, they said. Actually, however, they handed over a $500 deposit, in this way getting around the VA valuation, they declared.

Slaughter said he purchased a home in the same month through Quick for $9250, signing a blank contract which he said was later "filled in" at $9750, $500 over the appraisal.

Quick denied being a participant in the over-appraisal sales, but admitted knowledge of private settlements between the sellers and the veterans. He was defended by Michael J. Keane, attorney.

The case was continued until tomorrow at 9:30 a. m.

Convicted in Robbery

A District Court jury yesterday found Grafton English, 37, of 515 F st. ne., and Clarence J. Craddock, 19, of 1632 D st. ne., guilty of a charge of robbing Robert Shulman, 1315 Fort Stevens dr. se., of $750 in cash and his automobile. The theft took place in the 300 block of G st. sw. in November, 1946.

Washingtonians See Eclipse, What Little There Is of It

The sun was briefly obscured here yesterday from 3:23 to 4:10 p. m. during a partial eclipse.

If you had a piece of tinted glass handy you got a good view of the slight ecilpse that was visible in Washington.

At its height, the eclipse threw a thread of shadow across the face o fthe sun. It looked pretty much like a Cheddar cheese that had been nibbled slightly by a fastidious mouse in the lower left region.

The witch doctors in the jungles of Brazil probably had a holiday, for it was there that the eclipse blotted out as much as 98 per cent of the sun's light.

The eclipse was also at its peak along the Pacific coasts of North and South America. East of the Mississippi it was so slight as to pass almost unnoticed. The degree of eclipse here was only 4 per cent.

The New England States got no chance to watch the eclipse for they were buffeted by a snowstorm which endangered sailors along the coast and blanketed the area with drifts up to eight inches. Communications in many areas were disrupted and aircraft equipment toppled.

Five omnidirectional towers constructed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration on Nantucket Island were downed by the storm. They were valued at $500,000.

On the neighboring island of Martha's Vineyard, the winds collapsed a hanger onto five civilian planes. The roof of another hanger at Hyannis Mass., was ripped off and carried several yards.

D'Allesandro Says He's Too Busy to Talk 1950 Politics

Baltimore, Nov. 12 (AP).—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro said today he is "too busy doing a job for the people of Baltimore" to speculate on reports he will be a candidate for governor or United States Senator in 1950.

"I'm all tied up on this job," he declared. "I have the budget before me. I haven't time for that sort of thing."

The mayor, who won the office last spring after many years as Representative of a Baltimore congressional district, made his comments in connection with story in a Baltimore paper which said he may be in the process of forming a Democratic political organization in conjunction with Governor Lane.

Doctor Sued for $35,000

Mrs. Rosie Smith and her husband, Miller R. Smith, 1103 Park rd. nw., yesterday asked District Court to award them $35,000 damages for suffering she underwent when a physician left cotton packing in her body after operating on her at Freedmen's Hospital last April.

The suit names Dr. Coleridge M. Gill, 1229 Park rd. nw., as defendant. The packing discovered and removed by another physician five months after Mrs. Smith's operation, she said.

Virginians Sight 6 Pct. Increase In Cotton Crop

Richmond, Va., Nov. 12 (AP).—Virginia's 1947 cotton crop was estimated at 18,000 bales by the Virginia cooperative crop reporting service today.

This figure, based on information supplied by ginners and farmers, was 6 per cent above last year's harvest, but 31 per cent below the 10-year (1936-45) average annual production of 26,000 bales. An 11,505,000-bale crop was forecast for the United States by the Department of Agriculture.

Damp weather in the latter half of October retarded picking and only slightly more than half of the crop in the State had been picked by November 1, the service reported. Acreage of cotton for picking this year is estimated at 21,000 acres in Virginia, compared to 20,000 acres last year.

Baltimore "Cowboy" Felled by Own Gun

Baltimore, Nov. 12 (AP).—Charles Schmitt, 20, pulled on a pair of cowboy boots, tucked a pistol—a war souvenir—under his belt and sauntered out onto his front porch last night.

A few moments later other occupants of the house heard a shot. They found Schmitt slumped on the porch, a bullet wound in his abdomen. He told police the pistol had discharged accidentally.

He is reported in "fair" condition.

Blazing Plane Escape Told On Visit Here

A 23-year-old expectant mother, one of 25 persons to escape injury when a blazing airliner landed at Gallup, N. Mex., last Tuesday, arrived yesterday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Kacy, 1011 Noyes dr., Silver Spring, Md.

Mrs. Herbert S. Ainsworth was en route here after a 10-month stay in China, when the plane was forced down. She arrived at 5:20 a. m. yesterday at National Airport and was met by her parents. She plans to remain with her parents until her husband, a Navy flier, whom she had been visiting since January, returns from the Pacific "sometime in the near future."

She suffered blistered hands when she slid down a rope from the smoke-filled plane. She said none of the passengers became panicky.

2 Experts to Study Protest Over Bridgman

New York, Nov. 12 (AP). — Dr. Channing H. Tobias, chairman of the board of trustees of Hampton (Va.) Institute, said today no board would appoint "two recognized experts" in the educational field to make a study of the recent action by the school's students and faculty in voting that they did not want Ralpt P. Bridgman as president.

The institute is the Nation's oldest technical college for Negroes. On October 3 the faculty voted 83 to 5 against Bridgman's retaining his office and on October 9 the student body voted 522 to 3 against the school president, who is white.

Aid in Peanuts, Fruit Urged By Robertson

Richmond, Va., Nov. 12 (AP).—"France and Italy might prefer wheat but we have a surplus of peanuts, dried fruit and canned sweet potatoes that should be utilized," Senator A. Willis, Robertson (D., Va.), said here today.

He urged that emphasis in the European food relief program be placed on shipments of those types of food "we can best spare."

In an address to the annual convention of the Virginia Farm Bureau Federation, the Senator declared America should insist that black markets be wiped out in France, Italy and Germany.

"There are many Republicans and some Democrats in Congress," he contended, "who would like to hamstring and end completely the Hull reciprocal trade agreement program," adding that "for the long pull the 102 multi-lateral trade agreements recently signed at the Geneva conference are an encouraging sign for the American farmer.

"To a large extent modern wars have been trade wars," he continued. "If it be true, and I believe it is, that economic chaos is the spawning bed for communism and that desperate men are willing to exchange ballots for bread, what a contribution to a lasting peace would be our help in the economic rehabilitation of the countries of western surope if after rehabilitation we refused to trade with them?"

Highlight of this morning's opening session was an address to the convention by G. F. Holsinger, who is retiring as president of the organization after 18 years. More than 200 farmers were present.

Winners in a preconvention music contest sponsored by the Associated Women of the Federation were announced as iMss Jacquelin Breedlove, soprano, or Lunenburg County, winner in the youth group from 14 to 21 years, and iMss Betty Jean Harris, pianist, of Roanoke County, winner in the children's division.

The convention meetings will continue through tomorrow afternoon with R. G. Arnold, organization director of the AFBF, and Representative Porter Hardy of Norfolk, to speak tomorrow morning. A business session will follow.

Corrupt Politics Seen Threatening Trade Stagnation

Virginia Beach, Va., Nov. 12 (AP). A Pittsburgh industrialist told the American Trade Association Executives today that "today's challenge is to stand up and fight political corruption and usurpation, or stand by and watch business disruption and industrial stagnation."

Addressing the final session of the ATEA annual meeting at the Vacalier Hotel, Willard F. Rockwell, president and chairman of the board of the Rockwell Manufacturing Co., said "there is no question of our having attained the highest standard of living ever known, but:

"If our politicians are not replaced by statesmen, our industrial power will be dissipated by the drain and strain of trying to support other nations whose strength has been sapped by centuries of political corruption and pseudo socialistic theory that it is possible to raise their own standard of living by confiscating the wealth of individuals or by seizing the wealth of other nations."

Suspended Sentences Given 35 for Gambling

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 12 (AP). Thirty-five of 58 persons named in gambling indictments as a result of raids by State police in the Martinsburg area pleaded no contest to the charges in Berkeley County Circuit Court.

Judge D. H. Rodgers imposed suspended sentences of one year in jail plus $100 fines and costs upon each of the defendants.

Judge Rodgers ordered confiscated slot machines, punch boards and other devices destroyed. Almost 100 of the machines were seized.

One half of the money in the machines was ordered turned over to the State police pension fund, and other half will be retained in the county treasury.

World War II Victory Medals Presented to 481 in Police Department

World War II Victory Medals were presented to 464 Metropolitan policemen and 17 civilian employes of the department in ceremonies at the Municipal Center yesterday.

Commissioner Guy Mason, reading a speech prepared by Commissioner John Russell Young, told the policemen in reference to recent criticism of the department that they must expect it.

Criticism of elected and appointed officials is the means used to keep them on their toes in a free country, he said. While welcoming such criticism, Commissioner Mason said that it is "startling and alarming" when a group makes a direct campaign attacking the police department. It is time, he asserted, that these attackers are uncovered as well as their reasons.

Asked for further comment on his remarks, Commissioner Mason refused, saying that the speech was Commissioner Young's, not his.

The men receiving the medals served in various branches of the armed services during the war.

BLUECOATS DECORATED—Police Pvt. H. E. Johannsen of the Traffic Division receives his war service medal from Maj. Richard J. Carmody. Sergt. Edward Noden assists in the ceremony

The Washington Post

Maj. Robert J. Barrett, police superintendent, was presented a War Department certificate in appreciation of his patriotic services. Barrett was a detective captain and chief of detectives during the war.

Col. E. Goring Bliss, chief of the Army Advisory Committee of the Military District of Washington, reminded the policemen that for them the war has not ended. He explained that he referred to the war against crime.

Radio Announcer Mike Hunnicutt acted as master of ceremonies and the Rev. Thomas B. Dade, rector of St. Patrick's Church, delivered the invocation.

Area News in Brief

Double Jeopardy Threat Delays Road Death Trial

Possibility that a hearing on the State's appeal from a not guilty verdict in a trial magistrate's court might place a defendant in double jeopardy brought postponement yesterday of a manslaughter trial in Prince Georges County Circuit Court.

The case involves William A. Terry, 3d, 21, of Lanham Md., driver of an automobile which crashed into a telephone pole in Lanham on August 1, killing three passengers.

Terry was cleared of manslaughter charges in connection with the accident by Judge Arthur P. Owens in Hyattsville Trial Magistrate's Court on October 9, but Assistant State's Attorney Harvey G. Machen appealed.

Yesterday, after Terry's attorney, Walter L. Green, asserted another trial would deprive his client of his civil rights, Judge Charles C. Marbery granted an indefinite continuance in the Upper Marlboro Court in order to study legal aspects of the question.

471 Building Permits

Fairfax County issued 471 building permits valued at $5,586,152 in October, the highest permit valuation ever reported for a single month. The office of the Commissioner of Revenue reported a total of $24,536,969 in permits issued this year hrough October 31, compared to $11,568,056 for the same period last year.

The 1592 deeds and trusts recorded also established a new record. Previous high figure was September's 1571. Ttotal for 1947 to November 1, was 13,234.

Divorce Suit Filed

Mrs. Jacqueline Stebbins, 30, of 2480 16th st. nw., yesterday filed suit in District Court for divorce from her husband, Henry E. Stebbins, 42, first secretary at the American Embassy in London, on grounds of desertion. The suit states they were married in Boston in 1932 and separated 7 years later. They have no children.

House Fire Costs $4500

Fire yesterday morning destroyed the interior of a seven-room frame house on Ritchie rd., Takoma Park, Md. Mrs. Hattie McNally, one of the residents of the house, was treated by the rescue squad of the Takoma Park Volunteer Fire Department for second degree burns she received when she tried to extinguish the flames.

Damage to house and furnishings was estimated at $4500. Fire companies from Takoma Park and Silver Spring answered the alarm.

Charges against Dabny P. Hardy, Jr., superintendent of Virginia Electric & Power Co., involving alleged violation of Alexandria's smoke control ordinance, were continued yesterday in Alexandria Police Court until November 26. Reason given for th econtinuance was that Hardy's attorney could not be present.

The company was fined $250 in September on charges its smoke and cinders created a nuisance. Judge James R. Duncan then said disposition of individual charges against Hardy would depend on action taken by the company to eliminate the nuisance.

Harness Elected

Conrad P. Harness, real estate editor of The Washington Post, yesterday was elected a trustee of the National Association of Real Estate Editors in convention at San Francisco, Calif.

Others elected were: James K. Chandler, Cleveland Press, president; Lillard McGee, Memphis Commercial Appeal, vice president; Miss Naomi Doebel, Cedar Rapids (Iowa) Gazette, secretary; Ernest A. Baumgarth, Detroit News, treasurer, and Charles Leyden, Miami Daily News, Bulletin manager.

Harness, formerly of The Washington Daily News and The Army Times, came to The Post in July of 1946 after five years in the Army.

Lower Canal Drained

Fishing was the worst ever in the old C. & O. canal yesterday—no water.

The lower section of the canal, from Lock 5 near the Dalecarlia reservoir to Georgetown, was drained to allow further construction on the K st. elevated near Key Bridge.

Irving C. Root, superintendent of National Capital Parks, said no one would be greatly inconvenienced—the fish, what few there were, beat the lowering water out into the Potomac and the weekend barge trips have been discontinued for the season.

The canal will remain dry about two weeks, he said.

ABC Warns Restaurateur

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board yesterday "warned" George M. Detsis against alleged use of his restaurant at 3416 11th st. nw., for "disorderly purposes," but the board dismissed charges that Detsis had permitted sale of drinks there to an intoxicated person.

Execution Postponed

The execution of Floyd Wilson, 32, Riverdale, Md., carpenter, convicted of slaying Milton E. Lowe, 48, outside a Giant Food Store last February, was postponed yesterday from November 21 to February 20.

The action was taken by District Court Justice Alexander Holtzhoff to permit Wilson to appeal for Presidential clemency. Wilson was found guilty of first degree murder last June by a District Court jury which strongly recommended mercy.

Man Held in Fraud

Wiliam McCoy, 32, of Richmond, Va., yesterday was ordered held under $5000 bond for action of the grand jury on a charge of robbery.

Mrs. Janet Bennnett 20 Patterson st. ne., told Judge Armond Scott in Municipal Court she had been "flim-flammed" out of $102 by McCoy and another man. They showed her a pocketbook, containing some money, which they said they had found on the street, she testified.

Then they offered to divide their findings with her if she would change the big bills for them. She gave them $102 in small bills and they disappeared immediately with her cash, she declared.

'War' Scare at Pentagon

Pentagon civilian and military workers were caught up in a brief war scare yesterday morning as rumors circulated that all incoming buses were being halted by military police.

The public relations office of the Military District of Washington quickly dissipated the jitters by explaining that the formidable MPs were only making their annual head count of incoming passengers to determine the adequacy of Army and public transportation.

Car Probe Jury Dismissed

A special Federal grand jury called October 28 to probe the Nation's freight car-building industry was dismissed yesterday.

The action came following a petition by United States Attorney George Morris Fay stating that some of the jurors had raised questions as to their qualifications; one saying he was "prejudiced."

Another jury will be selected November 25, Chief Justice Bolitha J. Laws, of District Court, informed Fay.

Lottery Case Put Off

United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage yesterday continued a hearing for five persons, charged with operation of a lottery and possession of numbers slips, to November 19 to permit them to consult counsel.

Arrested Tuesday were Mrs. Florence M. Bennett, 26, of 741 Hobart pl. nw.; William Mitchell, 40, of 2807 Sherman ave nw.; William K. Daniels, 45, of the Hobart pl. address; Mrs. Hazel I. Colvin, 28, of 1229 O st. nw., and James M. Carpenter, 54, of 4458th st. sw. Bond was continued at $1500.

Mrs. Lillian Young Small

Mrs. Lillian Young Small, wife of Clarence H. Small, Montgomery County contractor and unsuccessful candidate for the Maryland State Senate in 1942, died Tuesday morning at her home near Laytonsville, Md. She was 48.

Mrs. Small

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. today from the Barber funeral home, Laytonsville. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

A native of Virginia, Mrs. Small was educated there and came to Washington in 1916. She was divorced from her first husband and married Small in 1932. Both have been active politically and socially in Montgomery County.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, J. Lee Lane, two daughters, Mrs. Bettie Carlson and Miss Charlotte Young Small, and a sister, Mrs. Charlie Murfin.

Truman F. Krauskopf

Funeral services for Truman F. Krauskopf, 61, retired District government employe, will be held at Fort Myer chapel at 10 a. m., tomorrow. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Mr. Krauskopf, a native of the District, died Tuesday in Mount Alto Hospital after a short illness. For the past 15 years he had lived at 1318 N. Adams, Arlington. Before his retirement five years ago, he was assistant chief electrician with the District sewage treatment plant.

During World War I, he served overseas with the twenty-ninth engineers corps. He was a former drum major of Victory Post No. 4, American Legion, a member of Alexandria American Legion Post 24, Harmony 17 of the Masons, and a life member of the All-American Drum Major Association.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mildred Krauskopf, record buyer with the Campbell Music Co.

William H. Longwell

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 12 (AP).—William H. Longwell, 51, superintendent of the Cumberland shop of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, died last night at his home.

A native of Manassas, Va., he served his apprenticeship in the B. & O. shops at Gassaway, W. Va. He was general foreman of B. & O. shops at Buckhannon, Clarksburg, W. Va., Gassaway and Fairmont, W. Va.

Surviving are his widow; a brother, Arthur L. Longwell, Washington, D. C.; and three sisters, Mrs. O. B. Waters, Manassas, Va.; Mrs. Edward Fraser, Seabrook, Md., and Mrs. Carl Lehnis, Pratt, W .Va.

Daniel Miller

Funeral services for Daniel Miller, 86, retired Government employe, will be held today at 2 p. m. at Takoma Park Presbyterian Church, Maple and Tulip aves. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mr. Miller died Monday at his home, 1 Takoma ave., Takoma Park, where he had lived for the past 40 years. Born in Oakland, Md., he lived in Washington for 10 years before moving to Takoma Park.

He retired 21 years ago after 35 years with the Government Printing Office. Only survivor is his wife, Mabel H. Miller.

Va. Tax Study Board Offers 5 Suggestions

Richmond, Va., Nov. 12 (AP).—A legislative study commission, in a report today to Governor Tuck, produced five suggestions to help cities in Virginia increase their revenues but had little to say concerning revision or boosts in State taxes.

Governor Tuck had no comment two make on the report.

The commission readily admitted its inability to deal with the State's taxation structure and pointed out that it had been provided with neither the time nor the money to effectively carry out its work.

It recommended that the 1948 session of the General Assembly set up another study commission and bestow upon it sufficient funds for a comprehensive inquiry into tax matters.

Recommendations Listed

To boost the cities revenues, which it has been estimated need about 15 million dollars additional, eight members of the commission, with one member dissenting, recommended:

1. The cities ask the General Assembly to amend their charters to permit the levy of payroll taxes.

2. The Assembly should raise the maximum authorized license tax on water, heat, light and power companies from one half of 1 per cent to 1 per cent of gross receipts.

3. The State should provide the deeds and wills and in the administration of the recordation of estates.

4. In distribution of the State gasoline tax, a more liberal provision should be made for streets in cities and towns, and the base on which payments are figured should be broadened "to include the idea of the secondary highway or street."

5.If a sales tax be enacted—and the commission didn't have any suggestion to offer concerning adoption of such a levy—division of the proceeds between State and localities should be "based upon the governmental service which each level of government is expected to provide in the light of the adoption of such a tax."

Basis of Tunstall's Dissent

The report drew a pointed dissent from Robert B. Tunstall, a member of the commission, who, while expressing his agreement with the propuosal that another commission be created to make another study, said:

"This recommendation merely emphasizes the failure, candidly admitted and in some part explained, of the present commission to execute the mandate entrusted to it by the General Assembly."

Tunstall also asserted in his seven page statement that the commission "did not 'make a thorough study of State and local taxes and revenues, the division of tax sources between the commonwealth and the localities and grants-in-aid' and does not claim to have done so."

Tunstall said, however, that he believed the commission had been given an assignment which was "well-nigh impossible" from the start and called attention to the lack of adequate financial support and the brief span of time in which the group had to work.

Anderson Presents 174 Honors For Outstanding Services

Seven Distinguished Service Awards topped a list of 174 honors presented by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson at the Sylvan Theater to employes and units for outstanding services during the year.

Among the recipients were 74 Agriculture Department employes at its Washington and Beltsville offices. There were 43 Superior Service Awards and 124 length-of-service citations.

The awards, to be made in May of each year hereafter, were in recognition of "exceptional or meritorious contributions to efficient and constructive service."

Distinguished Service Awards, highest in the Department, went to:

Hugh H. Bennett, Soil Conservation Service, Washington, for achievement in the field of soil and water conservation.

William A. Jump, Budget and Finance, Washington, for outstanding service in the advancement of public adminstration.

Milburn L. Wilson, Extension Service, Washington, for leadership in pioneering ideas and in developing programs to improve farming methods.

Assault Suit Filed Against Police Officer

Frederick, Md., Nov. 12 (Spl.).—A Frederick free-lance photographer who alleges he was "assaulted and beaten" in September by a member of this city's police force after snapping a picture, today sued the officer for $2000 damages.

The suit, filed by Charles W. Roelkey in Frederick County Circuit Court, contends Lieut. Frank K. Dorsey on September 28 "assaulted and beat" him and caused him to be jailed after he had taken a photograph of an accident on Frederick's main thoroughfare.

Roelkey's spit contends he was "lawfully engaged in his profession" when "illegally arrested" by Dorsey and that "this illegal act" caused him "great humiliation" and was injurious to his professional reputation.

Because of the officer's "corrupt, wicked design," the suit charges, Roelkey was "forced" from his home without warrant afte rhe had retired, taken to police headquarters, and by "force and duress" made to surrender and destroy the films he had taken.

Wind, Rain, Gunfire Stop Town's Clock

Frederick, Md., Nov. 12 (Spl.).—When wind and rain stopped the old Middletown town clock the other day, repairmen discovered that someone had fired five rifle bullets into the face of the timepiece. Town officials are investigating.

Jury Denies Damages in Soldier Death

An Alexandria District Court jury yesterday denied the widow of a Fort Belvoir soldier the $15,000 damages she sought from Southern Railway Co. for the 1944 death of her husband in a bridge collapse.

Counsel for Mrs. Mary L. Hamilton, whose husband, Robert Hamilton, passenger in an Army truck, was killed, immediately asked the verdict be set aside as "contrary to law and evidence." Her attorneys were allowed 10 days to file their brief in support of the motion.

The jury deliberated only half an hour. Judge John Paul, a year ago, had refused to send the case to a jury on grounds of lack of evidence. Circuit Court of Appeals, however, ordered a retrial.

Hamilton was killed when the Army truck crashed through the company's bridge at Fairfax Station.

Passengers in a preceding truck in the convoy, testified the truck in which Hamilton was riding probably struck a bridge support, causing the collapse. Passengers in the truck itself, however, said they did not feel the truck strike the support.

Ira W. Mullinix

Funeral services for Ira W. Mullinix, 72, of Cedar Grove, Montgomery County, will be held at 2:30 today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ada Main, in Cedar Grove. Burial will be in Salem Cemetery.

Mrs. Austin Sews Fine Seam As U.N. Meets; Yellow Shoes And Sari Brighten Scene

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 12.—The United Nations current general sessions are almost over so we thought it propitious to call on Mrs. Warren Austin who has so many friends in Washington. Wife of the former Vermont Senator who is now permanent United States delegate, Mrs. Austin has a wry sense of humor, a trim figure, curly blue-white hair and is far handsomer than her newspaper photographs. The Austin's apartment is on the Waldorf's forty-second floor. Mrs. Austin was sitting against a fantastic backdrop of skyscrapers, every window ablaze, sewing a black lace ruffle on a blue taffeta petticoat.

On the table beside her was a tiny radio. The views are so beautiful, Mrs. Austin explained, she hates to go out and keeps tab on United Nations doings via the airwaves.

The only woman we know who dislikes black, Mrs. Austin wore red which made a fine foil for her sewing. Since Mrs. Austin knits dresses with professional skill, stitching a fine seam seemed a departure. It is to rustle beneath her one and only new evening gown. The model she selected had a similar underpinning so costly Mrs. Austin decided to sacrifice a lace shawl and concoct her own.

As top American hostess Mrs. Austin's life is far less hectic than one would imagine. She entertains officially only, concentrates on taking care of her overworked husband. This year she has given a number of receptions, the largest the day the United Nations Charter was signed.

The Austin's Turn

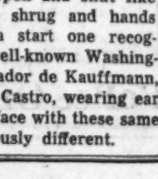
ON NOVEMBER 25 the Austins are giving a dinner for the Security Council representatives. The presidency of the Security Council rotates monthly, successive chiefs entertain the group and this month is Mr. Austin's turn. There are 11 members of the Security Council but counting wives and important assistants some 40 attend.

MRS. AUSTIN

Mrs. Austin has no seating worries because a special protocol has been evolved for this particular dinner. Guests are placed alphabetically according to country; right now Australia is top man. The United States trails below the salt. To equal Mr. Austin to his opposites his job has recently been raised to Ambassadorial rank. The State Department sends out the Austins' invitations in this fashion and the United States emblem placed over the door of all our foreign embassies now adorns their apartment entrance. Incidentally though Mrs. Austin lives in the Waldorf she has her own kitchen, brought her cook from home because she doesn't like a steady diet of hotel food. She is hoping the United Nations will finish before Thanksgiving so she can holiday in Vermont. Last year the United Nations kept right on meeting and she had to cancel a date for turkey dinner with the Fred Brooks in Washington. The Austins were in a smaller New York hotel and for the first time Mrs. Austin went without turkey, ate hamburger instead because she doesn't fancy our favorite bird hotel cooked. To cheer her some of the top delegates stopped by to drink a toast to our holiday.

World Tour Through Lounge

OUT AT THE United Nations walking through the delegates lounge and lunching at the delegates restaurant is like a comfortable swish around the world. The windowless lounge is done up on biege with modern furniture, has a generous bar. The almost all window restaurant is presided over by a suave maitre d'hotel who greets everyone by name or just right title, Excellency, Mr. Ambassador.



MME. PANDIT

Most colorful woman is Mme. Pandit, Indian delegate, and in her own right Ambassadress to Moscow. Mme. Pandit's gray-white hair contrasts strikingly with her smooth olive skin, frames her perfect features.

She always wears a sari but has evolved a businesslike version of the graceful native dress. The sleeveless high-necked blouse is brocaded black and white, the swirling and over shoulder drapery, a dull black.

The Saudi Arabian delegates, once the U. N.s most picturesque gents, are outshone by the members from newly admitted Yemen. They know it, too, and possibly out of pique all except Prince Feisal have reverted to western clothes. The head delegate from Yemen, which tips the Arabian Peninsula's southwest end, is hobbled in a straight brown robe, cinched with a wide brocade belt fastened in back with a finely chiseled buckle. Over one shoulder he tosses a lighter brown shawn, gold embroidered, and his white turban is wound primly as Queen Mary's toques. Instead of sandals the Yemenese gentleman encases his feet in gigantic bright orange American Shoes.

Like an Aquarium

OUTSIDERS visiting the actual conference rooms for the first time have a curious feeling of being in a diving bell. Studding the walls of the high ceilinged room are a series of aquariums. Behind glass sit radiomen, guests, the press. In lower booths four teams of simultaneous translators, Chinese, English, French, Russian, Spanish have front desks. You hear no sound but their mouths open and shut like gasping fish, their shoulders shrug and hands gesticulate weirdly. With a start one recognizes in the Assembly such well-known Washingtonians as Denmark's Ambassador de Kauffmann, Cuba's Belt and El Salvator's Castro, wearing ear phones. In the lounge face to face with these same individuals they appear curiously different.

Mrs. Jacobsen Gives Tea at Sulgrave Club

MRS. LAWRENCE JACOBSEN entertained at a large tea yesterday afternoon at the Sulgrave Club for her sister, Mrs. George W. Petticord, jr., and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Alan Balch Mills, jr., who with Mr. Mills has recently come to Washington from Ponte Verda, Fla., and is living in Bethesda.

Guests—all feminine—were of all ages and sizes, including mothers with their tiny tots and teen-age daughters.

The hostess wore a royal blue cocktail frock to match her blue eyes and Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Petticord were both in green, Mrs. Mills pinning a cluster of baby rust-colored chrysanthemums to her bodice.

Taking their turn at the flower-decked tea table were Mrs. Kimball Dieuaide, Countess de Bar, Mrs. Alan B. Mills, mother of the hostess; Mrs. Nathaniel Macon Martin, Mrs. Kenneth K. Addicott, Mrs. George MacKibbin, Mrs. Spencer Davis, Mrs. Grayson Headley, Mrs. William E. Miller, Mrs. Lynn de Lashmutt, Mrs. John Stanley, Mrs. Jay Smith, Mrs. Norton Barron, Mrs. William Lively and Miss Mary McLaughlin.

To Greet Newcomers

White House Will Entertain Chiefs of Missions and Wives

Special addition to the White House social calendar this month is the afternoon reception on November 25, when Mrs. Truman will receive chiefs of missions and their wives whom she has not previously met.

During the summer months, while the First Lady was absent from the Capital, several new Ambassadors and Ministers arrived to assume official duties. It is for these newcomers that the 5 p. m. tea will be held.

Those who will be present include the diplomatic representatives and their wives from the following countries:

Chile, the Dominican Republic, Great Britain, Greece, Iraq, Netherlands, Paraguay, Pakistan, Portugal, Siam, Venezuela, Hungary, Ireland, Liberia, Syria and Peru.

Mrs. James Meredith Helm, White House social secretary, presiding at yesterday's press conference, said that the First Family has made no plans for the Thanksgiving weekend. But it is expected that the holiday will be marked by the customary dinner, featuring a simple menu. Details of the dinner will be given at the next press conference, which has been moved up to Monday, November 24.

Yesterday Mrs. Truman was hostess at the White House to members of the Board of Managers of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers at 4 p. m., and to members of the D. C. Business and Professional Women's Clubs at 5 o'clock.

At Opera Opening

Judge and Mrs. George D. Neilson were in New York for the opening of the Metropolitan Opera on Monday evening. They are visiting Mrs. Weston Vernon, jr. for the week and will return to Washington on Sunday.

White House Tea Honors BPW Club

More than 740 members of the D. C. Business and Professional Women's Clubs were received by Mrs. Truman at a White House tea yesterday at 5 p. m.

Several officers of the National Federation were in attendance in addition to the local members, headed by Dr. Irma Gene Nevins, Washington president. Included were Dr. K. Frances Scott of Northampton, Mass., first vice president; Miss Olive H. Huston of New York, executive secretary, and Mrs. Sally G. Dunn of Auburn, Me., membership chairman.

Also attending were two State presidents, Mrs. Gladys Oliphant of Salisbury, Md., and Mrs. Irene L. Tancoast of Alexandria, Va.

The Washington Post regrets an error in yesterday's editions which stated that the First Lady entertained members of the club on Tuesday.

Women's Symphony Committee Hears Young Hungarian Play

By Marie McNair

BUSINESS was over in short order at the luncheon meeting of the Women's Committee of the National Symphony Orchestra Association at the Mayflower yesterday. So—the 150 or more members sat back and listened to a lovely lady from Budapest—Agi Jambor, whose piano playing has enchanted all ears within its reach.

Mrs. C. C. Glover, chairman of the women's committee, from the head table, introduced this soft-spoken young artist who, with her scientist husband, was imprisoned by the Nazis, escaped to work for the resistance and eventually made her way to Sweden. Concert playing in that country gave her the means to get herself and her husband to the United States and Washington where they have lived since last year.

Such a smartly turned out group of women had lined themselves up at the speaker's table yesterday! There was Mrs. J. William Fulbright in gray tweeds, a sweeping feather on her black hat. Mrs. Joseph Davies and Mrs. Russell Bishop both in smoky gray with be-feathered hats; Mrs. Truxtun Beale, who topped her black frock with an off-the-face hat of what could have been metallic ribbon and Mrs. Frank Carter Adams, who posed a question mark of goose feathers on her close-fitting little black hat. Others at the head table were Mrs. Edwin B. Parker, Mrs. Robert McKay and Mrs. Edward Finkenstaedt.

Appeals for Members

Mrs. Glover made another appeal for membership in the women's committee, hoping to swell the 660 members to the 1000 mark. She also read a message from Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe who says she's a victim of "chrysanthemum fever" which will keep her indoors for another few days.

Seated around the room were Mrs. Buchanan Merryman—the Duchess of Windsor's Aunt Bessie—and at the same table Mrs. John N. Greely and Mrs. Alfred W. Johnson. Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin with a plaid tweed cape over her shoulders was with Mrs. Paul Magnuson of Lake Forest, Ill., who has recently come to Washington to live; pretty Mrs. Kingdon Gould wearing a beige felt poke bonnet piled high with matching ostrich; and Mrs. Philip Havenor.

Mrs. Walter Tuckerman was there and among others Mrs. Corrin Strong, Mrs. Robert Dunlap, hurrying through luncheon to take a train for New York; Miss Bertha Joseph, Mrs. Worthington Keith, Mrs. Milton King, Mrs. Thomas Burke, and Mrs. Edwin M. Watson.

Joseph Bech Entertained At Luxembourg Legation

JOSEPH BECH, Foreign Minister of Luxembourg, who spent the weekend in Washington, has returned to New York to resume chairmanship of the Political and Security Committee of U. N. Mr. Bech was received by President Truman on his visit here and was entertained at dinner Monday evening by the Minister of Luxembourg and Mme. LeGallais.

Other guests at the dinner were the Ambassador of Brazil and Mme. Martins, the Belgian Ambassador, Baron Robert Silvercruys; the Netherlands Ambassador and Mme. van Kleffens, the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Norman Armour, the Director of the International Monetary Fund, Camille Gutt; Mrs. Truxtun Beale, Gen. and Mrs. Hayes Kroner, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Meyer, Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer and Miss Carolyn Nash.

Mr. Bech will return to Washington for a few days next week.

Everyone Is In Politics, Council Hears

"You can't decide to stay out of politics; you're already in politics!" Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas of California, told delegates to the twelfth annual convention of the National Council of Negro Women yesterday.

"Just because you live in a democracy, you're in politics—even if you never cast a vote," the California Congresswoman said at a legislative strategy workshop held in the Department of Labor Auditorium. "Though you stay away from the polls, your influence is still felt, for those of whom you disapprove have a better chance of winning."

As much sly effort to keep the people from expressing their honest opinions is being exerted now as at any time in history, Mrs. Douglas continued. No citizen should be scared out of going to the polls or to see his or her Congressman about an issue, she emphasized.

"When you go to talk to your Congressman, don't go apologetically, like a waif in the street," Mrs. Douglas said, in advising the women on ways and means of making legislative influence felt. "Remember that a Congressman is the servant of the people. He's there as your representative, and it's your duty to tell him what you want.

"Above all, though, be polite in making your desires known," she continued. "Save your impoliteness for expression when you go to the polls. The most impolite thing you can do to a Congressman is to vote against him!"

Minority Views Puzzle

She has always been puzzled, Mrs. Douglas said, as to why it's considered admirable for a prominent, influential man to take an interest in politics, but almost subversive for an obscure individual or minority group to do so.

"Some people claim minority groups in this country don't know what's good for them, but on the basis of my own experience, I say this isn't so," said the Congresswoman. She then told of her experience in the "melting pot" Fourteenth Congressional District of California, which includes Negroes, Chinese, white people from the South, and other racial groups among its population. Her opponent in the 1946 congressional race was a Republican Negro, she said, but she avoided the racial issue in campaigning and believes she won because the people decided in a level-headed manner that she would fight for more of the things that would be beneficial for them as a whole.

A reception at the White House this afternoon and an international program tonight are highlights on today's program for the council convention. Scheduled to speak tonight are Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, chairman, United Nations Commission of Human Rights; Mme. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, Indian Ambassador to Soviet Russia and chairman of the Indian delegation to the United Nations; Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, chairman, National Civilian Advisory Committee for the Women's Army Corps, and Mrs. Ellen Mills Scarbrough, United Nations representative for Liberia.

Doings of the Day . . .

Women's American ORT will give its Harvest Festival at 8:30 p. m. at Indian Spring Country Club. French Workshop Sends Clothing to Aid France

When the French destroyer Georges Leygues set sail from Annapolis on Monday, it carried six large boxes of clothing which had been made by the members of the American Aid to France Workshop at 1302 Conn. ave.

Boxes were sent to Father Le Bideau's orphanage at Angouleme; to Mme. Jules Jusserand, wife of the former Ambassador to Washing after the last war, and to Mme. de Witt Gizot, head of the Red Cross in northern France. Two linen tablecloths were also presented to the captain for use in the wardroom.

During the past year, the busy workshop, which was organized in 1939 as urgent relief for France by Mrs. George Barnett and Mrs. Wilbur Carr and in 1941 became a part of national American aid to France, took care of the villages of Dieuze, Condi Sur Noire and Royan. The headquarters of the Child Package Program, headed by Mme. Raymond Tartiere, is also located at the same address.

Mrs. Harry K. Hickey, cochairman of American Aid to France in Washington, is assisted at the workshop by Mrs. Robert Moore, vice chairman, of 1302; Mrs. J. Howard Ford, head of the workroom, and a large group of workers from the French congregation of St. John's, and Mrs. Charles F. Dewey, honorary chairman.

The workshop will take time out from sending warm clothing to France to take part in the bazaar to be held at the French Embassy on Tuesday from 11 to 7. Dresses, pinafores and aprons will be sold at the workshop table.

Chilean Pianist Likes Turkey, Says Americans Gobble Food

By Lucia Brown

"Your American baked turkey is the finest in the world," said Claudio Arrau, celebrated Chilean pianist yesterday in giving his impressions of food in the United States contrasted with that of his native country and Europe.

Claudio Arrau

"I do not know whether it is the way the turkeys are fed or the way they are cooked—probably a little of both," said the widely traveled musician, who appeared in concert at Constitution Hall last night under the sponsorship of Patrick Hayes. "The meat is so tender and succulent, and the stuffings you use are wonderful, particularly the chestnut stuffing."

The Chilean's opinions of our eating habits isn't nearly so complimentary as his estimate of our turkey, however.

"The only thing wrong with American food is the way Americans eat it," said the Chilean pianist and epicure. "Food is gobbled down here, nervously and in haste. Dinner isn't enjoyed as a civilized rite as it is in South America and Europe. The South Americans adore eating. They think it important to eat leisurely, to savor the food."

Small Meals Are Surprise

Senor Arrau has been astonished by the relatively small meals we eat here. In Chile, he said, a meal usually has three main courses contrasted with our one.

"These huge North Americans—they eat so little!" he said. "Perhaps, since South Americans are so excitable, they use up their food energy that way. But in spite of their excitability and hot foods, I don't think you'll find as many stomach ulcers among South Americans. It's bottling in your emotions and bolting down your food that makes so many people have them in the United States, I believe."

"It makes us all feel much more like 'good neighbors' to experiment with each others foods," he said. "I never long for Chilean food when I'm here. I want to eat food that's as 'North American' as possible."

Fun at Air Force Luncheon

Good Time Had by All Trying On Hats

By Peggy Preston

Everyone had a wonderful time at the meeting of the Air Force Officers Wives Club of Washington yesterday. The reason: members indulged in the favorite feminine pastime of trying on hats . . . John Frederics hats to be exact!

MRS. SYMINGTON
. . . feathered helmet

The master himself, John Frederics, was there in person to see that the right creation went to the right woman. He brought his whole new spring collection from New York for the occasion and the Army wives were treated to a genuine "hat preview," something that doesn't happen often in Washington.

Scene of the meeting and hat show was the Bolling Field Officers Club where members of the Air Force Officers Wives Club hold their monthly sessions. Preceding it Mrs. Junius W. Jones, vice president, gave a luncheon at her quarters in honor of Mr. Frederics. Guests included club officers and a few others, including Mrs. W. Stuart Symington, wife of the Secretary of the Air Force; Mrs. Carl Spaatz, honorary president; Mrs. Hoyt Vandenberg, Mrs. Conger Pratt and Jane Goddard, daughter of RAF Air Marshall Sir Victor Goddard and Lady Goddard.

Guests Are Models

These guests and officers, including Mrs. B. M. Hovey, president, were among those modeling the fabulous hats at the show which followed.

Mr. Frederics carried his "treasures" in large, soft, wicker baskets which, when opened, looked as though they were filled with tropical blossoms.

"Pink, violet and lavender are my main colors for spring," explained Mr. Frederics above the exclamations of feminine delight. "Flowers, ribbons, veils and feathers are all being used to stress an utterly feminine tone to my hats for next year."

. . . pink beige felt, ribbon trim

There were several wide-brimmed felts, made of a fabric which resembled Italian beaver, but was quite different, according to Mr. Frederics. "It's material, especially treated," is how he described it in a model of pale pink with a high crown, ample brim and gold ribbon.

Flowers Form Hats

His versions of the little one-sided hats that are currently popular; were done almost completely of flowers. A row of lavender roses perched far over one ear to form one of his loveliest hats and he created much the same effect with clusters of nasturtiums in magnificent colors.

But his black hats were equally effective. Mrs. Hoyt Vandenberg modeled one which he calls a "Disc Hat." It is made of two flat layers of felt, dramatized with a high, swirling, simulated aigrette. Mrs. Conger Pratt wore another that will be bound to make "conversation" anywhere. It's a tiny felt affair, completely overshadowed with a sweep of pale blue and black aigrette-type feathers. Then there was Mrs. W. Stuart Symington, in a venetian helmet of platinum feathers with gunmetal sequin trim and many more women wearing other beautiful hats.

Voters' League Hears Talk by Labor Leader

Labor-management tensions would be minimized if human relations rather than labor relations were emphasized, declared Marion Hedges, research director of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL, when he spoke yesterday at the D. C. League of Women Voters' monthly luncheon at the YWCA, 17th and K sts. nw.

"There must be a revolution in men's minds before we can begin collective bargaining," explained the speaker, who is also labor adviser to the Social Security Board.

The one good thing resulting from the Taft-Hartley bill, he replied to a question, is that it has brought the problem of labor into the center of our attention.

"Unfortunately," he added, "the bill was founded on the premise of permanent antagonism between labor and management—not on anticipation of working out a solution."

Capital cannot survive without labor pointed out Mr. Hedges, declaring that character and integrity are the only things that will help the problem.

"We must make men actually loyal to our democratic system . . . not only theoretically so," he insisted. "There must be a will to cooperate among management and labor . . . We need to study our successes in labor-management relations—not our failures."

Mrs. John Thomas, president of the D. C. League, presided and Mrs. William Kaufman, chairman of the committee for national economic policy, introduced the speaker.

The luncheon followed the fourth and last meeting of the Know-Your-Washington course of lectures being sponsored by the league at Pierce Hall. Yesterday's speakers were John Ryan, public relations officer of the D. C. Police Department, and George Ruhland of the D. C. Health Department.

Arlington Girls Show Fashions With Mrs. Eisenhower as Guest

IT WAS fashion day and autograph day at Washington-Lee High School, Arlington, yesterday, when Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, wife of the Army Chief of Staff, was guest of honor at the fashion show assembly sponsored by students of the school's distributive education department.

Escorted into the large auditorium by a guard of honor of the girls' battalion, Mrs. Eisenhower was presented with an orchid and introduced by Leonard Pennington, jr., president of the Distributors Club. Later popular and smiling "Mrs. Ike" was besieged by teen-age autograph seekers.

Featuring the theme, "Picture Yourself in the New Silhouette," 20 of the school's attractive students stepped through a poinsettia frame to model costumes appropriate for classroom, sportswear, dating and formal dancing. All costumes were furnished by the J. C. Penney Co.

Acting as models were Jackie Baber, Barbara Bennett, Claire Boone, Mackall Bruin, Jayne Bush, Anne Gaines, Betsy Gemmill, Marguerite Huff, Elizabeth Jarrett, Joan Kelly, Jean Kloss, Connie Mason, Barbara McCullough, Marilyn Myatt, Claudia Richmond, Joyce Springer, Perdita Swift, Pat Taylor, Dorothy Urban and Annette Wynkoop.

During the intermission, William McBride, Hollywood tenor appearing in "Top Man," sang a group of Irish songs, concluding with "White Christmas."

Mary Haworth's Mail

Woman, 44, Widowed Two Years, Meets Man 12 Years Her Junior, Who Offers Marriage; She's Enthused but Her Grown Sons Object

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a widow, 44 years of age, and I have two grown sons. The elder, 25, is married and has a baby boy 18 months old. The younger, 23, is a student in college.

I have been a widow for over two years and recently I met a man, 32, who is seriously attentive. In fact, he wishes to marry me. He is in the Navy and expects to get shore leave soon. In the meantime, he writes me daily and also sends gifts.

I am deeply interested in him; in fact, really in love with him and we get along splendidly. However, my elder son thinks this man—I'll call him Jeff—is too young for me. He says if I marry Jeff I will be taking a boy to raise.

Son's Scoffing Infuriates Her

THIS makes me furious; I feel he has no right to set himself up as judge. However, I would like your opinion. Is the age difference too great? Both my sons object to Jeff on the score of his age; otherwise they think he is a fine fellow.

Much as I love my sons, I feel they haven't any right to interfere in my life. What do you think? Jeff will be here in a short time, so please answer soon, and try to help me solve the matter wisely. H. S.

Wise to Curb Her Eagerness

DEAR H. S.: Calm down. You sound quite as nervously excited as the traditional comic-valentine spinster in receipt of her first marriage proposal.

Bearing in mind the proverb, "Marry in haste and repent at leisure," have the good sense to table Jeff's proposal for the time being, until you've had reasonable opportunity to get really well acquainted with him and meet some of his friends and members of his family—after which it will be soon enough to probe the question of whether, or how much, the age-difference matters.

Jeff is in the Navy, on sea duty at present, anticipating early shore leave, you say. You met him recently, since when he writes daily, also sending gifts. In short, you hardly know him at all. All you know is his best foot forward: and if he is trying to win your confidence for any reason, naturally he is doing his utmost to create the impression of being a fine fellow.

Sons' Lectures Seem Justified

YOUR references to him don't tell anything about his character, background, etc., — and since I can't remotely guess whether he is a bigamist, Bluebeard, cynical opportunist or splendid young man, I certainly wouldn't venture to endorse him as a suitor for your hand at this point.

If your son's interventionist lectures cause you to pause and reflect, and give up the idea of leaping headlong into marriage with Jeff during his next shore leave, I think you should be grateful for their interest and their frankness.

They are leading normal lives for their age, which implies that they are normal young men; and being normal, doubtless they love you as much as you love them, and are therefore sincerely concerned to safeguard your happiness as best they can. M. H.

TOMORROW: Afraid of his dragon mother and estranged from her, younger son and so-called "black sheep" in wealthy family asks how to learn details of trust fund his grandmother left him.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Washington Post.

Tomorrow's Peace Plate

The Scalloped Tuna and Potato Casserole Peace Plate, suggested for tomorrow by Citizens Food Committee, spells economy, conservation and nutrition. The menu:

Buttered Carrots Cooked spinach or other greens
Scalloped Tuna and Potato Casserole
Celery Sticks Chocolate Custard Bread Pudding

SCALLOPED TUNA AND POTATO CASSEROLE

4 cups thinly sliced, pared potatoes
3 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine
¼ cup flour
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups bottled milk or 1 cup evaporated milk and 1 cup water
1 7-ounce can tuna, flaked (1 cup)
1 cup thinly sliced, peeled onions

Cook potatoes in boiling salted water 10 minutes, drain. Meanwhile melt butter in saucepan. Stir in flour, mustard, salt, and pepper. Add milk, gradually, while stirring, and cook over low heat until smooth and thickened. Arrange potatoes, tuna, and onions in alternate layers in greased 2-quart casserole. Pour sauce over all, and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 45 minutes. Serves 6. Another can of tuna may be added for a richer dish.

Ask Anne / Your Questions on Homemaking

How can I get avocado seed to sprout? I've seen some attractive plants grown from seeds, but my attempt to sprout a seed by leaving it in water in a dark room was unsuccessful. Can you advise me? M. D. K.

A plant specialist tells me avocado seeds should be planted in earth and placed where they'll get plenty of sunshine if you want them to sprout. He suggests planting the seed so that it has about an inch of soil over its top, and placing it on a sunny window sill in a comfortably heated room.

How can I refinish a small section of a highly polished beechwood headboard? Will it be necessary to remove the varnish and refinish the entire headboard, or can I do a small section of it successfully? M. C. S.

Varnished surfaces can rarely be "patched" without an unattractive spotted effect resulting. Sometimes one panel can be refinished without working on the surrounding area. However, it's difficult to get a good match because, among other things, varnish often darkens with age. You'd be much surer of satisfactory results if you remove all the finish with paint and varnish remover and sandpaper. Wipe off surface with alcohol to neutralize the varnish remover. Then finish with several coats of varnish. Let each coat dry and sandpaper lightly before applying the next coat. For an extra lustrous finish, rub the last coat with raw linseed oil and powdered pumice.

I have a blouse of rayon boucle. What is boucle? Can it be washed? If so, what is the best method? F. S.

Boucle is a type of two-ply yarn which gives a knotted or tufted effect when made into a garment. Usually rayon boucle is washable in warm water and mild soapsuds. After rinsing thoroughly in lukewarm water, do not wring or twist the garment. Squeeze water out by hand, roll in a turkish towel and knead gently to work out excess moisture. To insure the garment keeping its shape, trace an outline of it on wrapping paper before washing. Then, after the blouse has been laundered, ease it back to its original measurements, pinning it with rustproof pins to the pattern (stretched out on towels or ironing board).

We would like to dress up some plain coffee mugs with gold paint. Can you tell us how this should be applied and finished so that the paint will not come off when the cups are washed? P. P.

You might paint the cups with gold paint such as sign painters use in lettering glass windows. An art goods store, where the paint is for sale, can give you instructions. This will not, however, stand too much washing. To make the painting permanent, it must be baked in a kiln. There are several people in Washington who do china painting if you're interested in having this done.

I am going to Europe (Vienna, Austria) sometime soon. What clothing should I take for the boat trip and for a stay of two years abroad? M. H. J.

For your two years abroad you will need about the same kind and number of clothes that you would need for two years at home with the exception that your European wardrobe should be warmer than for home use since you will probably find that fuel is not plentiful and the houses not as warm as at home. Both for the stay abroad and for the ocean voyage, you will need woolen clothes, warm sweaters, skirts, a heavy coat, a woolen dressing gown and warm night gowns and lingerie. Your summer clothing needs will be those of any temperate climate. It would be a good idea to take plenty of hose, since these may not be plentiful overseas. Also take along a good supply of laundry soap or flakes.

I have a two-way stretch girdle which I would like to make larger so that it will fit more comfortably. How can this be done? A. S. G.

I would suggest that you take your girdle to a corset shop that does renovations and repair work. It is hard to work with the elastic without special machine attachments to sew the seams strongly and prevent the material from raveling.

My dining room looks very dull. Can you give me some advice on how to decorate it? One half of the walls are wood, the other half is beaver board. What color should the walls be painted? My windows are small and low. Do you suggest a short panel at each window or tie back curtains? R. W. T.

Both the beaver board and wooden part of your dining room walls may be painted the same color, or you may use a pale color for the beaver board and a darker tone of the same color for the wooden paneling. Study the household magazines for color suggestions, remembering that if your room is dark, pale colors will make to seem lighter. Yellow particularly seems to bring the sunshine indoors. If your windows are small the panel curtains sound like the best choice, as the tie backs may tend to make them look even smaller. Prints of flowers or fruit or wall containers of trailing vines would add a colorful touch.

Is there any possible way to treat an angora sweater to keep it from shedding? I've been told that the hair on angora sweaters grows in thicker and thicker and this helps explain the loose hairs. Is this true? D. L.

The school girls have a trick of rolling their angora sweaters in a towel and slipping it in the refrigerator overnight to prevent the shedding, at least temporarily. No, to your second query.

My black broadcloth bag has a chain handle that has become tarnished. Is there any way to bring the handle back to its original gold look? F. M. P.

Try metal polish on the chain, being careful to wrap the bag so that it is protected from the polish. This may brighten it. However, if the chain has a plated finish that has worn off, there's nothing that will restore it except repeating a relatively expensive process.

Would one of your readers be able to help me obtain pieces of flat silver in the Etruscan pattern? The manufacturer has discontinued the pattern and I am eager to complete my set. J. R.

Any readers who have Etruscan pattern silver that they wish to dispose of may write to this column.

Thomas, Leonard Beaten by Reuther

Rightwing Forces Capture Four Top Offices of UAW

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 12 (AP).—The triumphant Walter Reuther forces in the CIO United Auto Workers tumbled tobacco-chewing R. J. Thomas and mild-mannered Dick Leonard out of their vice presidential jobs today.

Completing the Reuther Sweep of four top union offices, the UAW convention turned Leonard's post over to regional director John W. Livingston of St. Louis.

A few hours earlier Thomas was beaten by Dick Gosser, powerful Toledo, Ohio, labor leader.

The election stampede got off to a flying start yesterday when Reuther was reelected president without organized opposition and Emil Mazey defeated Secretary-Treasurer George F. Addes.

Epoch Is Ended

The defeat of Leonard, who recently negotiated the first major auto industry pension plan but was not backed by the membership, came shortly before 7 p. m. (EST) when Livingston reached a majority of the convention's 7500 votes.

In the final unofficial count announced later, Livingston had 4921 votes; Leonard 1579, and Shelton Tappes, Detroit Negro running as independent, 508.

Thomas, who held the presidency for seven years before Reuther edged him out at the last convention here in March, 1946, lost to Gosser by a final unofficial vote margin of 5053 to 2025.

Thomas' setback ended an epoch in the turbulent 11-year history of the Auto Workers Union.

He was a founder of the Independent Automobile Workers of America and helped merge this group with the UAW in 1936. A year later he was elected a vice president of the UAW.

When Homer Martin was ousted as president of the union in 1939, Thomas was appointed to the office by the UAW executive board. His popularity as a rough-and-tumble leader carried him through election after election.

He teamed with Secretary-Treasurer George F. Addes, who was defeated for reelection yesterday, to control a catch-all faction that might be called a "popular front" in auto union politics. Supporters of this group include the UAW's small Communist minority.

Last year Thomas was elected vice president after Reuther was named president. Thomas told a reporter he planned to stay in the union.

Addes, who gave Emil Mazey a better battle for the secretary-treasurer job yesterday, told delegates today that no setback could "alter my allegiance to this union."

The 46-year-old Gosser was a prime mover in the set-up of the tri-partite labor-management-citizens committee in Toledo for the settlement of labor disputes. The plan has been copied in other cities.

Leonard an Old Timer

Leonard, like Thomas, is an old-timer in union affairs. He directed the first successful strike in the auto industry at the Detroit Hupmobile plant in 1933 and is best known as national director of the union's Ford department.

En route to the convention he told a reporter he believed his worst blunder from a union political standpoint was his refusal to call Ford workers out on strike during recent contract negotiations.

But he said it would have been a "crime against the workers." The dispute was settled less than 12 hours before the strike deadline.

Livingston served four terms as president of a St. Louis local union and five years on the UAW international executive board but was the least known major candidate to come before the convention.

Wagstaff Again

Man Seized In Holdup of Cab Driver

Wagstaff

Free on bail after a previous brush with police, a 23-year-old Chevy Chase, Md., man was arrested here yesterday on a fugitive warrant charging him with taking a one-armed District hacker's cab at gunpoint.

The suspect, Joseph A. Wagstaff, 5506 Groves st., was charged with forcing Lawrence T. Weatherly from his cab after Weatherly had driven him home early yesterday from a District night club.

On September 16, Wagstaff was shot and wounded by police after he had broken into a Chevy Chase home he said he thought was his own. Police said he threatened the occupants and barricaded himself against police when they arrived.

Admits Owning Pistol

Wagstaff was arrested at 7 a. m. yesterday by Scout Cruiser Patrolmen Walter L. Brown and James H. Knott acting suspiciously in an automobile in front of 3346 Tennyson st. nw. Three hours earlier, the two patrolmen had found Weatherly's taxicab abandoned in the 6200 block of Western ave, nw., with a pistol and a man's coat on the front seat. Wagstaff, they said, admitted the property was his.

The cab driver told Montgomery County police he picked up his fare outside a downtown Washington night club and drove him to the Chevy Chase address. The passenger, he said, went inside and returned with a pistol. He said he was forced out of the cab around the corner at Kirkside dr. and Oliver st.

Wagstaff, held on a fugitive warrant, refused to waive extradition. He will have an extradition hearing today in District Court.

Psychiatric Care Indicated

For the September 16 set-to with police, Wagstaff was freed under $1000 bond pending grand jury action on a housebreaking charge; was fined $25 on a charge of assaulting an officer, and was given 30 days in jail on a charge of destruction of private property.

His attorney, Thomas J. Ahearn, filed appeals on the latter two charges, and an additional bond of $200 was set pending action on the appeals. Prior to arraignment on the September 16 charges, the State's Attorney's office had "tentatively agreed" to withdraw the charges if Wagstaff's family would guarantee him psychiatric care, police said.

Wagstaff, who received a medical discharge from the Navy about two years ago, was convicted by a jury in Las Vegas, Nev., last year of shooting a friend six times over a gambling debt, police said. He served a one-year term.

Capt. James F. McAuliffe of Bethesda, Md., police, declared last night he would seek immediate indictment of Wagstaff on the armed robbery charge from the Montgomery County grand jury now in session.

Chest Clinic Proposed at G. W. Hospital

Proposed establishment of a thoracic clinic at George Washington University Hospital, for diagnosis and treatment of chronic chest diseases, was revealed here yesterday.

The clinic, designed to become the tuberculosis treatment center of Washington, would be operated by the hospital with cooperation of the Tuberculosis Association of Washington, D. C., and the District Health Department.

Board Approves Plans

Plans for its establishment were approved Tuesday night by the hospital board of directors, according to Dr. James J. Feffer, university professor of thoracic diseases, who proposed the special clinic.

Under the proposal, the clinic would begin operation some time after April 1, the beginning of the fiscal year of the Tuberculosis Association. The association has been asked to share costs to the extent of about $10,000 annually.

Edward K. Funkhouser, executive secretary of the association, reported yesterday that the clinic plans were "favorably considered" at the monthly meting of the association's board of directors, also on Tuesday night.

Further Study Planned

"The plans were not accepted, as is," he declared "Our board will meet again on December 9 for further consideration. After all, $10,000 a year would put us in pretty deep."

Both Dr. Feffer and Funkhouser pointed out that the clinic would in no way supplant or interfere with the coming citywide chest X-ray survey. It would, they said, offer a secondary step for diagnosis and treatment of thoracic diseases uncovered by the survey.

The clinic would be established in the out-patient clinic space of the hosptial. It would utilize hospital. It would utilize hospital equipment, laboratory facilities and personnel, including an experienced chest physician and an experienced thoracic surgeon.

Rep. Gwinn Says Racketeers Boost Chicago Building Costs

New York, Nov. 12 (AP).—Representative Ralph W. Gwinn (R., N. Y.) of Bronxville, chairman of the special housing subcommittee of the House Labor Committee, declared today that "in Chicago the building industry is in the hands of real rough, tough dictators."

Gwinn, reporting at a news conference of the results of a three-day subcommittee investigation in Chicago, declared that "racketeers" are organizing "contractors associations" and that they "agree to deliver labor only to those contractors who belong to the associations."

He said that contractors must pay "an initiation fee" of $1000 a year.

"While the labor leaders say that they comply with the Taft-Hartley Act by putting materials in houses irrespective of whether they carry a union label," Gwinn said, "in effect they defeat the legislation against boycotting by working with the contractors who are members of the contractors' associations who refuse to buy material for construction unless it carries the union label."

The practice "excludes all prefabricated material" and other materials such as plumbing and electrical equipment, he said.

Gwinn asserted that as a result of these alleged practices the labor cost in house building in Chicago is 68 per cent of the total, while the balance of 32 per cent covers material and other items.

Gwinn said the subcommittee found building conditions better in Washington than in Chicago. He said he had been informed that costs in Indianapolis were lower than Chicago but that in Cleveland they were even higher.

Fredericksburg Ahepa Elects Stephanides

Fredericksburg, Va., Nov. 12.—Stephaos C. Stephenides of Quantico, was elected president of the Mary Washington Chapter, Order of Ahepa, at a meeting of the Greek organization at the Princess Anne Hotel here last night. District Gov. Spyros Versis, Washington, and C. G. Paris, Baltimore, past supreme treasurer of the national organization, spoke.

Themis Katafygiotis was named vice president, Paul Virvos, secretary and Nick G. Galamos, treasurer.

Hagerstown Almanac Predicts Stormy 1948

Hagertsown, Md., Nov. 12 (AP).—Besides being Leap Year and election year, 1948 will bring much snow, rain, windiness, and cloudiness, the latest edition of the Hagerstown Town and Country Almanac prognosticated today.

The 151st edition, off the presses today, said a cool summer will see only five hot and sultry days.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Here's Electrifying News for Former New Yorkers

New Yorkers who come to Washington have a tendency to look upon our city as a quaint rural retreat which in no way compares with the Big Town.

In many respects, they're right. But there's at least one category in which Washington makes New York look strictly minor league—and that's in the consumption of electric power by individual buildings.

For example, we have at least half a dozen Government buildings here which use more juice than the Empire State Building.

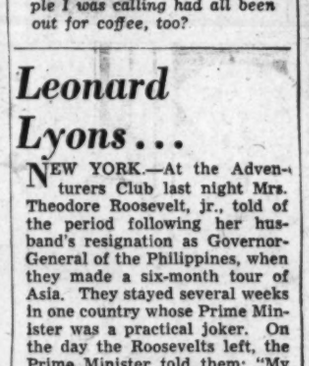
And even if they gang up on us, and call Rockefeller Center one unit, we still have them beat.

The Pentagon requires almost twice as much electric power as all of Rockefeller Center combined.

(Notice how stubborn I am? I'm still calling it the Pentagon.)

GIVE-AWAYS

"Two 7-week-old kittens. Are they cute? Look at the picture." (Randolph 5174.)



SOUGHT, CAUGHT

One of the Sisters of the Sacred Heart Convent at La Plata, Md., displays a lively sense of humor in passing along to us a clipping which reads:

"Four prisoners who sawed their way out of the Charles County jail early yesterday were caught by police in 17 States last night."

LIFE IS LIKE THAT DEPT.

Yesterday I had nine telephone calls to make, and I dialed all nine numbers without getting an answer.

Discouraged, I went out to get a cup of coffee. When I came back, I completed all nine calls without a miss.

Do you suppose that the people I was calling had all been out for coffee, too?

COULD BE

Hal Feyling of 812 K st. se. notes the news item which says that Morocco's canary seed is being shipped to France for human consumption.

"This," says Hal, "no doubt explains the continued excellent singing of such Frenchmen as Maurice Chevalier."

MORE ABOUT BIMS

Here's another reaction to Nancy Kenaston's plan for mobilizing British girls for the sending of CARE packages to devastated areas overseas.

This one is from Helen E. Christopherson, who speaks for the junior group of the English Speaking Union. She says:

"You might be interested to know that such a group has been in existence for a little over a year.

"Most of our members are war brides and their husbands, but we do not limit our membership to these categories.

"At the moment, we are engaged in collecting food and clothing for shipment overseas. Further information may be obtained from the secretary of our group, Mrs. Armond Chapaty, by calling Dupont 0329."

ILL WIND

Hear ye! While winds are blowing;
Hear ye! the talk of the town.
My worrisome old slip isn't showing
Since I lowered the hem of my gown.

W. C. Fahey

NEW LOOK?

On learning from one of our contemporaries that "the victim was clad in a sousecoat," Irving M. Marantz of 5123 2d st. nw. wonders whether this has reference to some new kind of cocktail frock.

ADD SIGNS

Clayton Stanley of 211 Leighton ave., Silver Spring, Md., is somewhat perturbed by the thought that the Nazis who used to make lampshades of human skin have now gone into the shoe business.

In a store window in the Northeast section, District Liner Stanley finds the sign: "Eskimo Hide Shoes."

THE WASHINGTON POST
Thursday, November 13, 1947

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—At the Adventurers Club last night Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, jr., told of the period following her husband's resignation as Governor-General of the Philippines, when they made a six-month tour of Asia. They stayed several weeks in one country whose Prime Minister was a practical joker. On the day the Roosevelts left, the Prime Minister told them: "My government wishes to present a gift to you." Then he gave them a box, and told them: "I want your word that you will not open this box until you get home to America." . . . They gave their word, and then Mrs. Roosevelt pleaded with him to tell her the contents of the box.

The Prime Minister smiled, and then said: "It's a pigeon egg. It has the proper wrapping, so that by the time you get home it still can be hatched." . . . The Roosevelts placed the box in their car, when they drove away. The ride was over a long, rough road, and at each bump the baggage came loose and was piled atop the box the Prime Minister had given them. "Oh, let's dump it," Mrs. Roosevelt suggested and then tossed the unopened box out of the window of the car, into the bushes along the road . . . A few years later they told the story to someone who knew of the Prime Minister and his practical jokes. He told them: "A pigeon egg? No. It must have been a pigeon-egg ruby. The Prime Minister always liked to make games in presenting his gifts." . . . "And the worst of it is," sighs Mrs. Roosevelt, "that I'll never know."

When Aldous Huxley first came to dinner at the home of Anita Loos, Miss Loos told her maid, Gladys, about the distinguished guest. She told Gladys of Huxley's eminence in letters, and of the scientific and academic honors won by the Huxley family. Gladys was duly impressed . . . At dinner that night, when Gladys offered the gravy to the guest of honor, she said: "Mr. Huxley, will you have some of the fluid?"

Leonora Corbett sat next to John Gunther at a dinner party, and they talked of wit and humor. Gunther asked her the difference between humor and wit. "Humor makes you laugh," said Miss Corbett, "wit makes you think . . ."

The New York Rialto Theater will change its policy on Thanksgiving Day: No more will fit specialize in horror films, but will become a showplace for the best foreign movies . . .

The Mufti of Jaffa brought his daughter to the first aid station of the Red Mogen David, Palestine's counterpart of the Red Cross, for a blood transfusion. After the transfusion the Mufti wanted to know the cost. "We serve all the people of the Holy Land, without distinction as to race or creed," he was told. "We do not sell Jewish blood."

Distillers Are Mapping Fight On Truman's Whisky Holiday

By Drew Pearson

While the American people are working hard to save food and send it to Europe, a significant thing is happening behind the scenes with the big whisky distillers.

Truman

They would throw conniption fits if they knew outsiders had found out about it, but they are quietly planning to send 20 field men out to soften up editors and sell them on ending the whisky holiday. The sales argument will be that President Truman double-crossed the distillers, whereas, if anything, the big distillers did (and are doing) their best to double-cross him.

After attempting to soften up the newspapers, the big four of the distilling business plan to have a greased lightning bill introduced in Congress to call off the "misguided" Truman's whisky holiday. If successful, the distillers will then go back to using 8,500,000 bushels of grain per month—as they did in October—or as much as they can get away with.

This columnist has now obtained a copy of the hitherto confidential propaganda bulletin prepared by Licensed Beverage Industries and the Distilled Spirits Institute. It makes interesting—and to anyone who doesn't know what's what—highly convincing reading. But it carefully conceals the fact that just before the whisky holiday, distillers were using grain at the rate of 100 million bushels a year. Incidentally, this amount—100 million bushels—is just the amount we need to make up the deficit of grain to Europe.

One interesting statement made in the distillers' confidential propaganda report is the amazing contention that:

"Processing grain by beverage distillers leaves 100 per cent of the feeding value for beef, dairy cattle, swine and poultry."

This is equivalent to saying that the distillers have learned the secret of making something from nothing—which they have not. When they make whisky they use up entirely the most important single constituent of the grain—the starch or carbohydrate content. This represents about 65 per cent of the grain.

Aid for the Navajos

The problem of poverty-stricken Navajo Indians has now been settled—though not to the satisfaction of the white residents of New Mexico.

The State of New Mexico receives a total of seven million dollars from the Federal Government to aid persons on relief, and the Navajos were supposed to get some of this money.

However, their plight resulted largely from the fact that they don't vote. Citizens on relief do vote, so most of New Mexico's 22,000 reliefers have been whites.

The showdown came when the Federal Government warned New Mexican officials that unless they took care of all their citizens—the Navajos as well as the whites—their relief grant from the United States Government would be withdrawn.

It didn't take New Mexican officials long after that to decide to take care of the Navajos.

From Exile to Ambassador

It was only a few short years ago that French Ambassador Henri Bonnet was leading a most prosaic life. He was a school teacher. Then came the first World War and Schoolmaster Bonnet left his books to fight as an infantryman on the western front—four years of it. He won the Croix de Guerre and then came back to do some thinking as to how wars could be prevented in the future.

That was how Bonnet happened to join the League of Nations secretariat, where he worked on various international projects until 1940 when Hitler's forces swarmed over France, and Bonnet escaped to England one jump ahead of the Nazis.

Bonnet then became part of the French government in exile. The Germans in those early days of the war were trying to bolster Midwest isolation in the the United States, and Bonnet was rushed to New York to help counteract their propaganda.

There he went back to school-teaching—this time, political science.

Finally, when De Gaulle got the French provisional government organized in North Africa, he appointed Bonnet the first French Ambassador to the United States, following liberation.

I Shall Remember

As long as I have life to hold . . . In moments bright or blue . . . I shall remember every dream . . . I ever shared with you . . . I shall remember all you did . . . To please and comfort me . . . And how you were the pattern for . . . Each golden memory . . . When I go walking or I stand . . . Before the fireplace . . . I shall recall how sweet it was . . . To kiss your loving face . . . To hold your gentle hand in mine . . . And gaze into your eyes . . . And hear you whisper secrets for . . . My heart to memorize . . . I shall remember how we dreamed . . . And waited for each dawn . . . Until I touched a shadow and . . . I knew that you were gone.
